Scarcely had the Atlantic left Liverpool with the news of the great successes which had taken place on the part of the Allies against the Russians, than further intelligence in reference to their position in the sea of Azoff had reached England.

From a despatch which had been received at the Admiralty from Sir E. Lyon, dated Kertch, May 31, it appears that the squadron in the Sea of Azoff appeared before Gentchim, and landed a body of seamen and marines, and after driving the Russian force from the place, had destroyed all the forts and vessels laden with corn and supplies for the Russian army.

Only one man was wounded since entering the sea of Azoff.

Four steamers of war, and 240 vessels employed in conveying troops to the Russian army in the Crimea, have been destroyed.

The Paris Moniteur of the 4th inst, furnishes the following from Gen. Pellissier to the Minister of War.

CRIMEA, June 1st.—We have sprung two mines in front of the Flagstaff Battery. The second explosion did considerable damage to the enemy In the ravine of Careen Bay, in advance of our works, our engineers discovered a transverse line of 24 cubic cases filled with gunpowder, each forty centimetres thick on the inside, placed at equal distances, and buried just beneath the sod; each containing 1-15 of a killograme of powder, is covered with a fulminating apparatus, which would explode by the simple pressure of the foot. These cases have been taken up by the English.

Later advices from the sea of Azoff state that the steamer Flotilla of the allies has destroyed about 200 vessels and 6,000,000 rations of corn and flour, destined for the Russian army at Sebastopol.

ARRIVAL OF THE ASIA.

The Asia, at Halifax, brings Liverpool dates to Saturday, June 9th, P.M.—3 days later than the St. Louis.

The news is of a highly exciting character. The bombardment of Sebastopol was recommenced on the 6th inst., and on the day the steamer sailed, a despatch was received dated June 8th, 6 P.M., announcing that after a fierce bombardment, the French attacked and carried the Mamelon and the White Tower, the greatest gallantry being displayed on both sides. The loss on both sides was very great, but no figures are given. This event gave great buoyancy to the public feeling, and caused a slight rise in consols.

STEAMBOAT COLLISION.—The steamer Worcester, of the Norwich line, bound to New York, came in collision with, and sunk a schooner, soon after leaving New London Sunday night.

The night was foggy, and so thick that a signal light could not be seen the boat's length ahead, and the boat was run slowly, sounding the whistle every moment or two.

The steamer struck the schooner amidships, and she went down instantly. The crew, consisting of the captain, four men, and one woman (colored, wife of the cook,) were saved by clinging to the rigging, with the exception of one man and the woman, who went down with the vessel.

She proved to be the schooner E. Baynard, 86 tons, of Portland, Ct., from New York, with a cargo of salt and cement for Norwich, Ct.

The steamer lay at anchor until her bows, which were stove, could be repaired, and then put back to New London, where she landed the crew, with the exception of the cook, who returned to New York. After the fog cleared off, at 3 o'clock A. M., she left for New York, where she arrived at noon.

The passengers, about fifty in number, made up a purse for the poor fellow, who was mourning piteously for his lost wife.

NEW YORK, June 19th.—Sentence of Mrs. Robinson.—The notorious Henrietta Robinson, convicted in the Rensellaer County Court, of the murder of Timothy Lanigan, was this P. M. sentenced by Judge Harris, to be hung on the 3d of August. At the conclusion of her sentence, when the Judge commended her soul to God's mercy, she told him he had better pray for his own soul, declaring she was a victim of a political conspiracy, which was calculated to crush a man. She was about to speak further, when her council desired her to remain quite. When about to leave the court room, she turned, and pointing her finger towards Judge Harris, solemnly exclaimed "Judge Harris may the Judge of Judges be your Judge." Considerable excitement was manifested by the spectators during the time occupied in the passing of the sentence.

FALL IN REAL ESTATE.—A few days since a spot of land, more elevated than any in the immediate vicinity, in Walworth county, Wisconsin, suddenly sank to the extent of about forty feet in circumference, leaving a small and very deep lake or well in its stead. The water has risen to within three or four feet of the surface of the earth surrounding it, and remains at that point.

As Capt. Jenkins, of the canal boat E. F. Jones, was lying upon the deck of his boat, in a slip at Albany, a plow fell from the wharf above, and the share struck his arm, severing it from the body as fairly as if it had been done with a knife.

SAGAMORE HOUSE,
FROST'S POINT, 3½ miles from Postam. Depots.
THE Proprietor of the above House respectfully announces to the pleasure seeking public that he will open for the season on WEDNESDAY, June 20th.
To those familiar with the locality of the Sagamore House, not a word is necessary in regard to its beautiful and healthful situation.—To strangers seeking rest and recreation by the seaside it affords attractions unequalled. Situated on a point of land on the Atlantic shore, near the Harbor of Portsmouth, the windows on three sides overlook the salt water. From the beach, the broad Atlantic, the Isles of Shoals, the beautiful Piscataqua, and the City of Portsmouth form a charming prospect, and in the background the green fields and leafy woods present a relieving contrast.
The House will be kept in the best manner, and every endeavor will be used to give satisfaction to its guests. The more effectually to do this, the proprietor has secured the services of MR. JOHN MACK, formerly of the Rockingham House, Portsmouth, whose experience and skill in hotel keeping will be a sufficient guarantee to all who know him that the management will be all that could be desired. The Table will be supplied with all the seasonable luxuries of the sea and land, and every effort used to render a sojourn at the Sagamore agreeable.
A Coach, in charge of an experienced driver, will run between the Sagamore House and the City of Portsmouth, two or three times a day, during the season, connecting with the several railroad trains. Fare 25 cents. All orders left at WM. R. PEIRCE'S, in Portsmouth, will receive prompt attention.

IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT —IN— Rotary Planing, Tonguing and Grooving Machines.

PATENTED NOVEMBER 21st, 1854.

THIS Improvement has been thoroughly tested and found to possess just what is necessary to perfect the rotary planer.

My machine will plane very much faster and better than any other now in use. I would particularly call the attention of those in want of machines for nice work, or for planing very thin, cross-grained or knotty material, to these machines, as it is impossible for them to tear or throw out loose knots.

My Clapboard Machine will plane and joint as fast as the clapboards can be put into the machine, and perform the work without setting them so as to plane with the grain, upon any quality of clapboards, in a very superior manner, without tearing the thin edge.

Applications for rights and machines, or for further particulars, can be made to the Patentee,
JAMES A. WOODBURY.

JUVENILE RASCALS.

The Manchester Mirror of the 16th says:—

Last Tuesday in the afternoon the 12th inst., there was stolen out of the trunk of Mr. Abner C. Darrah, of Goffe's Falls, four miles below this city, $130 in money and notes of hand valued at over $4,000, and other papers of value. Darrah's wife locked up the house and went out to spend half an hour with a neighbor about one quarter of a mile off. On her way she met three boys, but noticed nothing to excite her suspicion that they were thieves. After the money was gone, suspicion rested on them, at first from the fact that a little way this side of there they met an organ grinder and asked him to play them a tune, and the oldest one threw sand into his organ and then run. The organ grinder enraged followed him and would have caught him, only the boy ran round a house into a roller-way down cellar and hid, and could not be found. After the man had gone, the boy came out and the woman of the house saw him. She asked him what he was there for, and he told.—She had a long conversation with him and saw the other boys. He said they belonged to Nashua, had been on a visit to Manchester, and were going home. She was able to give a full description of them. Upon inquiry it was found that they had called at all the houses on the road, buying something to eat or drink.—Notice was given to the officers here, and search was made for them at Concord, Suncook, Lowell, and other places. Yesterday morning, Darrah was at Nashua when the train came in from Worcester and saw the three boys get out and come upon the street. They soon joined two others in play, and seemed innocent as lambs. He informed the City Marshal and had them arrested. They took the small boy aside and he confessed and told the whole story, which was afterwards confirmed by the others. They had spent $19 of the money, and had the rest about them.—The boys were Irish, one 11 years old, another 14, and the other 15. The smallest had $37, the next $48, and the largest only $26. He had paid the bills and spent more. His name was Jerry Donahoe, and has been in jail before. They were tried and sent to Amherst jail.

The little boy said that they called at every house, and when they found any one at home they made an errand. When they got to Darrah's, the two others told the smallest to sit by the road while they called. They found doors fastened, but one window unfastened, which they raised. They entered, went into the bedroom, broke open a small trunk, took out what was of value and cleared without looking further. They told the little boy to run. They made "leg-bail" for about 40 rods, and turned into the woods and counted the money, and took possession of it. The rest they buried in five different places near by—wallet, notes, pocket-book, purse and bill carrier, each separately. They went back to the house and came to the Falls depot, and waited for the train. They were cunning enough to secrete themselves on the train so that the conductor to Nashua did not find them. After the train came in sight, they paid their fare to Lowell. Hence they went to Groton Junction and Worcester. They had white hats on Tuesday, which they exchanged for caps during their absence, and one got another pair of pants, and another a different coat, showing they are old in crime if young in years.

Mr. Darrah considers himself fortunate in getting his property so easily. It was a bold operation for youngsters.

CRITICISM.—The New York Independent, in speaking of the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, of which paper he is one of the quasi editors, says that he is "a poet of nature, a minister of the beautiful, a critic of art, a rare compound of Shakspeare, Scott, and Irving, beautifully interblended."

A GATHERING OF THE CLANS.—The N. Y. Express says:—Among other queer things that have sprung out of the National Baby Show, is an "enterprise," the like of which, if successfully carried out, the world never has seen before. Several gentlemen, it seems, have associated together and subscribed $100,000, to be expended in getting together a "Congress of Nations," that is to say, living specimens, male and female, of every nation on the habitable globe, all in their native costume, except when they are nude. Great care will be used in selecting the finest specimens, and when convenient, preference will be given to such persons as play upon some instruments of music.

Such a study was of course never before brought under the eye of mortal man. The Congress of Nations will necessarily include all the various tribes of Indians in the world—Esquimaux, Japanese, Laplanders, Persians, Circassians, Turks, Arabs, Hottentots, Bushmen, Caffirs, all the Asiatics, &c. Some eighteen months or more may be required to make the entire collection, but interesting portions of it, it is thought, can be obtained at a much earlier period.

Yesterday forenoon, at Lower Black Rock, an iron bridge fell and smashed all to pieces. It had been put together and the workmen were just beginning to move it across the canal to its resting place, when something "gin out" or "caved," and the whole structure became a heap of ruins. The name of the man who was superintending the job was Whipple. The damage done, as nearly as we could ascertain, in the neighborhood, amounts to $1,000. A German named Cooper, a spectator, who was either under or near the bridge at the time of its falling, had his leg broken in two places. The person the men were at work upon it Sunday was, that there were no boats passing on that day, and the work could in consequence, be done expeditiously and without danger to boats which might, on other days, be passing beneath.—Buffalo Commercial Advertiser.

Morning Chronicle.

FRIDAY, JUNE 22, 1855.

BLUFFING OFF.

Our readers doubtless recollect some circumstances of the death of the late Elijah Willis, in Cincinnati. Mr. Willis was a wealthy South Carolina planter, and died suddenly as he was landing from a boat in Cincinnati for the purpose of liberating a mulatto woman who had lived with him as his wife, and her six children. By his will he bequeathed them all his property in South Carolina, amounting to some $150,000, and named Messrs. A. H. Earnst, Edward Harwood, and John Joliffe, his executors.

The Boston Journal says that Mr. Joliffe, who is now the only acting executor, the others having declined to take any part in the affair, is a distinguised lawyer of Ohio. He is directed by the will to sell the real and personal estate of Mr. Willis, collect all debts coming to him, and invest the proceeds in real estate of Ohio, for the benefit of Amy, the mulatto woman, and her children. The determination which he has expressed to fulfil faithfully, to the letter and spirit, all the duties devolving upon him as executor, has excited the indignation of some of the ultra Southern papers, and the Charleston Standard publishes a fiery piece, closing with the following paragraph.

The other two individuals (names forgotten) mentioned in the will, have positively declined having anything to do with the affair, and wisely we opine. Joliffe, however, is a high prince among the abolition, free soil, mongrel fanatics of Ohio—his reputation is at stake, and he must push matters as far as the rabid hellions can desire. If he recoils his name is ruined, his unsullied philanthropic character forever tarnished—the lustre of his former glories obscured—and the anathemas of abolitiondom heaped upon his remotest posterity. These considerations weigh heavily with him, and therefore he comes on in a few weeks to execute the diabolical will of a man, whose better judgment had forsaken him, or who must have been laboring under mental derangement when this unjust, unreasonable and disgraceful instrument was concocted and consummated. Joliffe, a rank abolitionist, comes to Barnwell District, in the State of South Carolina, to carry into effect the will of a simple old man—which will, in substance, conflicts with the dearest principles and most cherished institutions of our already injured and insulted State.

What will be done, we shall see when the time comes. For the present, let us point out a few beauties of the extract.

In the opinion of the Standard, it is diabolical for a man to give his property to his wife and children. But they are colored. To be sure they are, taking their tinge from Southern amalgamation.

The dearest principle, and most cherished institution of which the Standard speaks, is nothing more nor less than chattel slavery; and the poor State of South Carolina is injured and insulted by an act of tardy, half way justice, done by one of her own children!—How dreadful! "Ye that have tears, prepare to shed them now."

THE WAY IT WORKS.—The other day, a person arrested for drunkenness and brought before our Police Court, fearing, as he afterwards said, that he should be sentenced to the House of Correction, disclosed that he had purchased liquor of Mr. Abner Lane, grocer, and was discharged upon his own recognizance, to appear as an evidence against Mr. Lane. When Mr. Lane was brought up for examination for violation of the liquor law, the witness had disappeared, thus entirely escaping the punishment of his misdemeanor; and it seemed from other testimony that Mr. Lane was not guilty, and was accordingly discharged. Indeed, the witness is reported to have confessed that he only charged it upon the defendant as it was necessary to disclose upon somebody.

It is a very curious circumstance, that any miserable loafer, arrested for drunkenness in the streets, may be permitted and induced to charge respectable persons with violation of law, and possibly cause their imprisonment in Jail, or House of Correction, and by a repetition of the charge, in the State Prison.—Some persons might be able to prove their innocence, while others might be left at the mercy of one or more miserable villains, to suffer infamous punishment, when perhaps they had been sworn against for withholding liquor from the very men who were evidences.—Newburyport Herald.

This does look badly;—but we believe the law provides that the magistrate may, not must, accept and act upon the drunkard's testimony.

BOSTON LIQUOR CASES.—The cases of Rice, Parker and Stevens, came up on Thursday in the Boston Municipal Court.

Mr. Goodrich, for the defendants, moved their discharge, on six pleas, but Judge Hoar overruled them all,—the defendants all plead not guilty,—and Rice's case was postponed to the July term.

ABSCONDED.—Mr Thomas J. Plumer, the late landlord of the Maverick House, East Boston, has, with his wife and baggage, been missing several days. Previous to his disappearance he had collected all the money due to him, and had left unsettled several important bills, amounting in the aggregate to five or six thousand dollars. One gentleman loses fifteen hundred dollars by his dishonesty.

THE STAGE.

Five and twenty years ago, some gentlemen of Portsmouth purchased an old meeting house, which had been used first by the Universalists, and afterwards by the Methodists, but was then empty. At a considerable outlay they altered it into a theatre,—and as usual advertised to give a prize for an Opening Address in Rhyme.

One fine summer morning lately, Uncle Toby woke up almost as much a surprized man as Gen. Pierce was when he got the nomination, to find himself the author of one of the Rejected Addresses. A friend, who was connected with the theatre corporation, had saved the veritable document; and here it is, as a witness of the writer's notions then, as to what a theatre ought to be. He had little idea at the time that it would be accepted; and in the mean time had forgotten every line of the piece, barely remembering the fact that he wrote something.

Friends of the Stage! whose bounty brings us here,
Whose taste sustains us, and whose smile can cheer,—
Grant us the smile, to-night, our hearts to warm,
Of Manhood's Strength and Modest Beauty's charm:
Give us th' approving look, when Virtue's face
Shines brighter, as reflected with the grace
Of noble action, and well spoken words,
Of Heroes, Statesmen, Ladies fair, or Lords:
Give us th' indignant frown, as frown you must,
When we exhibit characters unjust,
Or strip from grave hypocrisy her mask,
Or lash the vices of the age. We ask
A look at others' faults, perchance, our own
Mistakes may mend: and he, who came to pass
An idle hour, may see, as in a glass,
His ugly visage, and go home improv'd:—
Nay, some, whom sober lectures never mov'd,
And catch, from "thoughts that breathe, and words that burn,"
The inspiration of a purer fire
Than ever warm'd their hearts; may first desire
To do a noble act; to earn the praise
Of gen'rous deeds; to hear the grateful lays,
That rise from humble poverty relieved,
Or innocence from error undeceived;
From seeing vice and virtue, as they are,
The good may choose, and of the ill beware;—
May shun the precipice where others fell,

Say not, that here the milder virtues fail,
And modesty must blush, or wear a veil;
That here the jest obscene, or scandal rude,
Shall purity offend, or wound the good.
—Not so!—this "School of Morals," purer far
Than many schools of high pretensions are,
Must never lisp a word, or breathe a thought,
Or use a gesture, from which may be caught
The taint of Vice. But Virtue, in the dress
Of simple Truth, in all her loveliness,
Shall here stand forth: the Graces all combine
This spot to grace: that Muses here entwine
A fragrant wreath; and Melody of Sound
Shall fill the air; our joyous hearts rebound
With pleasures pure and free—"the feast of mind,"
Dividing from brute beasts man's higher kind—
The fruit spontaneous of that Noble Art,
Which 'mends the Manners, and improves the Heart!'

For the Chronicle.

SHALL THESE THINGS BE?

Messrs. Editors:—We were deeply pained in reading in the Chronicle of the 19th, a statement of the robbery (we can term it nothing else) of one of the crew of the Constitution, by a Portsmouth grog-seller.

There has been much said, and justly, too, of the villains from abroad, who have infested our city since the arrival of the Constitution; but here we are made aware that any and every day there are those in our midst so devoid of humanity, so immeasurably mean, that even the cost upon the back of the craving inebriate is seized in payment of the means of intoxication. Now when such circumstances as the above take place, and the hand of justice cannot reach the perpetrator, is it not time for all those who have the cause of humanity, and the welfare of our city at heart, to make strenuous efforts for the immediate passage of a law that will arrest the progress of so great an evil? —— W.

We would say to W. that the man who took the jacket, is not a shop-keeper at all, but a curb-stone dealer in the article, who paid three or four cents for the poisonous dose.—We have no law to reach him at present.

THE CONCERT by the Portland Brass Band, at the Temple this evening, we have no hesitation in recommending to the patronage of our readers. The Band is excellent for military or other street performances; and besides will exhibit some fine artistic playing for in-door entertainment. They offer an excellent programme. The Band is here to participate in the grand Masonic celebration, and the concert given by the Committee of arrangements—whose exertions to ensure a turnout worthy of our city's fame is such matters, certainly merit the best patronage.

COMMON COUNCIL.—The joint resolution providing for the issuing of city scrip to pay for the new high school passed—sent up for concurrence.

An ordinance in amendment to ordinance No. 13, increasing the pay of Assistant Marshals passed—sent up for concurrence.

ST. JOHN'S DAY.

The Masonic Festival of St. John the Baptist, will take place in this city on Saturday, June 23, A. L. 5855.

The Grand Lodge of New Hampshire, De Witt Clinton Encampment, and all visiting Sir Knights will assemble at Masonic Hall, at 9 o'clock, A. M.

Washington Chapter, and all visiting Royal Arch Masons will assemble at the Vestry of the Temple, at 9 o'clock, A. M.

St. John's and St. Andrew's Lodges, Portsmouth, and visiting Lodges, and all Brethren of Blue Lodges, will assemble at the Court House, at 9 o'clock, A. M.

GENERAL ORDER OF PROCESSION.

Aid.	Marshal.	Aid.
	Escort.

☞ St Andrew's Lodge, No. 56, Portsmouth.
Visiting Brethren not attached to any lodge present.
Lodges according to seniority.
Royal Arch Masons, not attached to any Chapter.
Royal Arch Chapter according to seniority.
Grand Lodge of New Hampshire.

The procession will proceed through Vaughan, Deer, Market, State, Water and Pleasant Streets, to the Universalist Church. After the services at the church, the procession will again be formed, and move through Pleasant, Court, Middle, Austin, Summer and Congress streets, when the several bodies will be escorted to the places from whence they first formed, where notice will be given of the hour of dinner.

B. F. WENDELL, Marshal.

☞ As we wish to help the Masonic fraternity "celebrate" the anniversary of St. John, on Saturday, we shall print no Chronicle on Monday next.

ROBBERY AND MURDER.—Hartford, Ct. June 20.—William B. Silloway, Esq., was robbed here on Saturday evening last of $16,000, and Mr. Allen, his companion, murdered. Mr. Silloway received but little injury. John A. Wilson, one of the robbers who was wounded and has since died, stated that he, with B. Watson, Sam McCleary, and A. J. Tirrell, had followed Silloway from Baltimore, where they saw him receive a large amount of money, but not having a chance to rob until they reached this place.—Officers are in pursuit of the robbers, and Silloway is stopping at Lydia H. Sigourney's. He offers $5,000 for the recovery of the property.

The above, from the Boston Bee is irreconcileable, in some respects, with well known facts. Watson and Tirrell were arrested in this city on Friday, and locked up in jail, where they staid until Monday noon, when we saw them face to face in our Court House.

EVEN SAILING.—Ships Midnight, Capt. Hatch, and Wild Rover, Capt. Taylor, which arrived at Boston, June 20, both sailed from Calcutta on March 1, and passed Sands Head on the 4th.—Traveller.

The Midnight was built at this port, and was called a half-clipper.

The Wild Rover is a full clipper, and about 300 tons larger than the M., so that the race was an uneven one, in which the Midnight came off first best.

A letter received in Newburyport from Medina, N. Y., says the grain crop in that vicinity looks finely, and there is every prospect of a bountiful harvest.

Removal.

JAMES LARRABEE would respectfully inform his friends and the public, that for the better accommodation of his business he has taken the commodious Store in the GAZETTE BUILDING, No. 30 Daniel Street, Opposite the Post Office, where all orders for HARNESSES, SADDLERY, &c., will receive prompt and careful attention. je22

GOOD MEDICINES.

It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchits, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.

Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.

Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only write it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.

These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbors and your own Physicians.

Try them once and you will never be without them.

DEAD SHOT FOR BED BUGS.

A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it twists them up and lays them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees.

It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a neat tidy housewife. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is incalculable.

Called down "blessings upon the head of the man who first invented sleep." How much more worthy such honorable distinction would he consider the inventor of the Dead Shot, who, by his Pungent and Deadly Preparation, has rendered utterly impossible the ancient bloody forays of such 'intolerable and not to be endured' tormentors; and who has enabled every one to guarantee to himself his own particular share of "tired Nature's sweet restorer."

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEGISLATURE.

WEDNESDAY, June 20.

SENATE.—Mr. Bufford, from the committee on the Judicary, reported a new draft of the bill relating to an alteration of the times of holding the terms of the court of common pleas, which was read three times and referred.

Bills read and referred—To the Committee on the Judiciary.—A bill providing that religious societies may hold personal property exempt from taxation, to an amount not exceeding $3000.

To the committee on Incorporations.—Bills to establish the city of Dover; to incorporate the Concord Steam Mills; to incorporate the Mercantile Library Associatton at Portsmouth and the bill to amend the act incorporating the Concord and White Mountain Telegraph Company.

To the committee on Railroads.—A bill to extend the time for completing the Great Falls and Conway Railroad.

HOUSE.—Mr. Rollins of Concord, from judiciary committee, reported that it was inexpedient to legislate on the subject of the resolution in relation to the property of married women, and the report was accepted.

The following resolution was read twice, and ordered to a third reading:

That Sarah D. F. Young, widow of Gen. Ira Young, late of Lancaster, deceased, be allowed the sum of $541,88, in full, for interest due on the balance of said Ira Young's account for services, pay, rations and subsistence as Colonel of the 34th Regiment of N. H. Militia, in repelling invasion and suppressing insurrection at the Indian Stream, in the county of Coos, in the year 1835, said sum to be for the use and benefit of said Sarah and the children of Gen. Ira Young, in equal proportions.

Read a third time and passed.—Bills—to incorporate certain persons by the name of the Society of Theological Research, at New Hampton; to incorporate the Mercantile Library Association at Portsmouth; in amendment of an act entitled "An act to incorporate the Concord and White Mountain Telegraph Company;" to extend the time for completing the Great Falls and Conway Railroad; to establish the city of Dover; relating to the connection of railroads; to incorporate St. Paul's School; to amend the act entitled "An act to constitute the Portsmouth and Dover railroad;" to incorporate the Concord Steam Mills.

Mr. Marsh of Exeter moved the adoption of the following preamble and resolution:—

Whereas, a bill granting 12 millions acres of public lands to be apportioned pro-rata among the several states of the Union, for the benefit of the indigent insane, passed the U. S. Senate at the late session of Congress by a vote of 25 yeas to 12 nays, and the House of Representatives by a vote of 81 yeas to 53 nays, yet failed to become a law in consequence of the veto message of the President of the United States—

Resolved, therefore, by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives be requested, to use all consistent and constitutional means to effect the passage of an act simalar to that above mentioned.

Mr. Sinclair of Bethlehem called for the yeas and nays on the question of the passage of the resolution, and they were taken, when 283 voted for and 82 against the resolution and it was adopted.

On motion of Mr. Kittredge of Canaan, (the Chairman,) the committee on that portion of the Governor's Message which relates to the traffic in intoxicating liquors, had leave to sit during the session of the House. The reason assigned by Mr. K. was, that sundry lengthy bills were before the committee, which they were not able to consider in a proper manner, by meeting at an odd hour now and then—many of the members being on other committees of the House.

Committee on Reform School.—The Speaker appointed the following gentlemen a committee on the subject of the projected State Reform School:

Messrs. Edwards of Keene, Pendexter of Portsmouth, Eastman of Conway, Rollins of Concord, Hooper of Somersworth, Smith of Peterborough, Shackford of Barnstead, Wilder of Charlestown, Kinsman of Hanover and Burbank of Gorham.

Concord, N. H., June 20th.—The Committee, it is said, have refused instructions from the State Temperance Association, as to the adoption of the law approved by that body; and will report a bill more consonant with the public feeling.

The above item appeared in the Boston evening papers of the 20th—and we copied it on the morning of the 21st; but the Concord papers of the 21st do not mention it. It is merely a mare's nest. The Temperance Committee in the General Court, have the bill of the State Temperance Association before them—and lots of other bills. They will, from the whole, report such an one as a majority of the committee agree upon, without dictation from anybody. But there is no reason to believe that any special instruction has been offered.

PATENT CHIP BAKER.

Three Sizes, for Summer or Winter. $5.00, $5.50 and $9.00.

A complete Relief from the Oppressive Heat of a Stove or Range.

THE Merits of this Article are too well known to require a lengthy description. It performs the work of Stove or Range, and Bakes quicker than either, and requires but one quarter the fuel. It has a Large Oven, and by an ingenious arrangement the Hot Air is carried around it at pleasure, so that it bakes in the most perfect manner, while at the same time the Boilers are placed directly over and close to the fire. On the top, which is flat, Irons are heated admirably, if required, and kept clean. It is made entirely of Iron, consequently is very durable; requires but little room, may stand in the open fire-place, (in Summer) or be placed parallel with the Range, and work it. It burns either Wood, Bark, Chips or Charcoal, and may be adapted to almost any place. Try it: it is sure to please.

"He Died of Brokers, Sir."—The following, from an exchange, is worthy of a place in Poor Richard's Almanac:

He did not die of cholera—he died of brokers, sir! said a man to us yesterday, speaking of the death of his friend. He projected an unwise improvement of a piece of real estate—made loans, covered himself with bonds and mortgages—and finally incurred a 'street debt' of $2,000, which rapidly rolled up to $8,000, and crushed the life right out of him. He borrowed Canada money on call, to be paid in current funds—got paper discounted payable in seven days in the city of New York—borrowed Ohio and Kentucky currency for one day, returnable in notes of Buffalo banks—shinned it from street to street, and friend to friend, to keep the debt ahead of him. Why, sir, I could not sit down to consult with him, or do any kind of business with him, with the assurance that he would not jump up suddenly to go out and give another shove to that accursed debt. The memorandum book of his obligations was always in his bosom, and, sir, it burned to the poor man's heart. He was owned by brokers. He worked for them, he lived for them, and died for them. He did not die of cholera at all, sir. He died of a street debt, upon which he expended his strength every week in throwing it ahead from one day to seven days.

IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT

—IN—

Rotary Planing, Tonguing and Grooving Machines.

PATENTED NOVEMBER 21ST, 1854.

THIS improvement has been thoroughly tested and found to possess just what is necessary to perfect the rotary planer.

My machine will plane very much faster and better than any other now in use. I would particularly call the attention of those in want of machines for nice work, or for planing very thin, cross-grained or knotty material, to these machines, as it is impossible for them to tear or throw out loose knots.

My Clapboard Machine will plane and joint as fast as the clapboards can be put into the machine, and perform the work without sorting them so as to plane with the grain, upon any quality of clap boards, in a very superior manner, without tearing the thin edge.

Applications for rights and machines, or for further particulars, can be made to the Patentee,

JAMES A. WOODBURY.

BREADSTUFFS.

The Newburyport Herald infers from an examination of the table of receipts from the interior on the Hudson river, that the high prices fail to bring forward the usual quantity of agricultural produce brought to market at this season,—and remarks:

This must be conclusive to those, if there are any such, who have continued to doubt in regard to the great deficiency of the last harvest in the United States. Another such deficient harvest, especially if the crops should be short in England and France, would realize old scenes of famine which are recorded in history, and even full crops now will not bring a low standard of prices.

It has happened fortunately that while our last harvest was deficient, those of Great Britain and France were very large. The small quantity of flour and wheat exported to Great Britain the past year, is hardly realized. Since the first of September last, only 135,306 bbls of flour have been exported against 1,731,030 bbls in the same time last year, and only 194,225 bushels of wheat against 5,538,011 bushels last year.

While we have had this great deficiency, the delivery of home grain wheat in the markets of Great Britain has more than doubled, being in seven months ending April 30, equal to 4,313,695 quarters of eight bushels each, against only 2,094,776 quarters last year.—And while the excess of British grown wheat has thus been 2,218,009 quarters, the decrease of imported wheat in the same time was 1,975,578 quarters. The deliveries of grain by the British farmers this year, have been worth $75,000,000 against $27,000,000 in ordinary seasons, a fact which points to the immense prosperity of the British agricultural interest.

LEGAL OPINION.—Chas. B. Goodrich, Esq. formerly of this place, has given a written opinion, against the Massachusetts liquor law, which is published in some Boston papers.—The Courier says, very truly:—

Many opinions upon this statute have been written by New York and Massachusetts counsellors, but the decision of the Courts to which the law is to be submitted, is of more consequence than any outside argument which may be presented by the ablest lawyers of the land.

Exactly so. Anybody may get an opinion from 'Squire Perley or 'Squire Goodrich;—and the more money they pay, the bigger the opinion. Some paper, we think the Telegraph, stated, the other day, that Mr. Webster, years ago, went off to the Supreme Court at Washington, with his opinion that a liquor law, then passed, was void—but ran against a rock called the Bench, which made shipwreck of his opinion, and spilt his case overboard. He kept hold on the wreck, and thereby saved his wages—but the owners got nothing.

MORE PLATFORMS.—The Lowell Courier contains the following statement, concerning a call for a public meeting, which is said to have originated with the order of United Americans, an organization within the Know Nothing ranks:

A platform of political principles, a kind of liberal, open, American Republican one, is now in circulation among our citizens, and seems to be very generally signed by the members of all the past and existing parties. The document provides for a public meeting as soon as the movement has been endorsed by a reasonably large portion of the public. The platform meets our hearty concurrence, and will doubtless be approved by the great bulk of our readers."

VALUABLE COWS.—A few days since, on the farm of Hon. Peter Lawson, in Dracut, we saw an Ayrshire cow, which has the reputation of being the finest formed cow in New England. His Alderney cow, Victoria, that with her heifer calf of two weeks old, has just been sold by Mr. Lawson for $325, is one of the finest animals we ever set eyes on; she last year produced 17 pounds of butter a week, of such quality that it sold quick in Boston at 50 cents a pound; 600 pounds a year is considered her average; her milk produces from 30 to 35 per cent, of the richest cream. There was sold with her an Alderney heifer calf 11 months old, for $125. These cows never eat English hay, their food being nothing but meadow hay, with two quarts each of shorts, night and morning. Mr. Lawson attributes to the use of English hay, the death of some of his most valuable cows, among which were "Medal," (imported) valued at $500, and "Jennie Deans" at $250.—Lowell Courier.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.—On Thursday morning, 31st inst., a large stone building in Iowa City, occupied in the upper story by the Reporter printing office, fell, burying beneath the ruins, four workmen employed in the lower story. The printers at work in the upper story heard the walls cracking and escaped. After the crash, the building took fire; the cries of the wounded could be faintly heard. By great exertions the flames were subdued, when it was found that the printing press had fallen upon one man and killed him. The other three were not expected to survive. The disaster was caused by the heavy rains of the previous night having undermined the underpinning of the cellar.

The Greenfield Gazette says it has recently come to light that the immortal Hiss was the veritable personage, who, at Greenfield, represented himself as "Anson Burlingame," and by the aid of that misrepresentation, and unfortunate change of linen on the part of Burlingame, cheated the latter out of his room and his bed.

Morning Chronicle.

SATURDAY, JUNE 23, 1855.

DEMONSTRATION.—The Eastern Argus of June 21 says:

We have already adverted to the testimony taken before the Coroner's Inquest, which demonstrates the illegal calling out of the militia by Mayor Dow.

If it was demonstrated that the firing and killing were illegal, then Mayor Dow is guilty of murder. The Argus evidently takes this view of it, for a little lower down in the same article it speaks of

But this is the merest child's play in the world. If the editor of the Argus and his friend Clifford believed these last two lines which we have copied, they would not have the murderer going at large, and acting as mayor—but in jail, on a charge which admits of no bail, and on a complaint which any citizen can make before any justice, without an hour's delay, or a cent's worth of cost to himself.

But have they done it? No: twenty days have elapsed—and all we get is newspaper talk. The "illegal calling out" of the militia, is a mere quibble. Neal Dow's orders to the military, as the Argus says,

Were drawn up and issued under a Statute which had been repealed more than seven years before. * * * * * *

It was clearly shown that he ordered them on duty to suppress the mob, under and by virtue of the law of 1841, with all the provisions of which he scrupulously complied; having the very law before him at the time, and ordering Capts. Green and Roberts into service, in the precise words of that Statute.

Well, what of it? There is no penalty for issuing such an order. If there is, why don't they enforce it? The new law about an armed police describes just such forces as were on the ground, without prescribing how they shall get there.

We have just read the testimony of Marshal Ring, given on Wednesday, June 20, as reported in the Advertiser, Argus and State of the next day.

He gives as reports of the oaths and curses, threats and acts, of the mob at the door.—They were not fit to be endured or acquiesced in, but to be resisted and put down. It was the duty of the chief of police to put them down. The single, simple question is and has been, on the homicide, whether justifiable or murderous.

Those who say the latter, and yet do not prosecute, convict themselves of making a charge which they are unable to sustain.

That they are not restrained by any very nice scruples, is manifest from the tall swearing of the three men who made the complaint on which the removal and row were intended to become a grand spectacle.

UNDER WHICH KING?—In regard to a call for a Whig State Convention in Maine, purporting to come from the Whig State Committee, the Kennebec Journal says:

As we have said above, the call purports to come from the State Committee, but no names are given, and we have the very best reasons for believing that the Whig State Committee never authorized any such proceeding. Since the call made its appearance, we have conferred, either personally or by letter, with nearly half the Committee, and not one of them knew that such a call had been issued, nor had they been advised of a meeting of the Committee; and we know that no such meeting was held. We are therefore warranted in denying that the call was issued by order of the Whig State Committee.

To this the Telegraph replies:

We infer that our contemporary is now satisfied that we were correct when we stated that the "call" referred to came from "the remnant of the Whig party which goes for rum and slavery," an assertion which it contradicted somewhat sharply at the time it was made.

It is quite a problem, what kind of Whigs!

AUGUSTA, Me., June 21.—The Democratic State Convention assembled here to-day.—Full delegations were present, and unusual enthusiasm prevailed. The convention was addressed by Ex-Governor Hubbard, Hon. Geo. F. Shepley, David Dunn and others. The speeches were generally opposed to the Know Nothings, and the vindictive features of the Maine law.

Judge Samuel Wells, of Portland, received the nomination of Governor. He had 499 votes; scattering 11. The convention was harmonious.

It is a remarkable fact, that the Portland Second Jury of Inquest on the death of John Robbins, adjourned over from Wednesday to Friday, thereby giving all hands a chance to attend the Convention, which was, in their estimation, of more immediate consequence than the murder.

Judge Wells, the candidate for Governor, was the chairman of the Citizens' Meeting in Portland.

THE RECIPROCITY TREATY.—A special telegraphic despatch from Montreal to the N. Y. Times, dated on Wednesday, announces that the Canadian government have agreed to desist exacting duties on the barrels and boxes in which are packed articles free by the treaty.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEGISLATURE.

THURSDAY, June 21.

SENATE.—Recd a third time and passed.—Bills to extend the time for completing the Great Falls and Conway Railroad; in amendment of an act entitled "An act to incorporate the Concord and White Mountains Telegraph Company;" to incorporate the city of Dover; relating to the Peterborough and Shirley Railroad Company.

HOUSE.—On motion of Mr. Whittemore of Portsmouth, the several petitions presented for the removal from office of William B. Parker, Police Justice of the city of Portsmouth, were referred to the select committee on the subject of removing from office Rufus Dow, Sheriff of Rockingham County.

Reports of Committees.—Mr. Christie of Dover, from the Judiciary committee, reported leave to withdraw on the petitions of sundry parties for the suppression of seine fishing in Piscataqua river; and on motion of Mr. Lovering of Exeter, the report was laid on the table; that it was inexpedient to legislate on the subject of the petition of the selectmen of Rye, concerning sea walls, &c., and the report was accepted; that it was inexpedient to legislate on the subject of repealing the act of 1854 concerning marriages, and the report was accepted.

Mr. Paddleford of Littleton, reported that the consideration of the bill in relation to the Great Falls and Conway Railroad, and the several petitions relative thereto, be indefinitely postponed. The report was accepted.

The Insane Asylum.—The bill in relation to the Insane Asylum next came up on the question of a third reading. The bill appropriates $25,000 for the purpose of adding new accommodations to the institution for the reception and treatment of the insane.

Mr. Emery of Portsmouth, on the question being put, said that the sum sought to be appropriated was a somewhat large one; and he would like to hear from the committee that reported the bill, (after so much money had been spent last year on the institution,) why it was that so much was again required. After some debate the bill was laid on the table.

Read a third time and passed.—Bill in amendment of chapter 175, section 7, of the Revised Statutes.

Bill to incorporate the Plymouth Steam Power Company.

Resolution in favor of Sarah D. F. Young, for services rendered by her late husband during the Indian Stream War. This resolution went to a division, and was passed by a large majority.

Anti-Slavery Meeting.—On motion of Mr. Flint of Lyme, the use of the Representatives' Hall was granted to the Anti-Slavery Society for a meeting on Friday evening.

An address was reported to remove Joshua Atwood from being Sheriff of Hillsboro'.

Committee on Foreign Paupers, &c.—The Speaker announced the following gentlemen as the committee on the subject of the Rhode Island resolutions relative to the introduction of foreign criminals and paupers into this country, sent into the House by the Governor:—

Messrs. Eastman of Conway, Benton of Lancaster, Fowler of Hill, Durgin of Sanbornton, Walingford of Rochester, Currier of Derry, George of Hopkinton, Haywood of Hollis, Stratton of Swanzey, and Gregg of Goshen.

Mr. Hosford of Oxford moved an adjournment at 10 minutes past 4, which was negatived.

Mr. Benton of Lancaster, by leave, stated that there was nothing for the House to do, and committees had enough business before them; therefore he thought an adjournment not unadvisable. The House took the hint and adjourned.

☞ Godey's Lady's Book for July is promptly on our table, from Federhen & Co., of Boston, via J. P. Morse of this city. The Frontispiece is an engraving of Cinderella.—Then comes a splendid plate of Children's Fashions, and beautiful children as well as beautiful fashions.

Then a most laughable picture (true as life) of the Bonnet Maker's Dream. Daniel's visions were nothing like it. Then—but no matter, look it over yourself, and laugh. Read it, and be instructed as well as amused.

Frank Leslie, publisher, New York.

"LAW IS—LAW."—In the Massachusetts Supreme Court, Tuesday morning, at Boston, in the case of Betsey J. Sullivan, committed for a violation of the liquor law and failure to recognize on appeal, Justices Shaw, Dewey, Metcalf and Merrick, delivered an opinion that the 32d section of the Liquor Law, relating to an appeal, is repugnant, inconsistent with the Bill of Rights, unconstitutional and void; that it has no force indeed to repeal statutes inconsistent with its provisions; and therefore it leaves the Revised Statutes chapter 138, section 1, in full force, and the committal being in accordance with that section, is valid, though the commitment would be wholly unsupported by the 32d section of the new liquor law.

This represents the old law standing behind the new,—so that when delinquents get through a hole in the latter, the former may happen to hold them—exactly as it now holds poor Betty Sullivan in durance vil

A POSTSCRIPT.—The Boston Advertiser contains a communication describing Rockland, Maine, the State's Prison there, &c., enclosing this:

P. S. The warden informed me that more than seven-eights of the prisoners committed the crimes for which they are receiving punishment, under the influence, or through the agency of intoxicating drinks!

LOCAL.

ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST.

To-morrow, Sunday, June 24, is the festival day of this saint, in such churches as observe the Saints' Days. But to-day is to be kept as the festival day of the Masonic fraternity, who rejoice to reckon that "prophet and more than a prophet," John the Baptist, as one of their own fraternity, or at all events an exemplar worthy of their imitation.

Our little city, we take it, will not be a wilderness to-day, but will do itself honor and pleasure by entertaining and noticing the visiters from abroad, and enjoying an innocent and refreshing holiday.

The Grand Lodge of New Hampshire, De Witt Clinton Encampment, and all visiting Sir Knights will assemble at Masonic Hall, at 9 o'clock, A. M.

Washington Chapter, and all visiting Royal Arch Masons will assemble at the Vestry of the Temple, at 9 o'clock, A. M.

St. John's and St. Andrew's Lodges, Portsmouth, and visiting Lodges, and all Brethren of Blue Lodges, will assemble at the Court House, at 9 o'clock, A. M.

H. F. WENDELL, Marshal.

☞ As we wish to help the Masonic fraternity "celebrate" the anniversary of St. John, to-day, we shall print no Chronicle on Monday next.

RESCUED.—Our "neighbor over the way," Mr. Larrabee, the harness-maker, has at last been taken from "the wreck" of his old shop, and the little new one which served him as a temporary raft to better quarters, and is safely moored in Daniel street. The feat was performed according to the counsel of a gallant old sea captain, and without accident to any one. As our friend is now directly beneath the wing of that firm "friend of the working man's rights," the N. H. Gazette, and under the eye of the democratic custom house officers, post master, &c., it would perhaps seem reasonable to hope that he may in future be led to eschew the specious democracy from which he has lately received the boon of an office with more work than pay! At any rate, he has now command of a much better craft than ever before, and with a good crew, is prepared for sailing orders for anywhere "and a market," "with dispatch."

☞ At an executive session of the Board of Aldermen, held on Thursday evening, John H. Downing, Samuel Sherburne, and Benj. Meloon were appointed city watchmen, to fill vacancies.

STEAMBOATING.—The Newburyport Herald of Wednesday says:

The steamer Silver Star, with a party of invited guests, made an experimental trip down the harbor, Tuesday. Capt. Thomas Makinney has chartered the steamer for the summer, and will run regularly from Portsmouth, Exeter, and this city, carrying parties to the Isles of Shoals. Many improvements have been made by Capt. M., which will obviate the objections which were urged against the boat last year. Two large water tanks have been recently placed on board, to supply the boilers with fresh water, thus preventing the tubes in the boiler from becoming incrusted with the salt formation, and the consequent loss of power, which is always the case, where cold salt water is substituted for fresh. The steamer has been thoroughly overhauled, refitted and painted, and we have no doubt, under the management of so skilful and accommodating a commander, she will meet the wants of the pleasure seeking community.—We did not learn whether the invited guests took their great coats and mittens with them.

UNPARALLELED INSOLENCE.—We understand that Assistant Marshal Willey, who was convicted last Monday in the Police Court of a wanton and outrageous assault upon an unoffending Irishman, &c.—N. H. Gazette.

Not convicted—only bound over to a Court for trial, where there will be a Judge and Jury.

☞ William B. Randall, of this city, was elected Commissary General, by the Legislature in Convention, on Friday.

BRAVERY REWARDED.—Master S. K. Lothrope, Jr., has received as a present from the Massachusetts Humane Society, a silver medal, as a reward for his noble conduct in rescuing from drowning a son of R. B. Forbes of Milton.

Emma Snodgrass, the girl famous some years ago, for dressing in men's apparel, but then so regular in her habits that the police officers and the courts could not hold her in arrest, is now at Buffalo, living with the most abandoned of her sex. All attempts to save her have proved abortive.

A FALSE-SETTO.

Says Rossini to Braham, "I'll tell you one thing,
When you've lost all your teeth, Mr. Braham, how to sing."
"How is it?" says Braham. "Ah, mio diletto,
You must be alive your master, and sing in false-setto."

"And yet more medicinal it is than that rare Herb

GOOD MEDICINES.

It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchits, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are all good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.

Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.

Ayer's Pills are to thrust out disease, not only write it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.

These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbors and your own Physicians.

Try them once and you will never be without them.

Prepared by DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Ms., and sold by every respectable Druggist in New England.

DEAD SHOT FOR BED BUGS.

A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it curls them up and lays them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees.

It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a neat tidy housewife. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is incalculable.

SANCHO PANZA

Called down "blessings upon the head of the man who first invented sleep." How much more worthy such honorable distinction would he consider the inventor of the Dead Shot, who, by his Pungent and Deadly Preparation, has rendered utterly impossible the ancient bloody forays of such 'tolerable and not to be endured' tormentors; and who has enabled every one to guarantee to himself his own particular share of "tired Nature's sweet restorer."

THE HARTFORD MURDER AND ROBBERY. As certain presses, last evening, were pleased to hint that our account of the murder and robbery at Hartford, in yesterday's paper, was a hoax, we would state that Mr. Silloway, the person robbed of the $16,000, called upon us yesterday, and authenticated the statement, with the exception of the presence of the Albert J. Tirrell.

The money, we would also state, has been recovered. It was sent from New York by express, to Mr. Silloway at Hartford—valise and all. In the valise was a valuable manuscript, the material for a valuable work.—Boston Bee, 21st.

MANUMISSION.—Recently, an old gentleman from Georgia applied at a Court in Philadelphia for the proper papers to procure the necessary freedom papers for four slaves, father, mother and two children, which at much expense he had brought with him from his plantation. He stipulated that the matter should not get into the hands of the reporters, but it "came out." The papers were executed, the master and slaves seemed equally delighted at the transportation, and the latter refused to remain in Philadelphia, although he offered to establish them, but would return with him to Georgia, where they are to be paid for their earnings. The laws of Georgia do not allow emancipation there.

AN INGENIOUS NEGRO.—In Lafayette Miss., a few days ago, a negro, who, with his wife and three children, occupied a hut upon the plantation of Col. Rednes, was very much annoyed by fleas. Believing that they congregated in great numbers beneath the house, he resolved to destroy them by fire; and accordingly, one night when his family were asleep, he raised a plank in the floor of the cabin, and procuring an armful of shucks, scattered them on the ground beneath, and lighted them. The consequence was that the cabin was consumed, and the whole family, with the exception of the man who lighted the fire, were burned to death.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—A young man by the name of Emery West, went from Boston to Portland on Saturday evening last, and put up at a house on Plumb st. Sunday morning he left his room and went to the wharf and jumped overboard. He swam some distance from the shore, and was rescued by Mr. Rowe and taken in charge to be kept until his friends can come for him.

In his room were found two pistols loaded with slugs, and caps on. He says he belongs in Richmond, Me. He probably had delirium tremens.

Two young conscripts, recently arrived in Paris for enrolment in the army, limped very badly, and affected to have such malformation of the toes as would render them unfit for military service. The surgeon administered chloroform to them, and, on examining their feet at pleasure, found that the malformation which they complained of was artificial, they having resorted to this artifice to evade service. They were perplexed and mortified, on wakening from their stupor, to see that their secret was discovered.

THE CASE OF MARY WILLIAMS.—James G. Allen, of Palmer, the magistrate who ordered the return of Mary Williams, informs the Springfield Republican that she came to this country a pauper, and so remained up to the time of her return, and that it appeared from competent medical testimony that she was demented, and her proclivities such that in all probability the State almshouse might often be called into requisition by her as a lying in hospital. Also that she was sent over here from Ireland by her cold hearted relatives, evidently in order to get rid of her, and escape her support under her anticipated disability.

Years ago the old school masters used to set a copy which read, Circumstances alter Cases. If these last circumstances are real, the whole $1000 promised in Boston, will be wanted.

A New Haven paper remarks that, in that city, the Medical College is on the road to the Cemetery; the Divinity College on the road to the Poor House; and the Law School on the road to the Jail!

New York housekeepers are paying 35 cts. per pound for butter. The nicest quality may be bought in Portland market for 20 cents.

THE Proprietor of the above House respectfully announces to the pleasure seeking public that he will open for the season on WEDNESDAY, June 20th.

To those familiar with the locality of the Sagamore House, not a word is necessary in regard to its beautiful and healthful situation.—To strangers seeking rest and recreation by the seaside it affords attractions unequalled. Situated on a point of land on the Atlantic shore, near the Harbor of Portsmouth, the windows on three sides overlook the salt water. From the beach, the broad Atlantic, the Isles of Shoals, the beautiful Piscataqua, and the City of Portsmouth form a charming prospect, and in the background the green fields and leafy woods present a relieving contrast.

The House will be kept in the best manner, and every endeavor will be used to give satisfaction to its guests. The more effectually to do this, the proprietor has secured the services of MR. JOHN MACK, formerly of the Rockingham House, Portsmouth, whose experience and skill in hotel keeping will be a sufficient guarantee to all who know him that the management will be all that could be desired. The Table will be supplied with all the seasonable luxuries of the sea and land, and every effort used to render a sojourn at the Sagamore agreeable.

A Coach, in charge of an experienced driver, will run between the Sagamore House and the City of Portsmouth, two or three times a day, during the season, connecting with the several railroad trains. Fare 25 cents. All orders left at WM. R. PRESTON'S, in Portsmouth, will receive prompt attention.

PATENT CHIP BAKER.

Three Sizes, for Summer or Winter. $5.00, $5.50 and $9.00.

A complete Relief from the Oppressive Heat of a Stove or Range.

THE Merits of this Article are too well known to require a lengthy description. It performs the work of Stove or Range, and Bakes quicker than either, and requires but one quarter the fuel. It has a Large Oven, and by an ingenious arrangement the Hot Air is carried around it at pleasure, so that it bakes in the most perfect manner, while at the same time the Boilers are placed directly over and close to the fire. On the top, which is flat, Irons are heated admirably, if required, and kept clean. It is made entirely of Iron, consequently is very durable; requires but little room, may stand in the open fire-place, (in Summer) or be placed parallel with the Range, and work it. It burns either Wood, Bark Chips or Charcoal, and may be adapted to almost any place. Try it: it is sure to please.

THE SNUFF-BOX MAN.—The New York correspondent of the Albany Express says that "the snuff box was sent by the Emperor of France to Mr. Louis A. Depau. He is a son-in-law of Colonel Thorn of New York, and the husband of his wife's sister is the Baron and Count de St. Pierre, Equerry to the Emperor, whose wife was one of the Empress Eugenie's first maids of honor. Mr. Depau took his yacht, the Sylvia, over to Europe a year ago, and unsuccessfully contended for a prize in the British regatta. Mr. Depau will take legal means to recover his valuable present, which was intercepted. He resides in New Rochelle.

NICE LEGAL QUESTION.—In a case tried before Judge Hoar, in this city, a German Jew was called upon to testify. Now the way in which the Jew is sworn, is upon the five books of Moses, and with his hat on. While the witness was waiting for the book to be brought, he spoke to the Judge and made this inquiry: "Judge, (said he) if I was born of Hebrew parents and brought up in the Hebrew faith, if I am an American citizen and go to Theodore Parker's meeting, must I be sworn with my hat on?" We believe that the point was not pressed to a legal decision.—Boston Evening Telegraph.

IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT
—IN—
Rotary Planing, Tonguing and Grooving Machines.
PATENTED NOVEMBER 21st, 1854.

My machines will plane very much faster and better than any other now in use. I would particularly call the attention of those in want of machines for nice work, or for planing very thin, cross-grained or knotty material, to these machines, as it is impossible for them to tear or throw out loose knots.

My Clapboard Machine will plane and joint as fast as the clapboards can be put into the machine, and perform the work without sorting them so as to plane with the grain, upon any quality of clapboards, in a very superior manner, without tearing the thin edge.

Applications for rights and machines, or for further particulars, can be made to the Patentee,

GENTEEL THIEF.

Low life above is surely worse.

The daughter of an eminent Southern Senator has been for some time past visiting at an aristocratic house on Beacon street. The lady possesses rare beauty, and has figured largely at balls and parties, where she always has received marked attention. The position of the gentleman at whose house she is sojourning, as well as her father's rank, have of course admitted her freely to the highest social circles, and wherever she has gone, it is stated that she always has gained praise for her accomplishments and winning manners. It is stated that she wears very expensive jewelry, but nothing more perhaps than her station would justify. How some of that jewelry was obtained, we will now inform the reader.

One day last week this young lady, in company with the gentleman's wife, at whose house she is stopping, visited a large and well known establishment on Washington street, and examined several articles of costly jewelry. She remained some time, but did not purchase anything, promising however to call in again.

After she had left, the clerk who had waited upon the young ladies, noticed that a valuable diamond bracelet was missing, and informed the proprietors of the fact.

The same day the young ladies went to the most extensive jewelry store in Boston, and the sentorial damsel exhibited this very bracelet to the clerk in attendance and inquired its value. He recognized the private mark of he establishment from which it had been stolen, and thinking it a suspicious circumstance, that the owner of so valuable a bracelet did not know its worth, he shortly gave information to the firm from whom it had been abstracted.

Here the fact of the theft became apparent; and it so happened that the second establishment which the fair thief visited had a short time previous missed a diamond pin worth four hundred dollars, and it was thought possible that the same lady might have stolen both articles. Accordingly a member from each establishment repaired to the house on Beacon street at which she tarries, and desired to see the young lady.

She appeared, and marvelous to relate, she had on her person the identical pin and bracelet that had disappeared! There was nothing to be said in explanation or extenuation.—There was the thief, there were the stolen goods in her possession. A more flagrant or plainer case could not be imagined. The young lady was of course all tears and hysterics, and the other inmates of the house were all amazement and regret. The gentleman of the house offered to pay any sum of money, no matter how large, in order to have the affair settled. He was informed that money was not what was wanted. All that was desired were the missing articles, and these were immediately taken off and given to the owner. Thus ended the matter for the present, and it was confidently hoped that this aristocratic pecadillo would never see the light.

The names of the various parties are in our possession, but for certain reasons they are suppressed for the present. We have heard of other instances where jewelry has been abstracted mysteriously, and it is believed that the senatorial lady has wrongfully in her possession more than has yet been delivered up. We wait further developements in this strange affair.

What would this young lady's admirers say were they to see her in the criminal dock of the Municipal Court? And yet why should she not be there much more than a poor woman who has committed theft from necessity? We live in a strange land, and there are strange customs in it.

All of the corporation agents in Manchester, N. H., were once operatives, and all married factory girls.

ONE OF THE $50 TAX PAYERS.—That this is a queer world, and that there are some queer folks in it, is a fact which cannot be contradicted. Here is a case in point:—Not long since, most of the papers of this city published a list of the names of those who were taxed over $50. A few days after this list was published, one of the men whose name figured in the list, called at one of the printing-offices and enquired for a copy of the Daily which contained a list of the names above mentioned. After a search of some fifteen minutes, by one of the typos of the office, he was informed that the Daily of the date he wanted, could not be found, but that the Weekly, published the same week, contained the same list. As this was the only article he wished, he remarked that it was all one—he would take the Weekly. It was handed to him, and he proceeded leisurely to unfold a calf-skin wallet, which seemed plethoric with bills. Searching carefully its deep recesses, he, at last pulled forth,—one cent! He was informed that the price was three cents. The rich man paused, he looked a moment at the paper, and then at the fell wallet, and, as he slowly proceeded to close the latter, benignly remarked, "Poh! I had rather hunt up a Daily!" Query? Is it strange that some men get rich?—Manchester Mirror.

No wonder indeed that such misers save a little money. But in the mean time their poor souls shrivel up and fly away without being missed or mourned.

The Americans resident in Hamilton, C. W., purpose celebrating the coming Fourth of July by a dinner. They will no doubt be joined in the affair by many of the Canadians, as they are proverbial lovers of good dinners and old port.—Buffalo Courier.

Mr. Ebenezer Bickford, one of those injured at the town house accident, on Sunday last. He was about 30 years of age, and lived on Meredith Neck. His injury was in the ribs; but he had been in feeble health for some time previous to the fall.—N. H. Dem.

TUESDAY, JUNE 26, 1855.

ST. JOHN'S DAY.

Saturday was as fine a day for a public parade as could well be imagined. The showers of the previous night were just sufficient to lay the dust without making mud; and the temperature was that of a mild summer day.

The Free Masons turned out in good numbers and from various quarters, as will be seen; and the day passed off as one of the most lively yet orderly holidays we have ever witnessed.

The first delegation that reached this city, was from the way stations on the Portland, Saco & Portsmouth Railroad, and arrived at 7 1-2 o'clock,— the Portland brethren waiting for an extra train which left that city at 7 o'clock, and arrived here at 10. These two trains from the east brought about 200 of the Fraternity, and many others as spectators.

An extra train from New Market Junction brought down the Strafford Lodge, from Dover, accompanied by the Dover Brass Band. This Lodge, numbering about fifty persons, in their showy regalia of the various grades, presented a fine appearance, as they marched through the streets to the Court House, the place of rendezvous for the Blue Lodges.

The first regular train from Concord brought the Blazing Star Lodge of Concord, Rising Sun Lodge of Nashua, and Grecian Lodge from Lawrence, which latter was accompanied by the Lawrence Brass Band.

About the same time the first train from Boston arrived, and poured out its numbers to swell the crowd of celebrants. On this train was the De Molay Encampment of Knight Templars, Essex Lodge of Salem, Washington Chapter of Royal Arch Masons —accompanied by the Salem Brass Band, Warren Lodge of Amesbury, and King Solomon's Lodge of Charlestown.

The morning trains being now all in, the various bodies of Masons repaired to their respective places of meeting, and under the direction of Bro. H. F. Wendell, Chief Marshal, with the assistance of his Aids, (Bros. Alex. H. Rowe and E. A. Dresser,) were soon formed in their proper order.

St. John's and St. Andrew's Lodges, Portsmouth, visiting Lodges, and all Brethren of Blue Lodges, at the Court House.

The procession, numbering upwards of seven hundred, was composed of the following Lodges: viz.: from Massachusetts—Liberty, of Beverly; Grecian, Lawrence; Warren, Amesbury; Jordan, Danvers; Essex, Salem; King Solomon's, Charlestown; St. John's Newburyport. From Maine—York, Kennebunk; Saco, Saco; Portland, Portland. From New Hampshire—Libanus, of Great Falls; Rising Sun, Nashua; Strafford, Dover; Blazing Star, Concord; St. Andrew's and St. John's, Portsmouth.

Royal Arch Chapters—Washington, of Salem; King Cyrus, Newburyport; York, Saco; and Washington, Portsmouth.

Encampments of Knights Templars.—De Molay, of Boston; Trinity, of Manchester, N. H., and DeWitt Clinton, of Portsmouth; and the M. W. Grand Lodge of N. H.

Four full Bands of music were in the procession from the following places—Portland, Dover, Lawrence and Salem.

The procession was formed and marched to the Universalist Church, (agreeably to the published programme.)

The Exercises in the Church were:

1. Voluntary on the Organ.
2. Chorus.—"The Earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof."
3. Reading.—Selections from the Holy Writings — by Rev. Br. Henry D. Moore, of Portsmouth.
4. HYMN.—Auld Long Syne.

Behold! how pleasant and how good,
For Brethren such as we,
Of the "Accepted" Brotherhood,
To dwell in unity!
'Tis like the oil on Aaron's head,
Which to his feet distils;
Like Hermon's dew, so richly shed
On Zion's sacred hills.

For there the Lord of light and love
A blessing will with power,
Oh! may we all this blessing prove,
E'en life forevermore;
On Friendship's altar rising here,
Our hands now plighted be,
To live in love, with hearts sincere,
In peace and unity!

5. Prayer.—By Rev. Br. Holman, of Portsmouth.
6. HYMN.—Dort.

Thou! who art God alone,
Accept before thy throne
Our fervent prayer!
To fill with light and grace
This house, Thy dwelling place,
And bless thy chosen race,
O, God! draw near!

As through the universe,
All Natures works diverse
Thy praise accord;
Let Faith upon us shine,
And Charity combine
With Hope, to make us thine,
Jehovah, Lord!
Spirit of Truth and Love!
Descending from above,
Our hearts inflame:
Till Masonry's control
Shall build in one the whole,
A temple of the soul.
To thy great name!

7. Address.—By R. W. Bro. John H. Sheppard, Esq. of Boston, Mass. The address was interesting, instructive and valuable to the Fraternity.

The Orator maintained the Antiquity, the Religious, Catholic and Benevolent Character, the Architectural Skill, and the chivalrous Bearing, of the Masonic Order;—ascribing to it the preservation of much that was valuable, and the check of much that was pernicious during the dark ages;—and describing it as a supporter of christianity, a patron of civilization, a patriotic lover of country, and a charitable friend of humanity.

8. Chorus.—"Sing unto God."
9. DOXOLOGY.—Old Hundred.

From all that dwell below the skies—
Let the Creator's praise arise;
Let the Redeemer's name be sung,
Through every land, by every tongue!

Eternal are thy mercies, Lord!
Eternal truth attends thy word;
Thy praise shall sound from shore to shore,
Till suns shall rise and set no more!

10. Benediction.—Rev. Br. Holman.

The musical performances, by a large choir invited from all our churches, were of the most satisfactory character. Mr. Jas. H. Head furnished the music for the committee of arrangements,—aided by Mr. J. W. Clark, who presided at the organ with his usual skill.

After the services at the church, the procession returned to the several places where it assembled in the morning, and was dismissed.

A large number of the brethren, some of whom were accompanied by their ladies, then dined in Jefferson Hall.

The M. W. Grand Master of Masons in N. H., Hon. Ichabod G. Jordan of Great Falls, presided, assisted by several brethren as vice-presidents, and Br. Timothy G. Senter as toast-master.

1. The Day we celebrate—May its annual recurrence ever find our fraternity united in the bonds of peace and fraternal love.

2. St. John the Baptist—May his virtues flourish in the breasts of the thousands "of the mystic tie," who at this season celebrate his nativity.

3. The Illustrious Three, who in days of yore, held "sweet counsel together" at Jerusalem.

4. The Brotherhood—Wherever scattered abroad, "May peace attend the paths they go;
And light their steps surround."

5. The Memories of our departed Brothers, Washington, Franklin, Warren, Lafayette, and their Masonic Associates.

6. Free Masonry—A beautiful system of moral truth, veiled in allegory and illustrated by symbols. A full appreciation of its beauties can be acquired only by earnest and studious investigation.

7. The Vicious Free Mason—A moral anomaly.—Let every brother remember this, and govern himself accordingly.

8. The Religion of Free Masonry—Faith in God, hope in immortality, and charity to all mankind.

9. The Three Grand Supports of the Masonic Temple, Wisdom, Strength and Beauty—May the wisdom of faith, the strength of hope, and the beauty of charity be exhibited in our lives and actions.

10. Temperance, Fortitude, Prudence and Justice—May we ever walk within the perfect square formed by these virtues.

Many of the brethren then gave sentiments, of which we are able to furnish the following: the first was a call on the President of the day.

M. W., I. G. Jordan, of Gt. Falls, the President of the day, responded, and gave

The Masonic Platform—Erected the longest ago of which we have any account, and the soundest of which we have any knowledge.

By R. W. John Knowlton, G. Treasurer of the G. L.

The heart that conceals, and the tongue that never reveals

By M. W. John Christie, P. G. Master of New Hampshire.

J. H. Sheppard, Esq., of Boston, the orator of the day, in reply gave

The Ladies of New Hampshire—Their merits and virtues can never be neglected while Free Masonry flourishes as it now does in your State.

By R. W. John Christie, P. G. M.

De Molay Encampment of Knights Templars—Worthy representatives of the ancient Chivalry of the Temple; may they ever imitate the example and emulate the virtues of him whose name they bear.

By Sir Knight P. Adams Ames, G. Com. p. t. of De Molay Encampment.

Woman—Our love for, and devotion to Masonry is only surpassed by our love for and devotion to you.

By Sir Kt. Albert R. Hatch, G. Com. of De Witt Clinton Encampment.

Free Masonry—Temperance without fanaticism; religion without bigotry; patriotism without partisanship.

By M. W. Isrsal Hunt of Nashua, P. G. M.

The Cop of Perfectness—Its citizens are alike distinguished for their intelligence, enterprise and patriotism. They have furnished some of the brightest stars in the Masonic Constellation.

By Br. G. W. Ballach, jr. J. W. Libanus Lodge.

The Masonic Fraternity—A union not of States, but of hearts. May its principles "ever flourish like the green bay tree."

By W. Jacob C. Hanson, M. of Libanus Lodge.

Bunker Hill—The Mount Moriah of the West. May the Granite shaft rising from its summit ever perpetuate the virtues of our first Grand Master, who there fell by the hands of British ruffians, as the Temple of Liberty was almost completed.

By Br. M. H. Fowler, of St. John's Lodge, Newburyport.

The Masonic Fraternity of New Hampshire.—May they be as firmly attached to the principles of Free Masonry, as the granite of their own native hills is to their quarries.

By W. David Philbrook, M. of St. John's Lodge, Portsmouth.

The Masonic Fraternity.—May the time speedily arrive, when it cannot in truth be said that "they are not all Israel which are of Israel,"—but on the contrary, that every brother is plumb, square and level.

By Br. A. B. Currier, of Concord.

St. John's Lodge.—The oldest Masonic Light in New Hampshire. Like the liberal arts and sciences, and like the sun, it arose in the East and is spreading West. May its shadow never be less.

By Sir Kt. Benjamin F. Dean, of Boston.

The present age which sees the Cross and Crescent fighting together against wrong—May it result in the spread of the Christian religion.

By Sir Knt. Ben: Perley Poore, of Newburyport.

Blue Masonry.—

"To him that did the Temple rear,
Who lived and died upon the square,
And buried is, but none know where,
But such as Master Masons are."

Some pleasant sparring occurred previous to the above sentiment, between Sir Knights B. P. Poore, and Dean of Boston, in which the former maintained that the Turks entertained friendly feelings towards the Knight Templars at the present time, and that during the crusades, they acted the part of an honorable foe; and paid a high compliment to Saladin. The Buzzard that now occupies the Eagle's Nest (of France) he could not speak against in sufficiently strong terms.

Mr. Dean took the opposite ground—that the Mahomedans were and are unfriendly to the Knights, while the present Czar of Russia is a faithful friend to Masonry.

By Br. Moses Sweetser of Newburyport.

Free-Masonry.—May its future be as glorious and commendable, as its past history has been useful and brilliant.

The Day we Celebrate, and the Patron Saint John.

By a Brother of Newburyport.

Masons.—They will ever cherish and remember the principles of the Fathers.

Free Masons.—Faithful to the principles of Benevolence, Truth and Virtue.

By a Brother of the Bay State.

The Bachelors and Maidens of the Granite State.—May they speedily emigrate and enjoy the fair scenes and pleasant society of the Matrimonial State.

The entertainment at Jefferson Hall was free from intoxicating drinks,—but graced by the presence of many ladies.

Jefferson Hall was beautifully decorated with flags of all nations, emblematical of the general diffusion of Masonry throughout the world. The flags were procured from the Navy Yard, and belong to the U. S. Frigate Constitution.

Besides the general table described as above, there were other tables at Congress Hall, and at the Rockingham House. At the former were the DeMolay encampment of Knight Templars, from Boston, with ladies.

The Committee of Arrangements were Bros. Alexander H. Rowe, Nathaniel K. Raynes, Wm. P. Walker, Wm. Conn, Wm. H. Sise, Moses R. Hall, Alfred J. Hill—and the result shew that their duties, which must have been arduous, were faithfully performed. This was the largest and most brilliant celebration ever had by the fraternity in New Hampshire—and would doubtless have been more largely attended if it could have been held in the middle of the week.

The whole proceedings were highly satisfactory to Masons and agreeable to spectators.

☞ The person who lost a Master's Jewel and Collar can obtain the same by applying at this office.

☞ The Portland Brass Band gave a good concert at the Temple, on Friday evening, 22d, but owing to the heat and threatened rain, the attendance was small. Between the hours of ten and twelve on the same evening, Mr. Alexander H. Rowe, and ourselves, were favored by this Band with what the ladies would term a "divine" serenade, for which we hereby return our sincere thanks.

☞ The Confectionery Store of Capt. Clark, under the Chronicle office, was entered sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning, and oranges, figs, confectionary, &c., with about 200 coppers, were taken. The thieves must have been small boys, as they entered by a cellar window, which is not more than six or eight inches wide.

The store was probably entered on Sunday afternoon, as several small boys were seen about the market and on the fence of the yard back of the store, before meeting time.

☞ We are requested to state that the Committee chosen to number the envelopes in Small's great Engraving Sale at Dover, have completed their work; and the envelopes will be delivered on and after Wednesday, June 27th. Also that a few Shares remaining unsold, may be had on immediate application to the agents, or to Mr. Small at Dover.

JUDGE WILDE.—Hon. Samuel S. Wilde, aged 85, died at Boston on the 19th. He was an eminent lawyer and statesman, judge and patriot. He was a federalist of the Washington school,—and was said to be the last surviving member of the celebrated "Hartford Convention."

The New York Superior Court on Saturday gave an opinion, through Judge Bosworth, affirming the validity of Schuyler's over-issue of stock of the New York and New Haven Railroad.

PARDON.—The President has granted a full and unconditional pardon to Reuben Still, a negro slave, convicted of larceny in the Indian country, and sentenced to the penitentiary for a period of nine months.—Washington Union, of the 21st.

Old Folks Attend.

AGREEABLY to adjournment, the Old Folks will hold their next meeting for rehearsal at Exchange Hall, on THURSDAY Evening, at 8 o'clock

GOOD MEDICINES.

It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchitis, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.

Every body needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the disease which festers on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.

Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only while it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.

These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbors and your own Physicians.

Try them once and you will never be without them.

FRIDAY, June 22.

SENATE.—The joint resolution instructing our Senators and requesting our Representatives in Congress relative to the passage of an act for the benefit of the indigent insane, was laid upon the table.

[It contains some bad blunders, and will doubtless be amended by the Senate, and returned to the House, before its final passage.]

Bills read a third time and passed.—Bills to incorporate the Rockingham Ice Co.; the Manufacturers' and Village Library; the Concord Steam Mills: in amendment of chapter 39 R. S. Resolution that chap. 1562 Pamphlet Laws be repealed.

Mr. Christie of Dover, reported that the bill in reference to the laying out of highways in certain cases, be indefinitely postponed, which report was accepted.

Mr. Shannon of Portsmouth, from the committee on Education, reported a bill authorizing any town in the State to establish a high school, which was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Glidden of Charlestown, from the committee on Claims, reported a resolution in favor of Geo. W. Nesmith, Winthrop Pickering, Jonas Livingston, Mason W. Tappan and Aaron P. Hughes, for services rendered as special commissioners in the matter of the people of Lancaster and the Atlantic and St. Lawrence Railroad Company, and the resolution was read and ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Chapman of Nashua, from the select committee on the subject, reported reference to the Rockingham county delegation of the several petitions for the removal of Rufus Dow, Sheriff of that county, and the report was accepted.

HOUSE.—Some excitement was produced in the House this morning, by two incidents. The first was the reception of a communication from Joshua Atwood, the newly appointed High Sheriff for Hillsboro' County, stating that he had ascertained that his acceptance of that office operated as a resignation of his office of Representative in the Legislature; and that had he known that fact before, he should not have taken his seat. Mr. Sinclair of Bethlehem, immediately rose and re-moved that the resignation be accepted. It was, however, on motion of Mr. Clark of Manchester, referred to the select committee of the County of Hillsboro'.

The second was the introduction of a resolution by Mr. Pitman of Bartlett, that a message be sent to the Senate, requesting the return from the Senate of the resolution in relation to the granting of lands to the Indigent Insane. The resolution of Mr. Sinclair alleged that the resolution in question reflected discredit upon the House, since it displayed gross ignorance on their part. After a spicy debate of an hour, the resolution was rejected, 203 to 68.

[It would have been far better to amend the resolution, as to its tone, and then pass so much of it as to recall the joint resolutions for correction of errors.]

Bill read a third time and passed.—Bill in relation to the Great Falls and Conway Railroad.

Disqualification of the member from Bradford. Mr. Harvey of Epping, moved the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the committee on Elections be ordered to take into consideration that part of the 95th paragraph of the constitution of this State, which prohibits members of Congress, or any person holding any office under the United States, from holding, at the same time, a seat in the Senate or House of Representatives, or Council, and report by what right Mason W. Tappan, the member from Bradford, (who has received his certificate of election to, and is now a member of Congress) now holds a seat in this House.

The resolution was adopted and reference made according to its specification.

The House voted an address to remove Judge Starkweather of Coos, 173 to 46.

Both Houses adjourned to Monday P. M.

FROM CALIFORNIA.

A FORTNIGHT LATER.

NEW YORK, Sunday Evening.—The Steamship Star of the West, from San Juan, with $625,000 on freight, and 500 passengers, arrived this evening, about 9 o'clock.

The Municipal election of San Francisco on the 29th. ult., resulted in the election of Jas. Van Ness, Democrat, as Mayor, and four K. N. Aldermen were elected. The Assistant Aldermen also stood four Dem. and four K. Ns'. Five of the nine on the general ticket are democrats, and four are know nothings. The election passed off quietly.

The mining news from the State is of the most encouraging kind, and it is thought that at no previous time in the history of the State, has the yield of gold been as great as at present.

The reported defalcation of Angus Frierson, of Wells, Fargo & Co's banking house, proves to be correct. His deficits amount to $179,000.

The affairs of Adams & Co. are now before the Court, and it has been decided that they are entitled to no benefit of the Insolvent law.

The entire block of buildings, bounded by Davis, Commercial, and Sacramento streets, San Francisco, was destroyed by fire. Loss estimated at $75,000.

At a general meeting of the creditors of Page, Bacon & Co. on the 29th, Mr. C. K. Garrison pledged himself in the sum of $400,000 to support the house by way of securing creditors and staying further legal proceedings. The proposition gave very general satisfaction, and the creditors are looking forward with a renewed hope of being finally indemnified.

The papers contain accounts of an unusual number of big strikes among the miners, and the usual record of crime in different parts of the State.

Business has been generally quiet since the last advices, and the markets may be noticed as inactive. Prices are maintained, but the transactions are lighter.

Money continues tighter, and although the alteration in the time of the sailing of the steamers afforded a reasonable relief at the present time, it was thought the ensuing month would find many parties in an uncomfortable position.

Trade at San Francisco was dull, but the markets have undergone no change. Flour was still inactive with small sales at $6.50 for domestic, and $13 Gallego. Wheat had declined, and sales for export were being made at $1.87. Pork was rather higher.

1 DAY LATER FROM CALIFORNIA.

NEW YORK, 25th.—The steamship Geo. Law arrived this morning with the California mails to the 2d of June, $1,052,000 treasure on freight, and 714 passengers.

As the passengers by this arrival were crossing the Isthmus, when the last train conveying them had passed the summit, and was descending a very deep grade, the coupling of one of the forward cars became disconnected. This created a space between the separated cars, and upon the exhibition of a signal to stop, the forward cars were brought up, but the disconnected ones of course continued their velocity, and a severe crash was the result. Two or three cars were injured, and a man named Samuel Anderson, of New York, who was sitting on the platform, was killed.

GOV. METCALF'S AIDS.—The Adjutant General of New Hampshire announces that Charles A. Tufts of Dover, Edmund Brown of Lancaster, Josiah Turner of Sunapee, Stillman S. Davis of Nashua, Frank B. Brown of Manchester, and Charles S. Whitehouse of Rochester, Esquires, have been appointed and commissioned Aids-de-Camp to the Commander-in-Chief.

DEAD SHOT FOR BED BUGS.
A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it cuts them up and lays them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees.
It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a neat tidy housewife. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is incalculable.
SANCHO PANZA
Called down "blessings upon the head of the man who invented sleep!" How much more worthy such honorable distinction would be consider the inventor of the Dead Shot, who, by his Pungent and Deadly Preparation, has rendered utterly impossible the ancient bloody forays of such "tolerable and not to be endured" tormentors; and who has enabled every one to guarantee to himself his own particular share of "tired Nature's sweet restorer."

WHAT IS A LEVEE?—This word is greatly misused among us. Unless the President of the United States gets out of bed in the evening, it is improper to speak of his evening parties as levees. The word is derived from the court of France, at which it was the duty of certain noblemen to attend the king at his getting up and hand him his clothes, one presenting his stockings, another his shirt, etc. The name levee was given to these assemblages from the verb lever to get up. In the evening they attended to assist him in undress. These gatherings were called couches from coucher to go to bed.—Bizarre.

ELEGANT SIMPLICITY.—New York ladies only wear eleven flounces on their dresses at present, and no lady wears more than four bracelets. We have strong hopes of seeing the ladies plainly dressed, at least they have made one step forward.

There is a great deal of poetry about 'dying for one's country,' the glory of a 'death bed on the battle field' and all that, but statistical returns show that the great majority of soldiers die of the dysentery, which must be a very different affair.

Don't think of knocking out another person's brains, because he differs in opinion from you. It will be as rational to knock yourself on the head, because you differ from yourself ten years ago.

IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT
—IN—
Rotary Planing, Tonguing and Grooving Machines.

PATENTED NOVEMBER 21st, 1854.

THIS Improvement has been thoroughly tested and found to possess just what is necessary to perfect the rotary planer.

My machine will plane very much faster and better than any other now in use. Especial particularly call the attention of those in want of machines for work, or for planing very thin, crossgrained or knotty material, to these machines, as it is impossible for them to tear or throw out loose knots.

My Clapboard Machine will plane and joint as fast as the clapboards can be put into the machine, and perform the work without sorting them so as to plane with the grain, upon any quality of clapboards, in a very superior manner, without tearing the thin edge.

Applications for rights and machines, or for further particulars, can be made to the Patentee,
JAMES A. WOODBURY.

HORACE GREELY IN PRISON.—Horace Greely, (says the Paris correspondent of the N. Y. Commercial,) has been in prison for over 24 hours! He was arrested on the suit of an exhibitor of sculpture and such articles at the New York Crystal Palace; some of his wares were damaged and broken, and he came down on Mr. Greely as a stock holder and director, and therefore responsible.

The Tribune gives this account:

Mr. Greely was arrested at the suit of a sculptor named Leclerc. It seems that Leclerc had sent here a statue which he valued at 12,000 francs, for this sum he brought a suit against Mr. Greely.

He was arrested and brought before the proper Court, at about 4 o'clock P. M., on Saturday, and there the parties agreed to take as bail, for his appearance for trial, Mr. Piatt, the American Secretary of Legation. They then proceeded to the office of that gentleman, but when there the plaintiff suddenly refused to take him as bail, on the ground that his official station exempted him from arrest.

Other security was offered but refused; Mr. John Munroe agreed to pay in the money as guarantee: but this Mr. Greely declined, preferring to go to jail. Accordingly he was conveyed to the Debtors' Prison of Clinchy, where he remained till Monday forenoon, when a trial was had, and the tribunal dismissed the complaint and discharged the defendant. In this process Mr. Greely enjoyed the advantage of two days' experience in jail, and Mr. Leclerc the profit of paying the costs.

ESCAPED.—A prisoner named Joseph F. Emerson, made his escape from Sheriff Gale, on Tuesday of last week, as he was taking him to the jail in this city. He was in a wagon with the Sheriff and another person, the Sheriff sitting in the prisoner's lap. Just before reaching the jail, as they were going down a hill, the Sheriff holding hard upon his horses and thereby partially raising himself up, the prisoner pushed him suddenly forward, jumped from the wagon and put for the woods not far distant. The Sheriff started in pursuit, but the prisoner had so much the start that he reached the woods before the Sheriff could reach him. On his way, to facilitate his escape, he threw off his coat, hat and cravat—articles which he must have felt the need of during the cold and rainy night following.

Emerson resides in Henniker, and was arrested on two complaints for larceny. He was arrested in Boston, and brought here on that day. He is described as about 30 years of age, about 5 feet 7 inches in height, with dark hair, small black eyes and short neck. A reward of $40 is offered for his arrest and delivery to the Sheriff.—Concord Patriot.

Emerson was re-taken at West Henniker on Saturday evening.

VALUABLE COWS.—A few days since, on the farm of Hon. Peter Lawson, in Dracut, we saw an Ayrshire cow, which has the reputation of being the finest formed cow in New England. His Alderney cow, Victoria, that with her heifer calf of two weeks old, has just been sold by Mr. Lawson for $325, is one of the finest animals we ever set eyes on; she last year produced 17 pounds of butter a week, of such quality that it sold quick in Boston at 50 cents a pound; 600 pounds a year is considered her average; her milk produces from 30 to 35 per cent, of the richest cream. There was sold with her an Alderney heifer calf 11 months old, for $125. These cows never eat English hay, their food being nothing but meadow hay, with two quarts each of shorts, night and morning. Mr. Lawson attributes to the use of English hay, the death of some of his most valuable cows, among which were "Medal," (imported) valued at $500, and "Jennie Deans" at $250.—Lowell Courier.

Accounts of the crops from all parts of the country generally agree in representing that there will be an abundant yield of the necessaries of life.

BRIEF AND BEAUTIFUL.—At the funeral of Mrs. Adams, an elderly woman, wife of a Baptist pastor in New Jersey, Dr. Cone touchingly remarked:—

"It is hard to bury a young wife; but when you have lived with one forty and two years—the wife of your youth—the mother of your children—the companion of your lonely hours—the undeviating and always reliable friend of your whole life; then, indeed the stroke is heavy. Since a few minutes ago, when your pastor requested me to make a few remarks, I have had nothing in my mind but those general ideas which stand connected with death and life—sorrow and eternity."

NICE LEGAL QUESTION.—In a case tried before Judge Hoar, in this city, a German Jew was called upon to testify. Now the way in which the Jew is sworn, is upon the five books of Moses, and with his hat on. While the witness was waiting for the book to be brought, he spoke to the Judge and made this inquiry: "Judge, (said he) if I was born of Hebrew parents and brought up in the Hebrew faith, if I am an American citizen and go to Theodore Parker's meeting, must I be sworn with my hat on?" We believe that the point was not pressed to a legal decision.—Boston Evening Telegraph.

THE SNUFF-BOX MAN.—The New York correspondent of the Albany Express says that "the snuff box was sent by the Emperor of France to Mr. Louis A. Depau. He is a son-in-law of Colonel Thorn of New York, and the husband of his wife's sister is the Baron and Count de St. Pierre, Equerry to the Emperor, whose wife was one of the Empress Eugenie's first maids of honor. Mr. Depau took his yacht, the Sylvia, over to Europe a year ago, and unsuccessfully contended for a prize in the British regatta. Mr. Depau will take legal means to recover his valuable present, which was intercepted. He resides in New Rochelle.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 27, 1855.

DEMOCRATIC PARTY IN MAINE.

We have already noticed the fact that Hon. Sam'l Wells was nominated for Governor, by the Convention at Augusta. A letter to the Boston Journal states that—

Resolves were read and adopted, the substance of which was that the Democratic party of Maine declares its hostility to Know Nothingism; that they are opposed to the present Maine law, and in favor of such a modification of its provisions as shall make it in accordance with the Bill of Rights; and that they sustain the present national administration.

The 5th Resolution, as reported in the Portland Argus, is in these words:

Resolved, That the National Administration by its faithful execution of the laws, by its adherence to the constitution, by its admirable foreign policy and by its resolute maintenance of the old land-marks of the Democratic party, will command the respect and support of all true men. It being understood that this approval of the National Administration, is expressive of no opinion in relation to the repeal of the Missouri Compromise.

The Argus speaks of the debate on this remarkable resolution, as a "splendid encounter," and states that it was, as it now stands, adopted by an "almost unanimous vote."

Approving the National Administration, but expressing no opinion on the repeal of Compromise,—is something like approving of Neal Dow, but having no opinion of the Maine Law. The Argus says:

The old lion of Democracy is not fairly aroused, and he will rend to atoms the bands of fusionism in the approaching election, as easily as Sampson burst asunder the cords of the Philistines!

PROHIBITORY LAW.—The Maine Convention of the Democratic Party resolved the other day, at Augusta, as follows:

Resolved, That we are opposed to the unrestricted sale of intoxicating liquors, and in favor of suitable prohibitory laws; but laws to command respect and obedience, must be based upon the principles of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. Their provisions must harmonize with the sentiments of an enlightened people; their necessity must be shown by actual, existing circumstances—their wisdom must be reflected by their practical operation.

We take it, this is high democratic authority for prohibitory law,—and also for legislation and political action on moral subjects.

The next resolution, however, condemns and denounces the present intensified Liquor Law of this State, being antagonistic to these fundamental doctrines, in consequence of its unnecessary stringency. * * * * Its wanton destruction of property and violation of the most sacred rights of the citizen; together with the fearful results arising from its execution, is well calculated to alarm every candid mind.

We have never heard of any fearful results arising from its execution. When and where were they realized? We will thank any body to tell us.

The Gazette is rather fast about our sustaining Neal Dow's action. We call upon its editor and any body else who chooses, to find one word which we have published editorially, about him, since the riot, which any impartial judge might not say, if Neal Dow were on trial before him for murder!—Chronicle.

This is decidedly rich. By-and-by we can anticipate that our astute "Uncle Toby" will deny that the Chronicle has been a most inveterate opponent of the Democratic party, or that it claimed to be the original Know Nothing paper in this vicinity. Its editor has "carefully and critically read" all the reports of the matter in the Portland papers, and sets himself up as an impartial judge, a second Daniel, devoid of prejudices or proclivities upon the question at issue. We admit that "Uncle Toby" is entitled to speak with authority upon the temperance question.—N. H. Gazette.

Thank you sir! Uncle Toby speaks about temperance with some knowledge of important facts on that subject; endeavors to speak on it so fairly that neither sellers nor drinkers of strong drink can accuse him of misrepresentation,—and to live so that neither friend nor foe of temperance can charge him with taking up the cause for any sinister effect, or with urging others to do for temperance, what he is not willing to do himself.

The statements and remarks of the Chronicle, however, on the Portland Rum Riot, have nothing at all to do with the right or wrong of temperance, nor with the wisdom or folly of the Maine Law.

They relate only to the origin and progress of the Riot,—and to the right or wrong done by Neal Dow in putting it down. On this latter point, we claimed to have been impartial, and called upon the Gazette to quote one word from us which was otherwise. It has not been done,—but instead of it we are served with some irrelevant talk about the Democratic party and the Know Nothings. We did not intimate that we had no prejudices;—but we did say, and do repeat, that we had not expressed them.

☞ Miss Harriet S. Russell, has been appointed to the office of "Post Master," at Great Falls—vacant for several weeks from the death of her father, the late Dr. Richard Russell.

THE SEARCH GIVEN UP.—The Norfolk Beacon of Wednesday states that the party of individuals who left that city on the 18th inst. in a fleet vessel, to pursue and capture five slaves, who it was believed had taken passage to the North in a northern ship, returned on the 19th, after an ineffectual search in the "Roads." The Beacon says that slave property is becoming as insecure on the Virginia sea-board as on the borders of Maryland and Kentucky, and unless effectual measures are taken for its preservation, it must materially depreciate in value.

Six fugitives had previously been betrayed and returned, by a Capt. Goodrich, of the sch. Grace Darling, to whom it is said they had paid passage money. The Boston Bee informs us that Capt. Goodrich was hung in effigy in Manchester, Mass., the place of his residence, last Saturday evening. Capt. Goodrich was waited upon by persons of Boston and Manchester, but refused to give any information, respecting the affair.

The Boston Chronicle says,

He was hung in effigy with the inscription, "Judas betrayed the oppressed for thirty pieces of silver." Capt. G., who is now in this city, announces that he shall publish an account of the matter in a few days. We certainly hope that the captain may acquit himself of the charge now lying against him, for as the story now stands, a dirtier piece of villany was never perpetrated.

It is alleged that he received $125 to take the fugitives to the North, and then informed the authorities, which resulted in their capture.

PRINTING A PRAYER.—The Christian Era, (a Baptist paper) speaking of a prayer at the funeral of a lady, which prayer was reported and published in the Chronicle, (another Baptist paper,)—pronounces the report in bad taste, and says;

There is a propriety in printing speeches, sermons, etc., but a prayer should be left with God. It may be eloquent, it may command attention, may draw applause, but it cannot tend to any good end to have it spread before the public. It is God's property.

Here we have matter of taste: the Era deems it bad taste. But the Roman, English, Swedenborgian and some other churches, print their prayers in a book, and read them thence. Nay more. The prayer of Moses, the man of God, was reported, and is printed, in the Book of Psalms. Solomon's Prayer at the Dedication of the Temple; Agur's prayer; and even the secret or private prayer of Nehemiah, are reported and printed in the Old Testament. In the new Testament, Jesus of Nazareth utters two prayers, the Lord's prayer so called, and another much longer, near the close of his ministry. The Evangelists report them: councils adopt them as canonical scriptures; bible societies print them; and christians circulate them.

Does any body say this is all in bad taste: that it can't tend to good? We trow not.—But the prayer "is God's property." Be it so. And so "The Earth is the Lord's and the fulness therof; the world, and they that dwell therein. But the Earth hath he given to the children of men." This property in the earth, does not in the least prevent our having the ownership of it also. Nor does the fact, that a good man's prayer enters the ear of the Lord of Sabbath, make it in the least degree improper that other men should hear or read it.

☞ The Prisoner's Friend for June is received from the publisher, Charles Spear, of Boston. It contains, as usual, a variety of matter, among which we were specially pleased to find the following article on

MATRONS IN PRISONS.

During our labors in the Boston Jail and elsewhere, we have frequently urged the necessity of matrons. We feel that this is a matter of great consequence. Twelve hundred women were last year confined in the Boston Jail for various misdemeanors. No matron has ever been appointed. We have urged the matter in every possible form. We lay it down as a principle never to be overlooked, that, wherever females are confined, they should have one of their own sex to take charge of them. Mrs. Fry labored in England to accomplish this object; and in our visit to London, we found matrons in all the institutions where females were confined. To enforce our views, we present the following facts:—

"Thirty years ago, it is not known that there were more than one matron in all the prisons in the United States. This was Mrs. Rachel Perigu, in the Baltimore Penitentiary. This lady entered the Baltimore Penitentiary in February, 1822, and took charge of about sixty female convicts. There had been previously some vile abuses practised among them; and, as the directors state, this apartment was wretchedly managed. Records show a material difference in the annual expense, consequent upon her services. The records also show, in regard to improvement in health, that the matron has prevented in three years, more than seventeen years' sickness. They were not only saved from sickness, but made profitable to the State; they were also taught to read; they were encouraged in the discharge of religious duties; many were reformed, and recommitments became unusually small. These surprising and delightful results were consequent upon the care and skill of the matron. The inference was, that nothing is of more importance among females in prison than a matron. Accordingly, after the example of the Baltimore Penitentiary, matrons began to be introduced where there was any considerable number of females in penitentiaries; and the matron in prison, in the care of females, is now generally required, both by law and custom.

LOCAL.

A NOVEL WAY OF STEALING MILK.—On Sunday afternoon last, seven Irish boys were discovered in a certain pasture in this city, milking cows. The method practiced by them was as follows:—Two would run, and, seizing hold of a cow's tail, hang on until the poor animal became tired out; then one would let go and milk—not in a pail, but in his mouth, until he could drink no more, when the other would take his turn at it, and soon did these seven little rascals satisfy their bovine appetites. They are known, and Marshal Hancom is in pursuit of them.

☞ In our Tuesday's report of the proceedings at the Masonic Dinner in Jefferson Hall, on Saturday, we omitted to acknowledge the complimentary invitation tendered us by the arranging committee. The tables were spread by the Messrs. Fernald, of the City Hotel; and, it was universally acknowledged, in a manner worthy even the countenance of the most fastidious Sir Knight.

MENAGERIE AND CIRCUS.—The citizens of Portsmouth should bear in mind that the Menagerie and Circus whose qualities in themselves are unsurpassed, and who are to exhibit on Friday, June 29th, embraces among its attractions, the original, genuine, bona fide, true blue, actual Thomas Thumb, General, whose form and countenance can be seen without extra charge.

☞ Jackson & Co.'s Express, warned by late robbery of specie, have procured an iron Safe, for the conveyance of money and other valuables.

DEAD LOSS.—A person said to be an Irishman, belonging in the State of Maine, on Saturday last purchased in this city twelve barrels of various kinds of liquors, and started for home, his load drawn by a team of horses, as the railroads do not convey the article for unlawful sale. Some time on Sunday forenoon, when approaching Biddeford, he descried the police of that city approaching him. Fearing a capture, and not being willing to trust his property to the tender mercies of the Court, he seized an axe and broke in the heads of every cask; so that the earth drank every drop of his rum, before the police arrived on the spot.

PAVILION, WOLFBORO'.—In another column will be found a notice of the above well known hotel. The house is on the border of Lake Winnipisiogee, and is a most beautiful place for the seeker after pleasure. We visited the house last year, when it was under the direction of another landlord, and found it all we could wish. We have no doubt that the present proprietors will sustain its past reputation. Visitors from this section can reach Wolfboro' over the Portsmouth & Concord, Boston & Montreal roads, thence by the Steamer Lady of the Lake; or by the shorter route to Rochester on the Great Falls & Conway Railroad, then on the Cochecho to Alton Bay, where they will take the beautiful steamer Dover, which makes two trips daily.

THE "REVERE HOUSE" CASE.—The appealed liquor case of Paran Stevens, the well known proprietor of the Revere House, came up in the Municipal Court in Boston on Monday. The Court Room was crowded with the friends of Mr. Stevens, who were anxious to know whether it were possible that the stringent provisions of the new liquor law could be enforced, and all our first class hotels closed and their proprietors sent like criminals to the House of Correction.—Trans.

We don't see why first class should be exempt, more than second. We have never seen it proposed to close the hotels, but only the bars.

Several witnesses were examined, but they all proved to be "know-nothings" as to violations of law at the Revere House. Under direction of the Court, therefore, the jury rendered a verdict of acquittal, without leaving their seats.

This verdict settles no question whatever. It is simply saying there was no proof of that particular sale alleged.

☞ Peter C. Brigham, of Boston, in a liquor case which came back from the Superior Court to the Municipal, paid a fine and costs of $142.96:—and gave $2000 bonds not to violate the law for another year.

Both parties paid up, as the alternative was the House of Correction.

NEW YORK, June 25th.—Mayor Wood is out with a proclamation to the public on the liquor law, and instructions to the police regarding its enforcement. In the former he says he shall be guided by the opinions of the District Attorney and Corporation Counsel, until such time as the courts may give a contrary decision. To the police he recommends the most cautious discretion, and tells them that they must not seize any foreign liquor, or make arrests for the sale of the same except upon warrants issued by a competent magistrate, upon testimony other than their own.

☞ Rev. Mr. Bond, pastor of the Unitarian Society in Dover, has tendered his resignation to the Society, to take effect in August next.

WASHINGTON, June 25th.—The Navy Department to-day received official intelligence which has fixed the conviction in relation to the loss of brig Porpoise, with her officers and crew.

Commander Adams has arrived, bringing hither the treaty between the United States and Japan, as ratified by the Emperor.

CAMENEUM.—We regret sincerely that the Engagement of Mr. J. H. Robinson and Mdlle Sophie has been brought to a sudden close, owing to the unexpected termination of the Dramatic License for the Hall. They performed only one night, viz, Monday, and are pronounced by those who are best performers, we have ever had here. Mr. Robinson, we understand, applied for an extension of the License, to continue his engagement, but was refused, by four of the Board of Aldermen, the Mayor presiding. Question—Were all the Board sober or drunk at the meeting?

Mr. Plaisted has kindly given Mr. R. and Mdle. S. the use of the Cameneum for this evening for the mere expenses, when and where they will, in conjunction with several volunteers, give a GRAND CHARACTERISTIC CONCERT. Mdle. Sophie having recovered sufficiently, will execute her celebrated dance. Robinson in his comicalities, numbering some 50. Booth has come forward manfully;—with several others. Let the citizens attend to this en masse—and fill the House. TRUTH

GOOD MEDICINES.

It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchits, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.

Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.

Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only while it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astonishing statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and naiety of every complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.

These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbors and your own Physicians.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEGISLATURE.

MONDAY, June 25th.

SENATE—Afternoon.—Mr. Melvin, from the committee on Incorporations, reported the bill to incorporate the Mercantile Library Association, without amendment—ordered to a third reading.

H House.—Railroad Taxation.—Mr. Dame of Rochester moved the adoption of the following resolution—to which the House assented:

Resolved, That the committee on railroads be instructed to ascertain forthwith, by correspondence with the treasurers of the several railroad corporations of the State, or otherwise, the amount annually received by the justices of the superior court, for the last five years, for assessing the railroad taxes of this State, and report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. Tullock of Portsmouth, by unanimous consent, had leave to introduce a bill to encourage the study of the English language in the public schools, (by the purchase of Webster's Dictionary for each school in the State, above the grade of primary,) which was read a first and second time and referred to the Committee on Education.

New Boston Election.—On motion of Mr. Tullock of Portsmouth, the following resolution was adopted: Resolved, That the committee on Elections inquire and report by what right Daniel Campbell holds his seat as a member of this House from the town of New Boston, and that they have power to send for persons and papers.

CALIFORNIA NEWS.

We are furnished with a table full of California and Oregon newspapers, by Mr. C. E. Rand, by the Noisy Carriers, and others.

The correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce gives the following account of the exports of Breadstuffs, &c., from San Francisco:

It appears from a correct list made by the agents of the clipper ship Charmer, recently cleared for New York, that the ship carries to New York the following cargo, being the product of our own soil:

Five thousand and twenty-five bags of barley, 6,900 quarter bags flour, 15,030 bags of wheat, 192 bales wool, 333 do sheep skins, 410 sheep skins, 275 calf skins, 1,442 hides, 37 casks mint sweepings, 700 flasks quicksilver, 108 bales rags.

The following are return goods, of which we have a surplus:

Thirteen hundred dozen shovels, 13 pairs smiths' bellows, 60 cases tobacco, 90 de dry goods, 68 cases and casks hardware, 197 casks, cases, barrels merchandize.

The clipper ship S. S. Bishop has her entire cargo on board, consisting of 600 tons wheat and flour, and 100 bales wool, destined to New York.

The clipper ship Telegraph, for same destination, has an assorted cargo of old junk, rags, copper, hides, besides 400 tons wheat and barley. She will sail in a few days with a full cargo.

The bark Greenfield has sailed for Liverpool with 700 tons of wheat and flour on board, and 900 flasks of quicksilver.

During the month of May we have exported to Australia, in round numbers, equal to 3,600 bbls flour, 8,100 bags wheat, 7000 bags oats, 13,000 bags barley, 1500 bushels potatoes. To New Archangel, 2,265 bags wheat. To Callao, 460 flasks quicksilver.

It may be interesting to many of our readers to be informed that wheat can be raised here and bagged ready for market, at one cent per lb. We know of one party who has now a single field of 500 acres of wheat, who has been offered and refused two cents per lb. for the crop.

The ship Adelaide has been chartered to load for New York for the sum of $20,000.—She is now taking in 700 bbls of flour at $1 per bbl. She is also taking in wheat—and it is premised that she will carry in all about one thousand tons of breadstuffs, besides assorted merchandize, wool, hides, &c.

Summary of the Fortnight's News.—The weather throughout the State has maintained that evenness and salubrity which has always placed California far in advance of her sister States in that respect. Accounts from the interior gives glowing descriptions of the beauty of the country and the general prosperity of the various branches of industry.

The case of the mutinous seamen on board the clipper ship John Land, was brought before the U. S. District Court on the 15th inst. The crew, who were indicted for mutiny, were discharged on the ground that after Capt. Percival had once resigned command of his ship, the contract between himself and the crew ceased.

New gold placers have been opened in Siskiyon county, affording a field for thousands of laborers.

Our markets are well filled with delicious fruit, the product of the gardens around San Francisco, and showing to what an extent all the delicacies of the orchard and garden may be produced under the genial influence of a California climate.

The gambling law went into operation on the 17th of May, when all the gambling saloons in the State were shut up forever.

DEAD SHOT FOR BED BUGS.

A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it curls them up and lays them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees.

It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a neat tidy housewife. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is incalculable.

SANCHO PANZA

Called down "blessings upon the head of the man who first invented sleep." How much more worthy such honorable distinction would he consider the inventor of the Dead Shot, who, by his Pungent and Deadly Preparation, has rendered utterly impossible the ancient bloody forays of such 'tolerable and not to be endured' tormentors; and who has enabled every one to guarantee to himself his own particular share of "tired Nature's sweet restorer."

MORE PLATFORMS.—The Lowell Courier contains the following statement, concerning a call for a public meeting, which is said to have originated with the order of United Americans, an organization within the Know Nothing ranks:

A platform of political principles, a kind of liberal, open, American Republican one, is now in circulation among our citizens, and seems to be very generally signed by the members of all the past and existing parties. The document provides for a public meeting as soon as the movement has been endorsed by a reasonably large portion of the public. The platform meets our hearty concurrence, and will doubtless be approved by the great bulk of our readers."

LIQUOR SEIZED.—The City Marshal of Worcester Mass. made several seizures of liquor on Wednesday last. In one house, he found a keg of liquor carefully packed away in a barrel of sawdust, and in another he discovered a considerable quantity of the looked for article stowed snugly away at the bottom of a tub of dirty clothes.

A VICTIM AT LAST.—In the Police Court on Saturday, a woman who has kept a cellar in North street, was convicted under the new law of selling liquor, and zwas sent to the House of Correction. This is the first instance of imprisonment under the new law.—Boston Adv.

Secretary Marcy has written a letter, informing Mr. E. C. Delavan that he is not aware of any treaty stipulation between the United States and Foreign Powers, which would be inconsistent with an act of Congress, prohibiting the importation of intoxicating liquors.

A well dressed man borrowed a shovel in Lafayette, Indiana, and in about two hours returned it, bearing a bag containing 1200 Mexican dollars, which he said he had dug up near an old log house.

OFF THE TRACK.—Narrow Escape of a Railroad Train.—About 8 o'clock yesterday morning, an out train on the Boston & Maine Railroad had a narrow escape from precipitation into the river. Workmen were engaged in relaying some rails on the bridge between Charlestown and Malden, when a train approached, the time of which had been changed unknown to the workmen. Three lengths of the rail were up, and before any signal could be given, the train was rapidly nearing the breach, when the engineer discovered it too late to stop the engine. The speed, however, was checked, and the engineer and fireman leaped from the engine, having done all in their power to save the train. Strange as it may appear, the engine passed over the three lengths distance, and came on to the rail again without being thrown from the track.—The baggage car was thrown off, but very little damage was done. It is very rare that an accident occurs on that road.—Boston Bee, 19th.

Who employed men to go on the Boston and Maine Railroad and take up rails? Is nobody responsible on that route? Are there no overseers or managers on the repairing department?

Such gross carelessness should not pass without notice. The public should demand just such an investigation as if a number of lives had been sacrificed;—search out the irresponsible drones, dismiss them, and put men on that will attend to their duty. B.

ABSENT MINDED.—The Biography of Horace Greeley is a gossipping, readable, and interesting book, and does great credit to its writer as well as to its hero. The author does not appear to see any faults in Greeley, but it is the common fault of biographers to be eulogists. The work will live. We clip the following story of Greeley's absent-mindedness:

Time—Sunday evening. Scene—The parlor of a friend's house. Company—numerous and political, except the ladies, who are gracious and hospitable. Mr. Greeley is expected to tea, but does not come, and the meal is transacted without him. Tea over, he arrives, and plunges headlong into a conversation on the currency. The lady of the house thinks he "had better take some tea," but cannot get a hearing on the subject; is distressed, puts the question at length, and has her invitation hurriedly declined; brushed aside, in fact, with a wave of the hand.

"Take a cruller, any way," said she, handing him a cake basket containing a dozen or so of those unspeakable Dutch indigestibles.

The expounder of the currency, dimly conscious that a large object was approaching him, puts forth his hands, still vehemently talking, and takes, not a cruller, but the cake basket, and deposits it in his lap. The company are inwardly convulsed, and some of the weaker members retire to the adjoining apartment, the expounder continuing his harangue, unconscious of their emotion or its cause.—Minutes elapse. His hands, in their wanderings through the air, come in contact with the topmost cake, which they take and break. He begins to eat; and eats and talks, talks and eats, till he has finished a cruller. Then he feels for another, and eats that, and goes on, slowly consuming the contents of the basket, till the last crumb is gone. The company look on amazed, and the kind lady of the house fears for the consequences. She had heard that cheese is an antidote to indigestion. Taking the empty cake basket from his lap, she silently puts a plate of cheese in its place, hoping that instinct will guide his hand aright. The experiment succeeds. Gradually the blocks of white now cheese disappear. She removes the plate. No ill consequences follow. Those who saw this sight are fixed in the belief, that Mr. Greeley was not then, nor has since become aware, that on that evening he partook of sustenance.

DOG-GEREL.—Last Sunday, in the afternoon, a skrimage came to pass; three little dogs were frolicking upon the Plaza grass.—They tumbled, and they cur-veted, and in their mimic fight, they feigned to tear each others' ears with teeth that scorned to bite. Three little dogs! three little boys were never happier seen, than were these nimble terriers in frolic on the green; young canine pets, worrying with glee their fancied cats, and dragging in their hiding holes imaginary rats. Then came a dogged, surly man, who in great anger aware, 'twas out of fashion in this town to act upon the square; men do not do it, and shall dogs within the Plaza fence? No: and he seized a cruel stone, to drive the puppies thence. Ah, me! if all akin to poodle, cur, or hound, were not allowed to tread the Square, how many would go round! For there are creatures on two feet, who often carry more of puppy nature round with them than those who walk on four. Our burly man, with dire intent, as fierce as any Thug, let fly a stone, and one poor dog hit plump upon his lug. It was a cruel catapult, a cruel aim, alas! down crashed the stone, down went the cur amid the verdant grass. How often earthly happiness thus suddenly has failed, by head and hand inimical, maliciously *cur*tailed. Just when a man or dog believes he's to his eyes in clover, malevolence lets fly a brick & quickly knocks him over. He knocked him down, he picked him up, he took him by the feet, and with an air dog-matical he flung him in the street. The cur, half stunned, just raised his head, and looked as if he'd say, "Pray, where's the puppy that would treat his kindred in this way? Have I escaped the sausages, the poison and the ball, to let a Dogberry at last be author of my fall?" My blood all cur-dled at his tale, my feelings took a chill, and so to warm my heart, at once I wrote this dog-gerel.—Alta California.

A PACING MATCH for $2000 took place on L. I. Union Course, Thursday, between Pocohontas and Hero. The latter was distanced in the first heat. Pocohontas performed the mile in 2.17 1-2, the fastest time in pacing ever made.

Morning Chronicle.

THURSDAY, JUNE 28, 1855.

For the Chronicle.

WORCESTER, MASS.

Messrs. Editors:—A short residence in Worcester has given me an opportunity of visiting various parts of the city and adjacent country, and I have been much pleased with the general appearance of the place, and delighted with some things I have observed, which I would like to notice in your paper for our own benefit as a city.

One of the first things which attracted my attention in Worcester, was to see many of the flower and fruit gardens without any fence whatever, and when they are enclosed it is by low, open fences and hedges, so that the beauties of the grounds are all spread out for the enjoyment of the passer by. The carriage drives from the public highway to the doors of many elegant mansions, are intercepted by no gates, the municipal regulations which require that all cattle be kept from the streets, being so strictly observed, that there is perfect security in this arrangement.

There is no distinction in the public schools on account of color. The colored children have equal advantages with others, and I have been more than once delighted when witnessing the children on their way from school, to observe the affectionate familiarity with which the white and colored children mingle, thus proving to my mind, what I believed before, that the wicked prejudice against color is educational and not natural, and also furnishing a strong evidence that the good time is coming when all distinctions of caste and country will be abolished, and each shall behold in another, a brother and a friend. There are few places, even in Massachusetts, where the colored people have been treated so much like members of the human family as in Worcester. No slave hunts are tolerated here.

Smoking is not allowed in the streets here, and what is of more importance to the welfare of any community, no intoxicating liquors are allowed to be sold as a beverage. I have passed nearly four weeks in this city, containing a population of twenty two thousands—twice as large as Portsmouth, with a large foreign population, and although I have spent a good portion of the time in the streets, I have not yet seen the first person intoxicated.

There is no Theatre in Worcester. But there is a large Antiquarian Hall, free of access to all, and a public library—and there are also numerous manufactories of various kinds, some of them very extensive, where implements of husbandry and a great variety of mechanical tools are constructed, and which give employment to large numbers of people. I have never been in a place where the people generally seemed so industrious, prosperous and happy, as in Worcester, and it is very pleasing to know that this desirable state of society is secured while the colored population are admitted to equal privileges with the white, while smoking is prohibited in the streets, and people live without grog shops or theatres. When shall we be wise?

A CITIZEN OF PORTSMOUTH.

CORONER'S JURY.—The Portland second inquest on John Robbins, on Friday, Saturday and Monday, took a great deal of testimony, which as a whole confirms the statement made by the mayor and endorsed by the vote of the aldermen. It is apparent from the testimony, and from other circumstances, that no legal steps are to be taken by the Citizen's Committee. One of the strongest of these circumstances, is an article in the Argus, of June 26, which closes as follows:

Upon the head of Neal Dow, therefore, according to his own journals, rests the responsibility of the murder of Robbins.

He told a lie, and then unlawfully killed a man to quell the tumult, to which that lie gave rise. The brand of liar is thus stamped upon the head of Neal Dow, and the mark of Cain will follow him to his grave.

The rest of the article is no less bitter than this specimen. But the fact that the committee do not prosecute, contradicts the whole idea of anything unlawful.

When they do so, the public will begin to think they mean what they say. In the mean time they will make all the capital they can, out of the recent occurrences.

The State of Maine contains a good report of the 14th day, Tuesday. Dr. John Lord, who was a member of the first inquest, testifies against it as illegal and unfair in his opinion. He also has no doubt that Robbins was killed by a musket ball. But in his cross examination he says he is not familiar with gun shot wounds. He thinks he could have dispersed the mob in ten minutes.

Caleb Besse testifies to his belief that Alderman Libbey said in the streets he would have the bells rung. Besse, and Wm. Sloan testified to the good character of Robbins.

Ship Ocean Telegraph, Capt. Willis, arrived at New York 24th inst., in 59 days from Callao, which is said to be the shortest passage ever made.

ANTI-PROHIBITORY LAW.

The following communication is from the pen of a most respectable elderly citizen, who has no pecuniary or selfish end whatever, in writing against prohibitory laws. He is neither a drinker nor a seller of spirits, having abandoned the sale some years since, and having been always so strictly temperate as to preserve the glow of health on eye and cheek, and to move, after three score years, with the erect and easy carriage of most men of forty.

We present his argument in his own language, for the reader's consideration; adding to it the weight of his character so far as we can do it without calling his name; and coupling with it the fact before stated, that he neither sells nor consumes the article, the trade in which he defends as a right and a privilege.

For the Chronicle.

Messrs. Editors:—The Maine Liquor Law agitators say that the public shall not have spirituous or other liquors except from such places as are designated.

In France, the citizens have claret wine, which may be called a national beverage. In England, malt liquors is the common beverage;—but here, in this republican land, we are told that we shall not drink claret wine, or malt liquor. What shall we have then for a national beverage?

Currant shrub is a very delicious drink, such as is not surpassed by any other drink in the world; but it cannot be made to keep good, without some spirit put to it—therefore we must not have it. Other kinds of berries and fruit will make delicious drinks, but it requires spirit to keep it good, therefore we cannot have it. New cider may be fixed so as to make a very pleasant drink; but it will require a little spirit to make it keep, therefore we cannot have it,—and it is contemplated not to let us have even the cider, without the spirit. The question now is, what shall we drink?

Suppose two parties of persons are assembled to partake of the bounties of the dinner table. One party partakes by eating and drinking what they like, and return thanks to their Maker for his great goodness to them.

The other party refrain, in part, and say, we will not drink of this which has been provided. Our Maker ought not to have given man the knowledge of making spirituous liquors. Now which of these parties do you think is the most humble and praiseworthy, and acceptable to our Maker?

We live here under a republican form of government, where certain rights and privileges have been promised.

To continue this form of government, tyranny must be wholly excluded. No tyrannical law must be tolerated under any pretence whatever; whoever votes for such a law, must not be voted for again.

At our next election, let it be known that we are Republicans, and mean not to have any man in power who is a Tyrant. P. S.

LARGE STORIES.—From Washington we learn that

The Russian Minister laughs heartily with his friends, over what he regards the exaggerated accounts from the seat of war, saying that the people of England and France require the manufacture of victories to satisfy their clamors. As to the reported rumor of vessels destroyed in the sea of Azoff, he remarks, it far surpasses all that the Russians ever had there.

It is well always to take a few grains of salt with both sides of a controversy;—especially where opponents, in war or in any thing else, profess to state facts about each other We generally keep a few grains in each pocket, to season the newspapers on each side.

We salted the frog and the ox, to make them palatable; and now we salt the bear, as he needs it more than any of them.

FOURTH OF JULY.—The citizens of Dover are making extensive arrangements to celebrate the coming anniversary of our National Independence. Besides a beautiful floral display in the morning, the Military and Fire Companies, and various Societies will join in procession. The Orator of the day is to be Timothy Bigelow, Esq., editor of the Boston Daily Mail—one of the Hundred Orators of Boston. About $700 has appropriated for fire works in the evening. This will be the only celebration of consequence in the State.

☞ The pupils of the public schools, in Newburyport, and all other children who choose, are to celebrate the coming Fourth of July, by a procession with music, singing, collation, &c. A very large and interesting turn-out is anticipated—and no doubt they will have it, as Mr. H. S. Thompson is to have charge of the affair.

BRAMSON & Co.—This firm,—which was stigmatized in the papers, because the Portland Agency was supplied by it—turns out to be an old firm of importers, of 30 years standing. So says the New York Express. This nails another falsehood.

The Courier des Etats Unis contradicts the assertion in the New York Herald, that the French citizens contemplate a forcible resistance to the prohibitory liquor law.

LOCAL.

☞ Capt. Stehendsohn, an exile from his own land for liberty's sake, is to lecture this evening, at the Temple, his subject being, Three Months in a Jesuit Cloister. We cannot doubt it will be interesting. See advertisement.

☞ The new ship now on the stocks at the yard of Geo. Raynes & Son, has been sold to Capt. John Chase and others, at terms which have not transpired.

STATE TEMPERANCE CONVENTION.—This meeting takes place at Concord, this evening at 7 1-2 o'clock, on Friday morning at 10 o'clock, and on Friday evening at 7 1-2 o'clock; His Excellency, Gov. Metcalf will preside. Addresses this evening by P. T. Barnum, Esq., of Conn., and on Friday evening by His Excellency Gov. Morrill, and Hon. Neal Dow of Portland, Maine. During the day on Friday, the gentlemen named, together with several others will address the Convention.

On the Portsmouth & Concord Railroad, the fare, for going and returning, will be at half price.

☞ We see by the papers, that Mr. Thomas Rand, formerly of this city, and for the last four years landlord of the Lynfield Hotel, has taken charge of the new and splendid Sagamore Hotel, just completed at Lynn, Mass. This is a very large brick building, of four stories; and was opened on the 22d inst., by a sumptuous dinner of the Lynn Light Infantry and guests—to which 150 persons sat down. The business or pleasure traveller will nowhere meet a more agreeable reception than is ever given by mine host of the new Sagamore, his accomplished lady and gentlemanly clerk.

CHEATING.—The Boston Courier, which we suppose to be well informed on the subject, says:

Every cask which arrives in the United States with liquors has an original certificate attached to it, which the importer passes to his purchaser. These casks are bought at a high price by cartmen and others, who always manage to get the certificate with them, though it is an offence against the law to dispose of these passes. The buyer sells again to some mixer or manufacturer of foreign spirits, and the certificate is thus permitted to do a double duty, one branch of which is for the purpose of fair and honorable trade, and the other is for base deception. So much for "certificates."

The word always, which we italicise, conveys a great deal of meaning.

If we wished to use the article internally, either for a drink or for medicine, the above statement would destroy all our confidence in it.

The reader will observe that it is no fanatical temperance organ, but the Boston Courier, which warns the public against such outrageous frauds.

We advise all people to avoid the article as far as possible, for all purposes.

For the Chronicle.

THE LANCERS & THE BIG DRAGON.

Up and dressed, in phalanx bold,
With warning spear like men of old
They've took a stand;
And proudly bear the flag of State
While they march to the Dragon's gate
To shake their wand.

The beast in wrath and foam declares
If they come on his guarded stairs
He'll smite them all—
For at his nod a million spears
Shall dart and rattle round their ears
To speed their fall.

The monster now half opes his gate,
And pants to wreak his venom'd hate
Upon his foes.
The Lancers shoot toward his eyes,
When, through his froth and demon cries,
His madness flows.

Each soldier, braced with sword and shield,
Has vowed no more his ground to yield,
Till dragon dies.
The monster's heard the trumpet blast,
And fears the dreadful word is past
To dig his grave.
Still striving, cutting demon pranks
He's wont to battle with the ranks
Of lancers brave.

Foaming, writhing, yelling, wild,
The prince of Hades fiery child
At last is nailed!
The Law Supreme has bent its bow
And sure will bring the monster low—
All else has failed.

GOOD MEDICINES.

It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchits, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.

Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.

Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only while it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.

These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbors and your own Physicians.

Try them once and you will never be without them.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEGISLATURE.

TUESDAY, 26th.

SENATE.—Read a third time and passed.—An act in amendment of Chap. 49, Revised Statutes—an act to incorporate the Plymouth Steam company—an act to incorporate the Mercantile Library Association of Portsmouth—an act to incorporate the Society of Theological Research at New Hampton.

Mr. Hammond from the Committee on Banks, reported a resolution that the further consideration of the bill to incorporate the Pine River Bank be indefinitely postponed.—Agreed to.

Mr. Herring, of the com. on Banks, reported a resolution that the further consideration of the bill in relation to Savings Banks be indefinitely postponed. Agreed to.

Mr. Herring, from the committee to whom was referred the address for the removal of Daniel Patterson from the office of Sheriff of Grafton County, reported the same without amendment.

Mr. Sleeper, from the same committee, presented a minority report. After some discussion, the majority report was adopted by a vote of 10 to 1.

The address for the removal of George F. Starkweather from the office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas for Cheshire county, was adopted.

An address for the removal of Joshua Atwood from the office of Sheriff for Hillsborough county, was sent up from the House, and after considerable discussion, the further consideration of the subject was postponed until to-morrow at 10 o'clock. Adjourned.

HOUSE.—The Speaker laid before the House a communication from Lemuel N. Pattee of Antrim, (who has been elected Secretary of State,) resigning his seat in the House. On motion of Mr. Emery of Portsmouth, the resignation was accepted.

Reports of Committees.—By Mr. Christie, from the Committee on Judiciary, to whom was referred an order in relation to a change in the present law in regard to lotteries, a bill in amendment of Chap. 220 of the Revised Statutes, which was read once and ordered to a second reading.

By Mr Herbert, from the same Committee, a resolution indefinitely postponing the bill in relation to covered bridges, which was agreed to.

By Mr. Edwards of Keene, from the same Committee, to whom was referred a bill in relation to Foreign Insurance Companies, the bill without amendment, and it was ordered to a third reading.

By Mr. Brackett of Wolfboro,' from the Committee on Banks, a resolution indefinitely postponing the bill to incorporate the Wilton Bank, which was agreed to.

By Mr. Rix of Haverhill, from the same Committee, a resolution indefinitely postponing the bills to increase the Capital Stock of the Ashuelot and Cheshire Banks, which was agreed to.

By Mr. Clark of Manchester, from the same Committee, to whom was referred the the petition of Milton Chaplin and others for a Bank at Fitzwilliam, leave to withdraw, which was agreed to.

By Mr. Tilton, from the same Committee, a resolution indefinitely postponing the bill to incorporate the Cold River Bank, which was agreed to.

By Mr. Smith of Peterboro', from the delegation from Hillsborough county, to whom was referred an address for the removal of Joshua Atwood, Sheriff of Hillsborough county, and a communication to the House from said Atwood in relation thereto, reported the address without amendment.

After some remarks by Mr. Clark of Manchester, the address passed by a vote of 200 to 70.

Bills read a third time.—Bill for the promotion of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts.

The bill on its passage, was opposed by Mr. Flint of Lyme, and was rejected without a division.

Bill authorising any town in the State to establish a High School, passed without division.

The bill being on its passage was opposed by Mr. Emery, as unsound in principle. He thought it a bad principle for a school district or a town to run in debt for any purpose.

Mr. Upton of Manchester said this bill has been drawn in accordance with the wishes and petitions of several towns in the State.—He was not in favor of towns, districts, or individuals running in debt, but it was sometimes convenient. He thought it so in the case affected by the bill. School districts would get better school houses than if they were obliged to raise all the money by taxation at the time of building.

The bill passed without division.

Bill to incorporate the Ashuelot Savings Bank, passed.

Mr. Rix of Haverhill moved to take from the table the Address for the removal of John Wadleigh, Adjutant General of the State, which was agreed to.

Address passed by a vote of yeas 177, and nays 80.

On motion of Mr. Clough of Northfield, voted that the House will be ready to meet the Senate in Convention, on Wednesday, June 27th, at 11 o'clock, for the purpose of electing a Warden of the State Prison.

On motion of Mr. Whittemore of Portsmouth, the Committee on Judiciary were instructed to report a bill which shall provide for the distribution of the estates of insolvent debtors among all the creditors.

THE FISHERIES.—Our fleet of Southern fishermen are fast arriving home with moderate fares; and at the present prices of mackerel, making small profits. Several of them by falling in with fish off Cape Cod, on their way home, were able to add something to voyages that otherwise would not have paid. Newburyport Herald, 25th.

PERSONAL.—We hear from good authority that the rumor started in New York to the effect that Bancroft, the Historian, had become a convert to Catholicism, is the veriest gossip, without the least foundation in fact.—Boston Transcript.

BOY DROWNED.—At Clark's Pond, Amesbury, on Saturday afternoon, a boy thirteen years of age, named Joseph Banks, who with others was engaged in gathering lilies, was drowned.

"The object of this work is to show, to some extent, the obligation our language owes to various authors for numerous and familiar quotations, which have become "household words."

This Collection, originally made without any view of publication, has been considerably enlarged by additions from an English work on a similar plan, and is now sent forth with the hope that it may be found a convenient book of reference.

Though perhaps imperfect in some respects, it is believed to possess the merit of accuracy, as the quotations have been taken from the original sources.

PAVILION,

WOLFBOROUGH, N. H.

THE subscribers beg leave to inform their friends and the public that they have leased the above spacious Public House, which contains over one hundred well furnished rooms, which have been put in good order, for permanent and transient boarders. The House commands a good view of Lake Winnipisseogee, together with the beautiful hills which surround it—from one of which the prospect is said to excel that of Mount Washington—making many beautiful rides in the vicinity, on land as well as on the beautiful lake.

Good horses and carriages are connected with the house, and the beautiful steamboats "Lady of the Lake" and "Dover" make several trips each day up and down the lake. Gentlemen who delight in angling and gunning will find here ample field for their favorite enjoyment. Meals at all hours, without extra charge, for sportsmen.—Good carriages and accommodating porters in attendance on the arrival of each boat.

SAGAMORE HOUSE,

FROST'S POINT, 3½ miles from Postsm. Depots.

THE Proprietor of the above House respectfully announces to the pleasure seeking public that he will open for the season on WEDNESDAY, June 20th.

To those familiar with the locality of the Sagamore House, not a word is necessary in regard to its beautiful and healthful situation.—To strangers seeking rest and recreation by the seaside it affords attractions unequalled. Situated on a point of land on the Atlantic shore, near the Harbor of Portsmouth, the windows on three sides overlook the salt water. From the beach, the broad Atlantic, the Isles of Shoals, the beautiful Piscataqua, and the City of Portsmouth form a charming prospect, and in the background the green fields and leafy woods present a relieving contrast.

The House will be kept in the best manner, and every endeavor will be used to give satisfaction to its guests. The more effectually to do this, the proprietor has secured the services of MR. JOHN MACK, formerly of the Rockingham House, Portsmouth, whose experience and skill in hotel keeping will be a sufficient guarantee to all who know him that the management will be all that could be desired. The Table will be supplied with all the seasonable luxuries of the sea and land, and every effort used to render a sojourn at the Sagamore agreeable.

A Coach, in charge of an experienced driver, will run between the Sagamore House and the City of Portsmouth, two or three times a day, during the season, connecting with the several railroad trains. Fare 25 cents. All orders left at WM. R. PASSON'S, in Portsmouth, will receive prompt attention.

DEAD SHOT FOR RED BUGS.

A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it curls them up and lays them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees

It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a neat tidy housewife. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is incalculable.

SANCHO PANZA

Called down "blessings upon the head of the man who first invented sleep." How much more worthy such honorable distinction would he consider the inventor of the Dead Shot, who, by his Pungent and Deadly Preparation, has rendered utterly impossible the ancient bloody forays of such 'tolerable and not to be endured' tormentors; and who has enabled every one to guarantee to himself his own particular share of "tired Nature's sweet restorer."

MR. JOSEPH HISS, late representative of Boston, came near suffering serious injury, if not death, at the Ocean House, Newburyport, on Wednesday night of last week. The Herald says Mr. H. was in town preparatory to lecturing upon the doings of the legislature, and retired at night leaving a spirit lamp burning, with the wick well up. In the morning the room was full of smoke, and Mr. Hiss himself the color of a coal man. He was awakened with extreme difficulty, but not until the condition of the room had even caused the blood to settle about his eyes. One of the windows was slightly raised, or otherwise he might have died.

The Greenfield Gazette says it has recently come to light that the immortal Hiss was the veritable personage, who, at Greenfield, represented himself as "Anson Burlingame," and by the aid of that misrepresentation, and unfortunate change of linen on the part of Burlingame, cheated the latter out of his room and his bed.

At Cincinnati, an interesting daughter of a respected German died very suddenly. On the following morning the mother died of the cholera. This sudden breaking of the family so worked upon the mind of the father that he sprang from the third story window of his residence down to the sidewalk, injuring himself so that he died in a few hours after. His name was Gottwell.

SEVERE BUT JUST!—At Newburyport, W. B. Fairfield, alias Bowers, on a charge of adultery, was sentenced to twelve days solitary and three years in the State Prison—the extent of the law. He is the man whom we recently noticed as having seduced a young woman under promise of marriage, while he had a wife and children with whom he was living, in the very next street.—Herald.

Why are the reinforcements before Sebastopol like a new born baby?

MELANCHOLY AFFAIR.—A Teacher Murdered by a Boy.—We learn from a gentleman who was an eye witness, the following particulars of a most horible and tragical affair that occurred at Pontotoc, Miss., on Monday last. It appears that Mr. Brown, the Principal of the Male Academy at Pontotoc, had punished one of his pupils about a week since. A brother of the boy that was whipped, by the name of Wray, made threats against Mr. Brown, for the aforesaid punishment, in which but little attention was paid. On Monday, young Wray, a youth of some 17 or 18 years of age, took a position where Mr. Brown would pass on his way home from school, and waited untill he came along, when Wray attacked him.

The two clinched, Brown only acting in self defence, and those who saw it thought it only to be a scuffle between them, and they saw B. run a few yards, his hands upon his abdomen, and fall down lifeless. While they were clinched, Wray had inflicted two wounds upon Brown with a large a bowie knife, which killed him instantly. The young man was immediately arrested. Mr. Brown was much respected, and leaves a young widow, to whom he had been married but a few months, to mourn his early and untimely end. This is the most horrible, cold blooded murder ever noticed in some time, and is a deeper outrage than the Matt Ward case.—Nashville Whig.

SUICIDE IN CHARLESTOWN.—A young man, said to belong in Maine, has been loitering about Charlestown the past few weeks, in search of employment, without success. On Saturday last he applied to an apothecary to know how much laudanum it would take to kill a man, saying he had taken two ounces without effect, and had in his pocket some strychnine, which he thought would do the job for him. An officer was immediately sent for, but before he arrived the young man was out of sight. In a short time after, he was seen running towards the marshes, with both hands raised over his head, and uttering loud screeches. He soon fell to the ground in convulsions, and died in a few minutes. His name was not known. A post-mortem examination was held on his remains Tuesday morning.—Bee.

The deceased has been ascertained to be John McCarty, who came from the vicinity of Bangor, Me., where he owned a farm worth $2000. His wife arrived in search of him on Saturday evening. It was supposed he was insane.

FOR BETTER OR WORSE.—On the same day that a crowd was collected on the Boulevards, to see the magnificent funeral procession which followed the remains of Mons. Dacos, ex-minister of marine, to the grave, another ceremony, of a more joyous nature, assembled a crowd about the church of the Invalides. This was the marriage of Zouave, who had fought manfully before Sebastopol, but had returned home without feet and hands! He had left Paris a dashing soldier, with a heart eager for glory, but chiefly anxious to acquire honor for the sake of a fair girl to whom he was betrothed. He returned a hero, and promoted to lieutenantcy, but a mutilated man. His fiancee kept her troth, however, and the Emperor and Prince Jerome were at the wedding.

When the marriage was consecrated, the Emperor invested the young lieutenant with the "Cross of the Legion of Honor," and, in the name of the Empress, the bride was presented with a rich dowry.

A HORSE DISEASE is said to be prevalent in Newbury, Mass., and is making such ravages as to have been noticed in the pulpit on Sunday last. The only cure is an alcoholic preparation, which is in great demand at the Town agency. It has been suspected that the riders drinking the liquor and rubbing the bottle over the horse is the real remedy, though the secret has not leaked out.—Newburyport Herald.

MINOT'S LEDGE.—The Traveller states that officers are now in Boston making arrangements for the immediate erection of a new light house on Minot's ledge. The new structure is to be of granite and iron, and will, it is said, surpass in massiveness and strength the famous Eddystone. It is expected five years or more will be occupied in its erection.

A story is told of one old doctor Foster, who practised in Boxford, Mass., many years ago, that he was in the habit of cooking up all sorts of roots and herbs into medicines, and specifics, and trying them upon his wife, and if they did not kill her, he was ready for all his other patients.

INTERESTING DEBATE.—The following subject is proposed for debate, at a coming meeting of a society at Rochester, N. Y.:—"Who have the most to fear, the uninsured from fire, or the insured from the bursting of insurance companies?"

Gov. Clark of New York, has pardoned a man named Higgins from the penitentiary of Rochester, on condition that he shall "wholly abstain from using intoxicating liquors, except in case of sickness, when prescribed by a regular practicing physician."

Justice Welch of Hartford, Ct., has decided that the liquor in a hotel case in Hartford was not kept for the purposes of sale, but for the convenience of the guests of the house.

MOSAIC HOUSE WALLS.—The Hingham Journal describes a mansion lately erected for Mr. Thomas T. Bouve, in that town, the outside walls of the house being composed entirely of stone, of all sizes and shapes, picked up on the premises.

REFORM SCHOOL.

Messrs. Editors:—I was permitted, a few days since, in company with some friends, to visit the Massachusetts State Reform School at Westborough, about twelve miles from Worcester. The Superintendent, Mr. James A. Talcott, politely conducted us through the various departments of the institution, and explained to us the uses to which these several departments were appropriated. We visited successively the work rooms and the school rooms, the laundry, the bathing rooms, the cooking and dining rooms, the dormitories, the chapel and the hospital. All the work of the house is performed by the boys, besides a large part of the farm work. We saw them at their various employments, making shoes, making and repairing garments, cooking, ironing, &c. In one room appropriated to plain sewing, we saw three directresses, women of mature years. The schools, of which there are eight, will compare favorably with most other schools, and we were particularly gratified to learn that singing is taught in all these schools by an experienced female teacher.

There are now in this Institution 530 boys, from seven to fifteen years of age, and their general appearance is that of contentment and happiness. The hours for labor, for study, for sleep, and for play, are systematically arranged. Thus, four and one half hours for school, at two different periods of the day, six hours for labor, and ample time for recreation, meals, &c.

I have never visited any public Institution with such a degree of satisfaction as I have experienced in my visit to this place; and gladly would I, if I could, convey to other minds the impressions which I have received. No one can begin to estimate the value of such an Institution. Eternity alone will reveal this. Think for one moment of the vast difference to the coming generation of having these 530 boys placed under influences where they are acquiring an education to fit them for positions of usefulness and respectability, and having them grow up a pest to society, filling our prisons and endangering the peace and safety of the community.

Every State in New England ought to have a similar Institution, and I sincerely hope that New Hampshire may soon be blessed with such a noble charity.

A CITIZEN OF PORTSMOUTH.

☞ The Maine Expositor, the bold advocate of good liquor, and the bold opponent of all three of the Maine laws, has just been revived in Portland. The writers in the Argus have been pitching into the Expositor—and now the Expositor pitches into the Argus—somewhat in the style of two locomotives on the same track, but running in opposite directions till they meet in the middle.

For Example, the Expositor says:

The Expositor has outlived the sneaking cowardice of the Argus, and proudly stands upon a platform of its own creation; and a platform to which the Argus is now crawling for a place! * * * * *

With the Argus, principles are like sheepskin gloves—to be put off and put on, as fancy or interest may suggest. When Governor Hubbard supported the Maine law, the Argus supported Gov. Hubbard, and with it the Maine law; and with both, as an obvious consequence, Mr. Neal Dow, the Maine law's first great champion. And although no line other than opposition to the Maine law, and opposition to Neal Dow, has ever had a place in our columns, the Argus whips round and proclaims itself the exclusive organ of opposition to both the law and Mr. Dow, and basely asserts the accusation that we are the hired satellites of both!

VERMONT STATE CONVENTION.—Burlington, June 27.—The Freesoil or Fusion State Convention, in this place to-day, was not very numerously attended, some three or four hundred persons being present. Hon. A. Sabine was chosen President, Gen. S. P. Strong and John Peck, Vice Presidents. The state ticket of last year is re-nominated, with perfect unanimity as follows: Stephen Royce Governor, R. Fletcher, Lieut. Gov., H. M. Bates, Treasurer. Entire harmony prevails. Speeches have been made by the Hon. Alvah Sabine, Hon. S. T. Morrill, P. Baxter and others. The resolutions commended the action of the seceders from the Philadelphia National Council, declare the time for a compromise with slavery to be past, and in general take strong grounds against the administration, the repeal of the Missouri Compromise and the Kansas outrages. The 7th resolution reads thus: Resolved that the prohibitory system adopted by the state has by its salutary influence commended itself to the support of the people, and that we are opposed to any alteration of the existing law on that subject, except such as may be necessary to give it greater efficiency.

☞ We have received from a young lady friend, a copy of a neat little paper, entitled, "The Lesbian Wreath," printed at Fitchburg, Mass. It is edited entirely by the young ladies who attend the Female Seminary at West Townsend, and is a very creditable production.

THE NEW YORK CITY GUARD AT PORTLAND.—The following account of the dinner given by the Portland military to the New York City Guard, is taken from a letter to the New York Tribune:

The table was spread bountifully with the delicacies of the season. Although at the Quarters there was a supply of liquors, which were served out in a stealthy manner in an inner room by a colored man, the Guard calculated upon making themselves happy over a cold water banquet. In fact, there was at the outset a bountiful supply of cold water and coffee; but the inner man had hardly been satisfied before there was a great cannonading of champagne corks. We were informed that the authorities had been on the lookout for this affair, and had stealthily seized several casks and boxes, supposed to contain the liquor that had been provided for the entertainment; but what must their dismay have been when they heard the continual popping of champagne corks, from 9 in the evening till 2 in the morning. The Portland people thought the affair a fine joke, and laughed outright in the faces of the authorities, who were assembled about the place, to witness the dismay of our hosts when they found their liquor seized. The military were too smart for the authorities. The supply of liquor was very abundant, and so enthusiastic were the Portland military, that they knocked the necks off the bottles instead of wasting time in drawing corks. At the entertainment, great good feeling prevailed."

From all which we draw the inferences, that the topers were more ingenious than the officers—and that after five hours of constant drinking, they were not exactly sober. Their temperance was probably of that kind sometimes called "true temperance."

A GREAT CIRCUS COMING NEXT MONTH.—Those who are familiar with the reputation which Welch's Circus has always sustained will be interested in learning that it is to visit Portsmouth after the Fourth. The well known troupe of S. B. Lent of New York is now united with it, forming an additional attraction. See the advertisement in another column. The following notice of this establishment is from the Boston Herald.

EQUESTRIANISM.—We presume that our readers will agree with us in saying that the performances of the circus are but a poor amusement when they are mediocre in their character; but, when first rate, nothing is better calculated to please any one who has an eye for symmetry in man and horse, for the poetry of motion and for feats of personal strength, daring and agility. The citizens of Boston are to have next week an opportunity to witness some exhibitions of a company, or rather two companies combined, which will satisfy their taste for this species of entertainment most fully. It was Welch & Lent who, confiding in their own knowledge of equestrianism, and in the perfection of American talent in this line, went over to Europe a few years since and astonished the amusement seekers of the old world with performances in the ring which eclipsed anything before witnessed on the other side of the water.

We believe that they still have a troupe travelling in Europe. At any rate, their long experience has enabled them to collect the finest company of performers, the best assortment of ring horses and ponies, and the richest dresses and properties ever displayed under canvas in this country, and on the 2d day of July next their immense pavillion will be erected in the Public Garden, there to remain until after the "Glorious Fourth." By consulting the show-bills and advertisements it will be seen that an immense number and variety of attractions will be displayed.—Won't there be a rush?

HEART-RENDING AFFAIR.—A most painful accident occurred at Edgeworth last evening. A little girl about eight years old, the child of Mr. Walch of that place, was instantly killed on the Boston and Maine railroad. Her father is a watchman in the rubber factory, where she had been to carry his supper. She was returning to her home, and waited at the crossing for an outward train to pass, probably not seeing a single engine approaching on the other track. After the outward train had gone by, she went upon the crossing, and was instantly killed by the single engine. The father, upon learning his loss, exhibited the most painful anguish, rending the hearts of those who endeavored to soothe his distress. His grief was harder to be borne as this was the second child lost by accidental death. We understand that no blame can be attached to the engineer, who did not see the child until the moment of the accident.—Boston Journal, 27th.

MOLASSES STEALING.—A stevedore, named John Crawford, was detected by officer Bean, in stealing molasses from the wharves in Boston. It seems he had stolen one hogshead from the firm in which he was employed, and replaced that by stealing from another wharf. He had taken two hogsheads from India wharf, one from Union wharf, one from Russia wharf, and one or two more from other places. He had disposed of five hogsheads and received payment for them, at the rate of 22 cents per gallon.

ECCLESIASTICAL.—The Methodists of Canada West, at their late meeting, made two important changes in their church polity. They have consented to extend the period of a minister's residence on a circuit from two to five years, in any case where a request to that effect emanates from a quarterly meeting of a circuit. They have also consented to admit an equal representation of clerical and lay members at the annual district meetings of the convention.

The farmers out West are complaining bitterly of the lack of laborers to do harvesting work. A letter from Eaton, Ohio, dated 18th, says:—"Several thousand able bodied men are needed here. They would receive $12 to $18 a month and found. Several hundred could find employment in this section from now until fall, and receive good wages, and be otherwise well cared for."

For the Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH & CONCORD R. R.

Messrs. Editors:—I notice by the papers that the Trustees, in behalf of the bondholders of the P. & C. Railroad, have taken possession of the road for the purpose of foreclosure. It appears by the terms of the deed of mortgage, that if the Company for the space of six months fail to pay the interest on bonds, holders of coupons to the amount of fifty thousand dollars may apply to the Trustees to make sale of the road, which may be done in sixty days after. Mr. Tullock, one of the managers of the road, has introduced in the House of Representatives a bill creating a corporation of those persons who may purchase the road under the name of Concord & Portsmouth Railroad, and giving them all the rights now possessed by the P. & C. R. R. This seems to indicate that a sale of the property will be made as soon as the time specified in the deed expires, as the new purchasers are so anxious to be incorporated before they are in possession of their purchase. Under these circumstances, it becomes all those who are interested in the road, either by the individual liability for its debts as stockholders, or as holders of the bonds—to see at once that in the new special legislation their rights are not invaded, and that every precaution is taken to make the road sell for its value, and not let it be sold for a song to benefit a few shrewd wire pullers, who may thereby obtain control of the concern and manage it to suit themselves. A BONDHOLDER.

☞ S. B. Howe's Great Menagerie and Circus will arrive in this city to-day. The Menagerie contains a large variety of wild animals and birds: and the performers in the circus are of the first order. During the exhibition the original and only true Tom Thumb will appear. The admittance free to the whole is only twenty-five cents.

GOOD MEDICINES.

It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchits, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and if used more complaints

Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.

Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only while it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.

These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbors and your own Physicians.

Try them once and you will never be without them.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEGISLATURE.

CONCORD, N. H.—Daniel Green, democratic member from Berlin, was declared unduly elected, and vacated his seat. W. W. Eastman, Know Nothing, was chosen Warden of the State Prison. The addresses to remove Sheriff Dow of Rockingham Co., and Samuel C. Moulton, Common Pleas Judge in Sullivan Co., were passed. Bills for a ten hour law, and for re-districting the State, for the choice of State Senators, were introduced.

The House defeated the Cheshire County Bank bill by a large vote, which is significant of the fate of most of the charters applied for. The House refused to purchase 2300 copies of Webster's dictionary for the use of schools, after a rather sharp debate on the merits of certain popular Lexicographers.

In the Senate, the following bills were read a third time and passed :—Bills authorizing the appointment of a Superintendent of public instruction in the city of Manchester—in amendment of Chap. 220 R. Statutes—in amendment of Chap. 175, Sec. 7, R. Statutes—to sever a portion of territory from Ward 8 and annex the same to Ward 7 in Manchester—in relation to Pilotage and the Harbor of the Piscataqua.

Messrs. Bell and Hale, the new Senators, are now addressing a very large meeting.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

NEW YORK, June 28.—The United States mail steamer Baltic, Capt. Comstock, from Liverpool, Saturday, 16th inst., arrived at her wharf at about one o'clock this morning, and brings 206 passengers, among whom is Moses Maynard, English bearer of despatches from London.

This arrival brings telegraphic details of the capture by the French of the Mamelon and White works, after sanguinary fighting, in which 5000 were killed and wounded. The French took 62 guns and 500 prisoners, and their new position enables them to shell the shipping in Sebastopol harbor.

Simultaneously the English stormed and took the riflemen's work in the quarries, but lost 500 in killed and wounded. Since then the firing has been slack.

The fleets have achieved new successes in the sea of Azoff, and have burned stores at Teganrog, Mariople and Genitchi, and a boat expedition is fitting out against Perekop.

Nothing from Tchenaya or the Baltic.

On the 6th, the Russians fired on a boat bearing a flag of truce, and sixteen English sailors were killed.

CRIMEA.—The correspondence is down to the 4th. The weather was excessively hot, and all accounts agree that there is a vast amount of disease and despondency in the garrison at Sebastopol.

Private letters from Keitch give a fearful account of the condition of the Russian army, as well from wounds as from sickness.

The Russians are said to have obtained a communication with the Crimea, independent of the road from Perekop, by constructing a bridge of boats across the Sireschi.

The British ship Shamrock foundered and was lost at sea with a valuable cargo. The crew escaped in the boats. The cargo was worth about $200,000.

The English funds to-day have shown less buoyancy. The discount houses gave notice of a reduction of their rates on call from 3 a 2 3-4.

The specie arrivals to-day were $45,300.

Advices from the United States are looked for to stimulate the prevailing tendency towards confidence in manufactures.

VERY LATEST.—Vienna, Friday noon.—Gen. Lamona, the younger, has died of cholera at Balaklava. By the shameful occurrence in the Baltic, in which the Russians fired upon a boat bearing a flag of truce, 21 sailors and 3 officers were killed.

TEMPERANCE CONVENTION. — Bangor, June 26.—The State Temperance Convention commenced its session here to-day. Mayor Hayward, of this city, chosen President of the Convention. Vice Presidents—A. Dennett of York, Rev. Mr. Hathaway of Bloomfield. The resolutions were, asserting that experience demonstrates the value and necessity of a prohibitory liquor law; denouncing the opposition of a venal party press; congratulating the people that the politicians who assembled at the Democratic State Convention, have at last thrown off the mask and arranged themselves in opposition to the law; declaring that the riot at Portland was instigated by unprincipled politicians, for party purposes, and commending Gov. Morrill as a worthy chief magistrate, and well worthy of re-election.

Both Gov. Morrill and Neal Dow were expected, but neither of them were present.—The latter was prevented from coming by serious illness.

LIQUOR TRIALS.—In the Municipal Court Boston, the jury in the first appealed case under the new law—that of a poor, decrepit old Irish woman, named Catharine Cloon—returned a verdict of acquittal.

Nelson Hopewell, J. W. Clifford, Jeremiah Brown, Martin Nash, and Jeremiah Ford, all convicted under the old law, were severally sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs, with the alternative of the House of Correction.

A case against Charles Todd, of Blackstone street, for a single sale, was returned from the Supreme Court, and he was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs, and give bonds in $1000 not to violate the law again.

Patrick Hayes of Blackstone, was drowned on Sunday morning, the 24th inst., in the Blackstone River, at Blackstone. Hayes went beyond his depth, and being unable to swim, was drowned before assistance could reach him.

Familiar Quotations.

J. F. SHORES, JR., No. Congress Block, has received, A Collection of Familiar Quotations, with complete indices of Authors and Subjects.

"The object of this work is to show, to some extent, the obligation our language owes to various authors for numerous and familiar quotations, which have become "household words."

This Collection, originally made without any view of publication, has been considerably enlarged by additions from an English work on a similar plan, and is now sent forth with the hope that it may be found a convenient book of reference.

Though perhaps imperfect in some respects, it is believed to possess the merit of accuracy, as the quotations have been taken from the original sources.

Also received a fresh supply of MOREDUN, the new work attributed to Sir Walter Scott. j

CIRCUS.

GRAND CONSOLIDATION

WELCH'S NATIONAL CIRCUS,

LENT'S NEW YORK CIRCUS,

Comprising TWENTY-FOUR OF TALENTED ARTISTS, TWO STUDS of trained Horses and Ponies, and all the appointments and paraphernalia appertaining to

TWO LARGE COMPANIES

Combined in

ONE MONSTER EXHIBITION,

Given in one mammoth pavilion, for a single price of admission, the reports of inferior companies to the contrary, notwithstanding.

☞ In consequence of the engagements of this Establishment in Boston, where the city authorities have granted it the use of the Public Garden for the whole of the Fourth of July week, it

WILL NOT VISIT PORTSMOUTH UNTIL

MONDAY, JULY 16th,

When it will perform, afternoon and evening for one day only. Doors open at 2 and 7 o'clock.—Performance will commence half an hour after opening. Admission 25 cents.

THE PERFORMANCES

EQUESTRIAN, GYMNASTIC AND ACROBATIC FEATS,

In which the entire strength of the Double Troupe of Male and Female Performers Will appear, the whole enlivened by the inimitable drolleries of

THE THREE GREAT CLOWNS,

WORRELL, the Wit,

WALLIS, the Musical,

WHITTAKER, the Stump Orator.

The Proprietors confidently refer to the thousands who have visited "Welch's Circus" in former years, as to the reputation it has invariably sustained for attractiveness, and the fulfilment of the promises held out in its advertisements; and now that it has been augmented by the addition of ANOTHER COMPLETE CIRCUS, it is believed that facilities are afforded by the management for the amusement and gratification of their patrons without parallel, and beyond the approach of rivalry.

Very Particular Notice.—A novel and attractive feature in the entertainments of the combined companies consists in the presentation of the GRAND MAGIC PANTOMIME, which was originally produced by Welch & Lent, in Philadelphia, last winter, at great expense, and after many weeks of labor, and which has been performed from the commencement of the season.

THE MISER OF BAGDAD,

NO OTHER COMPANY has ever even attempted to imitate it, unless within a very few days.

In self defence the management are constrained to beg the public not to judge of the character of this mirth-provoking pantomime, by any paltry imitation which may be got up at a moment's notice, in hopes of taking advantage of the well-earned popularity of the original piece.

THE MISER OF BAGDAD can only be witnessed as originally produced in Philadelphia, with all its magical changes and transformations, at the Exhibition of

A Word to Persons in Delicate Health

DR. HOLMAN'S BITTERS,

They are remarkable for giving a tone to the Digestive Organs, assisting Nature and preventing the various Bowel Complaints, so frequent and so dangerous during Summer and Autumn.

No Family should be without them.

DEAD SHOT FOR BED BUGS.

A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it curls them up and lays them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees

It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a neat tidy housewife. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is incalculable.

SANCHO PANZA

Called down "blessings upon the head of the man who first invented sleep!" How much more worthy such honorable distinction would he consider the inventor of the Dead Shot, who, by his Pungent and Deadly Preparation, has rendered utterly impossible the ancient bloody forays of such "tolerable and not to be endured" tormentors; and who has enabled every one to guarantee to himself his own particular share of "tired Nature's sweet restorer."

Prepared by L. L. DOTCHER, St. Albans, Vt. Wholesale and retail Agent for Portsmouth and vicinity, JOSEPH H. THACHER, Apothecary, corner of State and Pleasant sts. je22 3mis

CHARADE.

He! for the land of prairie grass,
And leave New England's hills,
Where dwells my first like a fair lass,
By forest dell and rills.
My next a covering to my first—
Its color—red—blue—green—
Or any other suits your thirst
To please the eye at e'en,
At morning, noon, at any time:
Remember well my whole;
Though nurtured in this frosty clime
My days in glee do roll.

BOILING ROCK.

A land-shark in Ann street, Boston, had one of the crew of the Constitution confined in a room last week, and was feeding him on rum that he might secure his wages and extra pay, but the man was rescued before the purpose was accomplished.

The Baltimore American says it is a long time since property in that city has sold at so low a price as at present. Houses recently forced upon the market have been sold for the cost of the materials at which they were built.

There must be a great many people in New York who do not read the newspapers; unpaid letters are said to have been dropped in the post office this month at the rate of about one hundred per day.

PATENT CHIP BAKER.

Three Sizes, for Summer or Winter. $5.00, $5.50 and $6.00.

A complete Relief from the Oppressive Heat of a Stove or Range.

THE Merits of this Article are too well known to require a lengthy description. It performs the work of Stove or Range, and Bakes quicker than either, and requires but one-quarter the fuel. It has a Large Oven, and by an ingenious arrangement the Hot Air is carried around it at pleasure, so that it bakes in the most perfect manner, while at the same time the Boilers are placed directly over and close to the fire. On the top, which is flat, irons are heated admirably, if required, and kept clean. It is made entirely of Iron, consequently is very durable; requires but little room, may stand in the open fire-place, (in Summer) or be placed pantry-like in the Range, and work it. It burns either Wood, Bark, Chips or Charcoal, and may be adapted to almost any place. Try it: it is sure to please.

A CLERGYMAN TURNED SOLDIER.

Some twenty years ago, a young man, whom I shall name "Jamie," was pastor of a large congregation of the Established Church of Scotland. At school and college he was distinguished for his love of learning, and as a minister unrivalled for his eloquence and mental attainments. He had been settled about a year, and was upon the eve of being married to a fine young woman, whom he had loved from childhood, when the heritors and several English gentlemen, who were then on a visit to the North, attended kirk to hear the famous preacher. He more than verified his fame, he enraptured his audience. His theme was the story of his church. Its many years of disastrous wars, its martyrs, its heroes, its undying hope, even when despair seemed to shroud it in endless night; its unwearied toils and in its final triumphs were each in turn presented to the minds of the hearers, with a power and feeling that defy description. He stood the genius of eloquence personified. But there was one among his hearers who was not bewildered by his glowing pictures.

The gentle hearted Bella, his betrothed, when the congregation dispersed, followed him to the manse. He received her in his study, but while conducting her to a chair she sank upon the floor, and burst into tears.—"O Jamie! Jamie!" she exclaimed, as he raised her tenderly in his arms, and seated her on a sofa, "ye hae broken my puir heart!" "How so my Bella? explain! "Ye were drunk, raving drunk, Jamie, and I wonder the elders did nae tak ye out o' the pulpit!—Ye whined and ranted, and sometimes, God forgie me for saying sae, I thought I saw the Evil One standing beside you, laughing and clapping you on the shoulder. My puir brain reeled—I was mad and knew it—I'm mad now—I canna live out this day—I feel my blood freeze—O, God, be merciful unto me a sinner, and save, O save my Jamie!"—Her head reclined upon his bosom, she gazed upon him for a moment, and expired in his arms.

He had preached his last sermon. No entreaties of a congregation who loved him—no flattering offers of future preferment, tendered by the gentry, could induce him to resume his labors as minister.

Five or six years passed, when the writer of this, who was his schoolfellow, accidentally met him in London. Jamie was then one of the principal teachers of a large educational establishment, and was highly esteemed for the moral excellence of his character, as well as his varied learning and skill as a successful teacher. He was dressed in deep mourning, shunned society, and when the labors of the day closed, he either wandered alone through the streets, or retired to his lodgings. The scene of Bella's death was ever present to his memory.

Her pure soul, he said, saw him as he was, a poor, vain, self-conceited sinner. For the purpose of concentrating his thoughts and infusing life into his sermons, he was in the habit of taking a glass of whiskey before entering the pulpit. The morning before the fatal sermon, he felt rather nervous, for he knew there would be strangers to hear him, and he took nearly two glasses. What he said, or how he conducted himself, no effort of memory could recall—the death of Bella had merged into itself the doings of that dreadful day. The compliments which he received sounded in his ears like satire and mockery, and the very name of liquor impressed him with horror!

He left home and came to London, where he obtained a situation as a teacher; but every thing appeared so black to him that he expressed fear he should, in some unguarded moment, destroy himself.

His friend, who was a sailor, suggested some active employment, that would call into play his physical faculties, and thus give his mind a spell, and ended by offering to procure him a place before the mast in a ship.—"I like your suggestion," he said, "but dislike the sea." "Then turn soldier and seek employment in India, where there is always plenty of fighting." "I will," he said, springing up, "when my engagement expires, I will purchase an Ensign's commission. I wonder the thought never struck me before, for my ancestors, far back as I can trace them, were soldiers. Better, far better, die on the battle field, than fall by one's own hand!"—We separated.

A few weeks since, in running my eye along the list of those who had distinguished themselves at the battle of Inkerman, I saw the name of Lieut. Col.———. A letter from my friend has since informed me that he had served in India under Lord Gough, and was promoted for his conduct in three campaigns. He was present at the battle of the Alma, Balaklava and Inkerman, and at last account, was in good health, engaged in the seige of Sebastopol. He was still single; his "heart was dead to love."—Boston Atlas.

George Kelly, 12 years old, son of Matthew Kelly, of New Bedford, was drowned at New Bedford on the 23d. He was an expert swimmer, and had accomplished the distance from the shore to Palmers Island and back, but in attempting to repeat the feat, his strength failed him, and he sunk.

MODEST.—The Worcester Evening Journal has been discontinued. The proprietor announcing it, says: "Hathaway Brothers, & Co. have taken the best picture we ever saw. It is a likeness of the last fool that undertook to make a third daily live in this city. It bears a strong resemblance to the editor of this paper."

By a recent act of Parliament, the repeal of the Usury Laws of Great Britain has been effected. It is now lawful to loan money there at any rate of interest agreed upon, and on all descriptions of property.

Morning Chronicle.

SATURDAY, JUNE 30, 1855.

A STRAIT WHIG CONVENTION, was held inPortland, June 29;—and on that day there was no inquest held. David Bronson was chairman of the Convention, and made a speech, in which he speaks of two great Union saving parties, the whig and the democrat. He belongs to the whigs, and cannot go with the democrats—because the Whigs go for recovering the people's lost rights.

Hon Geo. Evans then spoke: three columns of his speech are given in the Advertiser, and more is coming. He tells us he is against the new party; against the abolitionists; against the Know Nothings; against the intensified liquor law. He goes for the Whig party, which he is very happy to see together.

I rejoice to perceive that the whig party is still in existence and I have the honor to concur with the honorable chairman of the meeting that the whig party and whig principle still live, while its deserters and traducers are forgotten. Sir, whig doctrine cannot but live so long as there is misgovernment and misrule in the world, and so long as despotic and arbitrary power of any sort seeks to impose burdens upon the mass of the people. (Applause.)

EXETER, June 28.

Messrs. Editors:—Now and then it happens that the monotonous course of our lives is, for a time, enlivened, and the quietness of a country village pleasantly broken by some great event or startling incident, which sends the blood with new life and vigor through the veins. Even here there are sometimes occasions which serve to rouse us from our lethargy and give us new interest in the world about us. Such an occasion we supposed would happen to-day,—that in the laying of the Corner Stone of the new Town House, some interest would be taken by the people in general. But there wasn't. Speeches were made, but the crowd did not seem to appreciate them. If it were possible, the rain which began to fall during the ceremonies, may have somewhat dampened their ardor.

Your readers are already aware that Exeter is soon to be beautified and accommodated by a brick Town House—probably the best in the County. The foundations thereof were nearly finished last week, and to-day the finishing stroke to this all important part was made by the laying of the Corner Stone.

The ceremonies were postponed from Monday morning until to-day, on account of the weather, when a small collection of people assembled.

Prayer was made by Rev. Dr. Leonard of Exeter, and speeches were made by Prof. J. G. Hoyt, W. W. Stickney, Esq., and Charles H. Bell, Esq.

The list of articles deposited was read by Mr. Stickney, and consisted of 45 different articles. Among these were, a Check List for Exeter, 1855; account of receipts and expenditures of the town for the same year; list of town officers, and the three Representatives to the General Court; list of members of the fire department, copies of seven newspapers printed in the town since 1813; several catalogues of Phillips Exeter Academy; bills of Granite State Bank of Exeter; annual reports of board of education, and common schools, of this State, for 1853-4; copies of various newspapers printed in the State; plan of the town of Strathaw, made in 1793, and map of Exeter, 1845; Constitution of the order of United Americans; copies of various documents on Spiritualism; Continental bill issued in 1780; copy of New Testament, printed in Exeter in 1831; likenesses of Daniel Webster, Franklin Pierce, and Winfield Scott; list of officers and records of Granite State Bank of Exeter; Daguerreotype likeness of T. E. Boutelle, taken by himself; and an engraved silver plate, containing the names of Franklin Pierce, President, Ralph Metcalf, Governor, and of the building committee, architects, and superintendent of the new Town House. J. T.

MISS NIGHTINGALE.—The Crimean philanthropist, Miss Nightingale, is on her way to England. She is convalescent from her attack of fever, but is recommended to recruit her strength at home for a season. She is represented as deploring the introduction of the Rum into the Crimea, out of which our American distilleries are making their fortunes. Not only are the soldiers in the hospitals drunk on their beds, making them often incurable—but the female nurses have been found by Miss N. many times, drunk and asleep by the bedside of their sick and dying charges.

She sunk under it into her fever,—and goes home to recruit—with, as we view it, little prospect of return. If this blessed and glorious woman can induce the government of Great Britain to withhold the delirium tremens from their own soldiers, and their own nurses, she will probably prevent more suffering than she does in any other way.

For the Chronicle.

TRUEST COURAGE.

Ho, for the wildest prancing steed
That I may draw the reins and spend
To shame hot steam or comet.
I'll show the natives who's the winner,
Cries "Bob," the reckless, smoking sinner,
Then on, and on he dashes.
Now madly rolling on the road
The bounding steed o'ertips his load
And flies without a driver.
With teeth stove in and bleeding face
"Young buck" lies thinking of the chase
Bemoaning foolish courage.

Hark! there's a larum sounding—
Rattles springing, engines bounding,
Rolling o'er the stones.
The lurid flame breaks on the eye—
Men and maids and children cry
'Mid bells of jargon, fire!
Up the ladder fiercely clambers
Fireman for the smoking chambers
Heedless of the danger.
Before the gazing crowd one dashes
Headlong, 'mid smoke, fire, and ashes,
Only to end his being!
There was no shriek of human voice
To urge the daring to this choice—
'Twas impulse closed his eyes.
It was but mad infatuation—
Still is praised throughout the nation
Such mistaken courage.

Sound the tocsin for a duel,
Some high bloods have mixed up fuel
For a red hot battle.
Come the hour, and measured paces—
Come the flushed and pallid faces—
To the human slaughter.
Now the dreadful aim is taken
Highest honor to awaken,
By a piercing bullet.

The war dogs gathering near the line
Fearing 'twill be late to dine,
Fan up the tardy fire.
The signal given they soon will know
If Death come near to close the show
Of this inhuman picture.
'This done—the burning balls are freed!

To find some rest, one blessed hour
Beneath dear Freedom's banner?
See the city's cowering sons
Entrap the wretch with loaded guns
And hurl him back to bondage:
Can this be courage to obey,
And pierce the lorn one on his way
To Liberty's fair altar?

Alas for man's ignoble doings—
Despite of Wisdom's gentle wooings,
He wilful clings to error.
Give me the noble, daring voice,
Who makes the Moral Right his choice,
Nor fears a mortal frown;
I'll tune my harp and sing his praise,
While breath or being bless my days—

Boston, June '55. ALPHONSO.

TRAVELLING.—A correspondent makes the following extract from the New Hampshire Gazette of April 3, 1761. It may give some idea of what the amount and speed of travel was in the olden time.

A large Stage Chair with two good horses well equipped, will be ready on Monday, the 20th inst., to set out from Mr. Stavers', Innholder, at the sign of the Earl of Halifax, in this town, for Boston, to perform once a week, to lodge at Ipswich the same night, from thence through Medford to Charlestown ferry, to tarry at Charlestown till Thursday morning, so as to return to this Town the next day, to set out again Monday following. It can be contrived to carry four persons besides the driver. In case two persons go, they may be accommodated to carry things of bulk and value, to make a third or fourth person, the price will be 13 shillings and six pence sterling, for each person from hence to Boston, and at the same rate of conveyance back again, and no obligation to return the same week or in the same manner. Those who would not be disappointed must enter their names at Mr. Stavers' on Saturdays, any time before 9 o'clock in the evening, and pay one half at entrance, the remainder at the end of the journey. Any gentleman may have business transacted at Newbury or Boston with fidelity and dispatch, on reasonable terms.

As Gentlemen and Ladies are often at a loss for good accommodations for travelling from hence, it is hoped this undertaking will meet with suitable encouragement, as they will be wholly freed from the care and charge of keeping horses and chaises or returning them before they have finished their business.

A Stage Coach also with four horses will be in readiness a while hence, if there should be occasion, as it is expected there will be business enough during the summer season.

TALL GIRLS.—Rev. Dr. Brace, of Newington, Ct., stated, in a recent half-century sermon, that the wife of Rev. Mr. Backus, one of his predecessors, was one of ten daughters, every one of whom was six feet tall, making sixty feet of daughters, and all of them strong in mind—children of Rev. Timothy Edwards of East Windsor.

Orson Hyde, one of the Mormon saints, is now in St. Louis for the purpose, it is said, of marrying twelve more wives, to whom he is said to be affianced.

MOREDUN.

The discussion for and against the authenticity of the work will probably go on for some time, which will only tend to make a great demand for the book; and we really hope such may be the case, and that Petridge & Co. may reap great profit from the enterprise. Let one and all purchase Moredun.—We copy from the New York Despatch the following notice of the work:—

A new novel, from the pen of Sir Walter Scott, is indeed a novelty, and that Moredun is in reality one of Sir Walter's creation, notwithstanding the doubt that has been expressed (by the way before the doubters had seen the work) there does not seem any reason to disbelieve. The style is that of the author of Waverly—the plot is just such a one as he would have chosen; the only plausible reason there appears to be for discrediting the genuineness of the work, is, that it is strange that Sir Walter did not publish it during his life time. This mystery, is, in our opinion satisfactorily explained in the introduction to the work. We have now before us a copy of the London Literary Gazette, which enters fully into the subject, sufficiently explaining the seeming mystery, and the reading of the book will satisfy those who have read the hereto fore published works of Scott, that the explanation is worthy of the fullest credit. It is probable that this work was written before the "Waverly," which at once rendered Scott famous—and that he hesitated to publish it. Indeed, it is well known that the "Great Unknown" wrote several works which, doubtful of his dawning genius for novel-writing, he committed to the flames. It is more than probable under the circumstances fully explained by M. Cabany—but which we have not space to enter into—that "Moredun" was spared. At all events, the book is published by Petridge; the curiosity of the public has been sufficiently excited to induce them to read it—and will have a large sale; and we believe that most Scott connoisseurs will find in it the plot, plan and style of the story, enough of "Scotiana," to impress upon their minds the fact that "Moredun" is a genuine "Waverly." At any rate, the book has merit enough of its own to render it generally attractive. A letter in Sir Walter Scott's handwriting is published in the book, in which he tells Mr. Spencer the gentleman who has so long kept the MSS., that his daughter Anna has preserved this tale, which appeared to her to have possessed a great charm—and that he has allowed her to make him a present of it.

THE POLICE COURT at Newburyport at the present time, has an abundance of business, requiring some six or eight hours continuous labor every day. The cases of drunkenness will show that no regard is paid to the new law, and some ten or fifteen are every week sentenced to fines, costs and imprisonment, whose names are of no consequence to the public, and but little to themselves.—Other cases are abundant. On Saturday, Isaac Wiggin was committed in default of $1000 bonds, to answer at the next Common-Pleas Court, in Lawrence, for bigamy; the said Isaac having one wife in Ossipee, N.H., whom he had left to cleave to another here, that the twain might be one flesh.

On Monday, Joseph Colby gave bail in $200 to plead to the charge of bastardy, at the October term of the Common Pleas court, made against him by Hannah J. Davis.—Thomas E. Gilman and —— Flanders were charged with larceny of about $100 worth of uppers and soles of women's gaiter boots, from George H. A. Brown of Kensington, N. H., the property of shoe manufacturers of Hampton and Lynn—portions of which were sold in Newburyport.—Herald.

THE EARTHQUAKE.—Baltimore, 28th.—A great shock of an earthquake was experienced in this city about 1 o'clock this morning. It aroused half the inhabitants of the city, and many ran into the streets. In the eastern section some windows were broken, and furniture sensibly vibrated. Many citizens who were aroused, were afraid to go to bed again. The precise time of the occurrence was at 12.18.

The earthquake was felt for miles around this city. It is represented as being preceded by a crash, followed by a rumbling noise and rattling of houses for some twenty seconds. At York, Pa., the shock was very severe, rousing the whole city and causing great consternation.

NEW YORK, 29th.—The Paris correspondent of the Commercial Advertiser, says that the case against Horace Greeley had not been finally settled, but merely adjourned for five weeks, to allow time for obtaining evidence from New York.

Naval.—The U. S. Frigate Congress took her crew on board to-day, and she is expected to leave this port direct for the Mediterranean next week.

The Grand Jury to-day found indictments against six persons for enlisting men for the Crimea, and against one for being engaged in the slave trade.

Flour is falling yet, slowly but surely. A month ago the brands sold at $10 50 which now are to be had at $8 50. If the melancholy depression keeps on another month, most, if not all of us, can afford to eat bread. Loaves, of course, come out of the baker's shops no larger than before, nor should they yet, for alum holds just as high as ever.—Phil. Ledger, 27th.

CHICAGO, 28th.—One hundred and one guns were fired today in celebration of the defeat of the liquor bill. The celebration was attended mostly by Germans and other foreigners.

GOOD MEDICINES.

It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchits, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.

Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole vitaral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.

Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only while it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.

There are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbors and your own Physicians.

Try them once and you will never be without them.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEGISLATURE.

THURSDAY, 28th.

SENATE.—Addresses for the removal of S. Moulton, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas for Sullivan county, and Rufus Dow, sheriff of Rockingham county, passed by a vote of 10 to 1.

Mr. Mudget introduced an address for the removal of Warham R. Platts from the office of sheriff of Cheshire county. Passed by a vote of 10 to 1.

Mr. Hammond introduced a bill for the encouragement of physiology in the common schools. Ordered to a second reading.

Read a third time and passed.—An act to establish the Manchester Five Cents Savings Bank. An act to incorporate the Dover Five Cents Savings Bank. An act relating to the Great Falls and Conway Railroad.

Mr. Parker, from the committee on banks, reported a resolution that the further consideration of the bill to incorporate the Concord Five Cents Savings Bank be indefinitely postponed—agreed to.

The address for the removal of William B. Parker from the office of Police Justice for the city of Portsmouth, was passed.

HOUSE,— Addresses for the removal of Chandler E. Potter and William B. Parker, severally Police Justices in Manchester and Portsmouth, were agreed to this forenoon, and addresses were introduced for the removal of James W. Weeks, Judge of Probate Court, and John W. Barney, Register of Probate, for Coos County, also for that of Israel Hunt, Judge of the Police Court of Nashua.

In Justice Parker's case,—Mr. Shannon of Portsmouth, from the select committee on the subject, reported the address for the removal of William B. Parker, Police Justice of the city of Portsmouth, without amendment, and a call of the roll showed 172 in favor of the removal, and 68 against it—so the address passed.

Mr. Edwards presented a Report recommending delay, for further consideration, of the proposed enlargement of the State House, &c., with the following Resolution:

Resolved, That the further consideration of the whole subject be postponed to the next session of the Legislature, and that His Excellency the Governor be authorized and requested to appoint some person or persons to take the same into consideration, and make or cause to be made plans and estimates, with all necessary details, of such alteration as they shall think right in the State House, and of such new fire-proof building, if any, as they may believe to be required in connection therewith, to be laid by the Governor before the next Legislature; and that the Governor is hereby authorized to draw his warrant on the Treasurer for the payment of the reasonable expense of such plans and estimates, out of any money not otherwise appropriated.

Mr. Edwards gave certain reasons which influenced the committee in making the report. He also alluded to the possibility that the people would hazard another attempt to meet and revise the constitution, when the number of members might be reduced, and the necessity for an extension of the Representatives' Hall avoided.

Mr. Emery of Portsmouth moved to amend the resolution so as to constitute it a joint one, and the amendment was adopted, and the resolution read and ordered to a second reading.

The Liquor Law.—Mr Kittredge of Canaan, from the special committee on that portion of the Message of the Governor relating to the traffic in intoxicating liquors, reported a bill for the suppression of intemperance, which was read a first time, ordered to a second reading, and ordered to be printed.

THE Proprietor of the above House respectfully announces to the pleasure-seeking public that he will open for the season on WEDNESDAY, June 20th.

To those familiar with the locality of the Sagamore House, not a word is necessary in regard to its beautiful and healthful situation.—To strangers seeking rest and recreation by the seaside it affords attractions unequalled. Situated on a point of land on the Atlantic shore, near the Harbor of Portsmouth, the windows on three sides overlook the salt water. From the beach, the broad Atlantic, the Isles of Shoals, the beautiful Piscataqua, and the City of Portsmouth form a charming prospect, and in the background the green fields and leafy woods present a relieving contrast.

The Table will be supplied with all the procurable luxuries of the sea and land, and every effort used to render a sojourn at the Sagamore agreeable.

A Coach, in charge of an experienced driver, will run between the Sagamore House and the City of Portsmouth, two or three times a day, during the season, connecting with the several railroad trains. Fare 25 cents. All orders left at WM. R. PRESTON'S, in Portsmouth, will receive prompt attention.

DEAD SHOT FOR BED BUGS.

A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it curls them up and lays them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees.

It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a neat tidy housewife. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is incalculable.

SANCHO PANZA

Called down "blessings upon the head of the man who first invented sleep." How much more worthy such honorable distinction would he consider the inventor of the Dead Shot, who, by his Pungent and Deadly Preparation, has rendered utterly impossible the ancient bloody forays of such 'tolerable and not to be endured' tormentors; and who has enabled every one to guarantee to himself his own particular share of "tired Nature's sweet restorer."

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE.

At the late meeting of the Western Unitarian Association, at Buffalo, the Rev. James Freeman Clarke remarked that the "only gleam of light and beauty in the disastrous Crimean war, gleamed from the loving and heroic soul of Florence Nightingale—an English Unitarian."

A NIGHTINGALE IN THE CAMP.

The men before Sebastopol! a more heroic host
There never stood, in hardship and in peril, at their post.
The foremost of those warriors 'twere a fair mess thing to be!
And there the first among them goes, if thou hast eyes to see.

Brave men, so called, are plentiful: the most of them are brave.
So, truly, are the most of dogs, who reck not of a grave:
Their valor's not self-sacrifice, but simply want of heed;
But courage, in a woman's heart, is bravery indeed.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

THE Merits of this Article are too well known to require a lengthy description. It perfects the work of Stove or Range, and Bakes quicker than either, and requires but one quarter the fuel. It has a Large Oven, and by an ingenious arrangement the Hot Air is carried around it so completely that it bakes in the most perfect manner, while at the same time the Boilers are placed directly over and close to the fire. On the top, which is flat, Irons are heated admirably, if required, and kept clean. It is made entirely of Iron, consequently is very durable; requires but little room, may stand in the open fire-place, (in Summer) or be placed parallel with the Range, and work it. STRAWBERRIES.—On Saturday last, strawberry wagons lined the streets at an early hour. They began in the morning at three cents—at noon they were 2 1-2 cents—and at sun down or dark they were offered in all directions for 2 cents the large basket.

By this time from the county bridge to the theatre was a continuous line of strawberry vehicles, with the lucious fruit displayed, and the air was redolent of their perfume'—Paterson (N. J.) Gaurdian.

Large quantities of this lucious fruit are sent to our market, and "natives" are also plenty; but still the price is rascally high.—It seems to matter very little how abundant the strawberry with us, as speculators prefer they should spoil to selling them at proportionate rates. The consequence is that poor people can only snuff "the air redolent of their perfume."—Boston Bee.

OUTRAGES UPON FEMALES.—The Troy Times says that it is estimated that the number of criminal outrages committed upon females in the United States during the past year have been 2300. In forty-eight cases the victim was either murdered on the spot or death subsequently resulted upon the injuries inflicted upon her. The number of suicides of females was 189—in eighty-seven cases the poor self-murderers had been the victims of seduction or outrage. This is a horrid catalogue, and one may well be surprised at the apathy with which a crime so fearfully prevalent is regarded. And yet we venture to say that not one-half the truth is known. If the wrongs which are borne and suffered in secret were brought to light, and calenders of our criminal courts thoroughly searched, we should find them footing up an aggregate with which the above figures would bear scarcely a comparison.

SMOTHERED TO DEATH.—In regard to the woman Moore, who was found dead in bed a few mornings since, at a lodging house in Southac street, it appears that she went to bed in such an intoxicated state, that when she accidentally got upon her face, she was unable from her condition to turn over, and actually smothered to death. Deceased was 35 years of age.—Boston Journal.

THE CROSS ESCORTED BY THE CRESCENT.—A letter from Beyrout mentions the death of one of the French Sisters of Charity, who had fallen a victim to her zeal and devotion to the sick. A number of persons attended her funeral, and, for the first time in Syria, the cross which was carried before the coffin was escorted by Turkish soldiers, with arms reserved.

IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT

—IN—

Rotary Planing, Tonguing and Grooving Machines.

PATENTED NOVEMBER 21st, 1854.

THIS Improvement has been thoroughly tested and found to possess just what is necessary to perfect the rotary planers.

My machine will plane very much faster and better than any other now in use. I would particularly call the attention of those in want of machines for nice work, or for planing very thin, cross-grained or knotty material, to these machines, as it is impossible for them to tear or throw out loose knots.

My Clapboard Machine will plane and joint as fast as the clapboards can be put into the machine, and perform the work without sorting them so as to plane with the grain, upon any quality of clapboards, in a very superior manner, without tearing the thin edge.

Applications for rights and machines, or for further particulars, can be made to the Patentee,

JAMES A. WOODBURY.

Familiar Quotations.

J. F. SHORES, Jr., No. Congress Block. has received, A Collection of Familiar Quotations, with complete indices of Authors and Subjects.

"The object of this work is to show, to some extent, the obligation our language owes to various authors for numerous and familiar quotations, which have become "household words."

This Collection, originally made without any view of publication, has been considerably enlarged by additions from an English work on a similar plan, and is now sent forth with the hope that it may be found a convenient book of reference.

Though perhaps imperfect in some respects, it is believed to possess the merit of accuracy, as the quotations have been taken from the original sources.

Also received a fresh supply of MOREDUN, the new work attributed to Sir Walter Scott. j

FOSTER'S PATENT

Deck-Reefing Gear.

By the application of this GEAR, the Topsails of any vessel may be Reefed from the deck with remarkable facility, and carry sail much longer than when rigged in any other way. This Gear can be readily applied to any old rig, and at less expense than any other now in use.

The following is an extract from a letter recently received from Capt. Pickering, of the ship Ocean Rover, of Portsmouth, concerning its merits:—

"It has given me perfect satisfaction, and I have only to regret that it is not applied to all the topsail yards. On the passage to this port, (Charleston, S. C.) I experienced strong gales from the S. W. and had occasion to use it several times, and on every occasion it worked finely."

Or to YEATON & HALE, Portland. f7

Morning Chronicle.

MONDAY, JULY 2, 1855.

THE STRAIT WHIG CONVENTION in Portland nominated Hon. Jacob Reed of Waldoborough, for Governor. Among other things, it resolved to disown the old Whig papers which have "embraced fusionism," and that "we recommend to our friends to sustain those presses only which remain faithful to the whig organization."

The resolution was unanimously adopted, and it was voted that it be published in the State of Maine and the Bangor Journal.

It would not at all surprise us to see a fusion—or coalition—or bargain, between the Regular Democrats, the Strait Whigs, and the Expositor Liberals. They all run counter to the intensified liquor law, and to the Fusionists, who now rule the State.

The Strait Whigs resolve that "we hereby pledge ourselves to support no man for political office who favors the administration of Anson P. Morrill."

True, the three parties rub into and defame each other more or less,—but if they can only break down the intensified liquor law, and open a judicious trade in strong drinks, under suitable regulations, and salutary restrictions, they can soon "purify the political affairs of the State."

CHOICE EXTRACTS, FROM THE PILOT.—Peter was a married man. So have been a great many holy bishops and priests of the Church. But he was separated from his wife after his election to the sublime office now filled by Pius IX.

How do you know that the Pope is unconverted, you poor know nothing? Are you converted? We suppose that you mean that the Pope is not a Protestant? Well, he isn't. He was not called by the Cardinals to the Pope's chair. He was ordained by Christ as truly as St. Peter. However, there is no use in explaining the matter to you, you unfortunate know nothing. The most lucid explanation would leave you as wise as before. You are one of the judicially stricken people who have eyes, and will not see; who have ears and will not hear.

What do you know about scriptural sense conversion, you poor know nothing? Your own principles, involving the right of private judgment, and the equality of the judgment of one man with that of any other man, makes us as good a judge as you are, to say the very least. In matters of this sort, where men are all equal, the majority governs. There is in your system, no man or persons having authority to judge for others. Well, we, Catholics, are the majority of Christendom, and we, therefore, have the right, according to your principles, to define what is conversion, in the scriptural sense, and what is not. Moreover, as we have a Church—endowed by Christ to teach infallibly, we know what the scriptural sense of conversion is. In this matter, as in all others, touching faith and morals, we have, therefore, a double advantage over you. 2d. He who sends another person to do a thing does it himself. Look at the register again, you luckless know nothing, and see how many Catholic missionaries there are in the world. Through them, sent by him, the Pope converts more than three thousand souls each day.

The reader is assured that these are veritable extracts, cut from the Boston Pilot of last week. The last, long paragraph, is a fair specimen of the kind of arguments most common in the papers and sermons of the Roman Church.

A DISPENSATION.—The Boston Pilot says:

The King of Sardinia is not yet excommunicated, although he may be, and deserves so be. God has already dealt with him sorely. He has recently lost four members of his family.

The papers with whom we held a dialogue, some time ago, on the subject of dispensations of Providence, will please set this down in their books on this wise:

Item: for disobedience to the Roman Church,—death of four children.

A telegraphic despatch to the Boston papers, dated Concord, N. H., June 29, says:

The Temperance Convention is not very fully attended. Not more than 250 persons went to hear Barnum last night, and to-day the meetings have been thin.

The Boston Herald's correspondent says there were about two hundred at first, admitted at 10 cents per ticket—and perhaps 150 came in afterwards.

Rev. William Silk preached, a few Sundays ago, at South Creek, New York, and was invited home by a gentleman, at whose house, pretending to be unwell, he staid several days—when, the gentleman going to Pennsylvania, Mr. Silk eloped with his wife, who left her two children behind. The guilty parties want over into Tompkins county. There Mr. Silk left his paramour, and ran away with a girl, whose father pursued so closely that Silk abandoned her and horse and buggy he had bought but not paid for, and made his escape. Where he ministers next we shall probably hear in due season. Ultimately we think he will be "settled" at Auburn or Sing Sing.—Eastern Argus.

Such Silken and Soft Soap Reverends as these, are altogether too numerous. Pass them round.

Hon. John Preston of New Ipswich, lives in a house built by his father, and where he was himself born. From his residence he can see the houses where were born his father and mother, and where lived and died all his grandparents. Such a case is not common.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEGISLATURE.

Friday, June 29th.

SENATE.—Read a third time and passed.—An act to establish the weight of grain and meal; an act to authorize the Amoskeag Manufacturing Co. to discontinue the use of certain locks and canals; an act to incorporate the Union Screw Co.; an act to incorporate the Nashua Ice Co.; an act to incorporate the Milton Cotton Mills; an act for the encouragement of the study of physiology in common schools; an act to amend the charter of the Social Library in Lyme; an act authorizing school districts to hire money for certain purposes; an act to incorporate the Ashuelot Savings Bank; an act to incorporate the Pittsfield Savings Bank.

HOUSE.—Two or three Bank Bills were indefinitely postponed.

The Bradford Election case.—Mr. Eastman of Conway, from the committee on Elections, to whom was submitted the resolution of enquiry into the right of Mason W. Tappan to hold a seat in this House as a member from the town of Bradford, reported in favor of his retaining his seat.

On motion of Mr. Wadleigh of Milford, it was resolved that Mason W. Tappan is entitled to his seat as a member of this House.

Bills read a third time and passed.—To incorporate the Somsrworth Bank.

To incorporate the Manchester Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

To incorporate the Kingston Academy.

To incorporate the Penacook water works, for the purpose of bringing water from Long Pond to Concord, for public use.

To amend an act to incorporate the Equitable Fire Insurance Company.

In relation to railroads crossing upon highways.

Mr. Smith gave notice that on to-morrow or some subsequent day he would introduce a bill in relation to circuses and shows.

SENATORIAL DISTRICTS.

District No. 1. Portsmouth, Gosport, Greenland, Hampton, Hampton Falls, North Hampton, Newmarket, South Newmarket, Stratham, Rye, Seabrook, Newington and New Castle.

12. All the towns in Coos county, and those in Grafton and Carroll not included in any other district.—Statesman.

NEW YORK, 29th.—All letters sent by private express per steamer Baltic, from this port for Liverpool, on May 30, are returned to the Post office in this city by order of the Department at Washington. Some 200 or 300 letters have been returned.

WORCESTER, June 28th.—The first passenger train from Boston this morning, run off the track within a few rods of the depot, severely injuring Mr. Murphy, brakeman.—Among those cut and bruised slightly are conductor Foster and Col. Dewitt, also several other passengers. Mr. Ware, a clergyman, was so much affected that he is at present insane.

ROCHESTER, June 29.—Two horses were rode into the current above Genesee Falls to-day, and both of them were taken over the falls. Their riders escaped by means of the bridge, one of the horses was instantly killed, the other, strange to say, received no other injury than two or three flesh bruises, and is now being exhibited in the streets as a curiosity. The falls are 92 feet high.

LOUISVILLE, June 29.—The suspension turnpike bridge in the process of construction across the Delaware River at Eotinunck, on the line of the Erie Railroad, fell this evening. The men were engaged on the bridge at the time, and six of them severely injured.

PHILADELPHIA, 29th.—The locomotive attached to the freight train on the Columbia railroad to-day exploded, killing George Zeigler, the engineer, and seriously scalding the fireman. The engine was completely demolished. The rest of the train was uninjured.

LOCAL.

☞ The rite of baptism by immersion was administered to three females and one male, near the South Mill, on Sunday noon, by Rev. B. S. Fantom, of the Pleasant Street Christian Society, in this city.

OSSIAN'S BARDS.—These favorite singers have advertised a concert to be given in the Temple next Saturday evening, at the low price of 15 cents—at which price we should think a large audience would be secured.

SQUARE THE BOOKS.—We are preparing to settle our books, as far as may be, to June 30th, according to our semi-annual custom.

FIRE AT RYE.—An unoccupied dwelling house at Rye Harbor, was destroyed by fire on Sunday night, June 24th. No insurance. It was the property of A. D. Parsons, Esq., who had recently rented it to a foreigner, and was about to bring his family to reside therein. The man was captain of a schooner engaged in the business of carrying stone for ship ballast to Boston, and on Sunday evening his schooner came to anchor off the harbor, and it was reported that his family were on board and about to be transferred to the house which he had hired. That night the house was destroyed by fire; and there can be no doubt that it was the work of an incendiary.—N. H. Gazette.

FAST.—Mr. Stephen Scammon, of Stratham, informs us that he has a horse that went round Lee Trotting Course, one-half mile, in one minute and five seconds—the second time in one minute.—Exeter News Letter.

No wonder the trotting horses about here backed down, when brought to the stand with this pacer. We don't think he need to be afraid to start with the runners even.

It is said to have been remarked by an old politician, that "if the people of the extremes could change work for a year—if the southern people could come to the north and the northern people occupy the south, for twelve months—it would cure them both of all ill feeling."

Perhaps so. But the working people of the South, i. e. the slaves, can't come, unless they run away—and then an army is raised to send them back.

THE N. H. INSANE ASYLUM.—From the report of the superintendent, we gather the following statistics: Whole number of patients received at the Asylum since it was opened in 1843, 1284, or an average of about 100 each year. Of these, 547 are represented to have recovered; 246 to have partially recovered; 197 to have "unimproved," and 118 to have died. The number of patients at present in the Asylum is 155; six less than the number there at the corresponding period of last year. The erection of another wing of the Asylum has been recommended.

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE.—It will be recollected that an Association of the Alumni of Dartmouth College was formed last year, of which the Hon. Joel Parker, LL.D., of Cambridge, is the President. The association is notified to meet the present year, at the College, on Wednesday July 25, when there will be a business meeting at 9 o'clock in the morning, and public exercises at a subsequent hour of the day. The occasion will doubtless be one of great interest. Dartmouth numbers among her Alumni some of the wisest and best of our citizens in various parts of the land, and they cannot fail to take pleasure in meeting again about the hearth-stone of their alma mater.—Boston Adv.

A POPULAR WORK OF FICTION.—"The Watchman," the new novel which has attained such great popularity, has been dramatized, and the prior right of performance purchased by a leading Philadelphia manager for $650. A song from it is also being set to music by one of our most elegant composers, and we should not wonder if we have Watchman songs and polkas by scores. So it is. When a book achieves popularity, there is no end to its success, and the author and publisher of the "Watchman" may congratulate themselves on their good fortune.—N. Y. News.

Several days ago a citizen of Winhall, Vt., discovered some strange "cattle" as he said, in his pasture, endeavoring to make themselves quite too familiar with his sheep. On approaching nearer he saw four bears, two old ones and a pair of yearling cubs, in hot pursuit of the sheep. After placing himself between the fleeing and their pursuers, and turning the brains out of his pasture, he immediately sent messengers in all directions to rally his townsmen to help him to capture the invaders. A hundred men proceeded to scour the woody hill, where they soon killed the dam and one cub.—Argus.

For the Chronicle.

TO A FRIEND.

When sunset on the distant hills
Doth glance so bright and free,
And tints the softly purling rills,
O, then I'll think of thee.

And when yon evening star appears,
So beautiful and gay,
I'll cast a thought on those few days
That fled so swift away.

And when the regal moon, so bright,
Is roaming down the sky,
I'll gaze with fond and lone delight,
And wish that thou wert nigh—

For moonlight is a holy hour,
That breathes of bliss and love,
And prints on hope's unfading flower,
"There is a home above;"

The elysian fields of light,
And angels tread that flowery way,
In unalloyed delight. S.

Sagamore Bridge, June, '55.

☞ CINCINNATI, 26th.—J. P. Broadwell and Dr. Grant, both prominent citizens, and very respectably connected, were to-day convicted of abducting and seducing a young girl, that had been bound out to a farmer, near Oxford, in this State, by the directors of the House of Refuge. Broadwell was fined $100, and sentenced to ten days imprisonment, and Grant was fined $150, and twenty days imprisonment.

GOOD MEDICINES.

It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchits, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.

Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.

Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only while it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.

These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbors and your own Physicians.

Try them once and you will never be without them.

MILLERS & GRAY,
T. H. MILLER,
FRANK W. MILLER.

DISTRESSING SUICIDE OF TWO LOVERS. In Brooklyn, N. Y., on Wednesday morning, as some members of Mr. Augeston's family, in Clement Avenue, went down stairs, they found Horatio, the son of Mr. Augeston, and a young unknown woman, sitting upon a settee on the piazza, dead.

The woman was sitting in one corner of the settee in an apparently easy position, with one arm over the end of the seat and cross-legged; the young man was close at her side, with his head resting on her shoulder, and his arm around her waist. Their eyes were open, and they looked as if they had been sitting happily together. A vial, containing prussic acid, was found near the deceased, and from this it was evident that they had committed suicide.

The woman is described as of fair complexion, with brown hair, and about twenty five years of age. She was dressed in black silk, with five flounces on her dress; black silk mantilla, trimmed with lace; brown gaiters, and slate colored silk stockings. She also had an ivory handled fan; and a gold stud, marked T. G. K., used for fastening her dress, which was low-necked. She had all her clothing on, except her bonnet. She was about five feet three inches high, with full face, and rather stout.

NEW YORK, June 12, 1855.

Dear Henry: I have been very sick, or should have written you immediately upon my arrival in New York. I was taken down so suddenly, and have been so unwell since, that I was not able to do so till now, my dear friend. I should have come out to see you to-day, but feel too weak, so I must wait with patience till you return, when I shall be so very happy to see you that I shall be quite well. Hoping you are as well and happy as I could wish you, I am

Yours, as ever, affectionate,
SARAH.

I have enclosed a $3 bill on the Mechanics' Bank of Newark, N. J.

The other note was written in pencil, on a piece of ordinary white paper. On the outside was written:

My dear Sarah, Remember the shirt. I told you it would be the last; it is not so much.

From your own HENRY WILLIAMS.

Miss Sarah Williams—from your own dear HENRY.

On the inside, written in pencil, was:

My dear Sarah: I bid you farewell for the last time. Remember, you are my own dear Sarah till death. Perhaps you think me foolish, but my love for you knows no bounds, and rather than be an eye witness of your life, I prefer death—hoping you will live long and die happy. I am your friend,
HENRY WILLIAMS.

Up to last evening it was not ascertained to a certainty who the lady was. She had been seen, however, about 12 o'clock the night previous, in company with the young man, promenading Myrtle Avenue. Several persons state that they saw them in company at different times.

A post mortem examination was held at the house of the parents upon the bodies of the deceased young man and woman, and in both cases the result was that death ensued from prussic acid. His face was somewhat contorted, but hers was smiling and her cheeks were almost as blooming as in life. They looked, as they lay in each other's arms, when discovered, more like sleeping than dead.

The sad circumstances of the affair, and the mystery in which it is involved, have deeply interested the entire section of the city in which the tragedy occurred, and a number of citizens convened at Wallace's store, corner of Clermont and Myrtle avenues, last evening, where a subscription was raised and the proper arrangements made to have the deceased female decently interred. Mrs. Capt. West, of No. 57 Vanderbilt avenue, tendered the use of her house for the funeral ceremonies. The body will be taken to-day from thence to the Episcopal Church in Adelphi street, where carriages, tendered by Mr. A. B. Lane, will be in waiting to convey the remains and those who wish to join in the procession to the Cemetery of the Evergreens. A plot of ground in this cemetery has been presented for the burial of her remains by Francis B. Stryker, Esq., Ex-Mayor of the city.—Tribune of Thursday.

SUICIDE OF A YOUNG FEMALE.—The New York Tribune tells of one Mary Erdmann, who died at the residence of her stepfather in that city, on Sunday evening, from the effects of a dose of arsenic taken on Friday last for the purpose of self destruction. It appears that for about a year past she had been devotedly attached to a young man named Henry Weis, to whom she was engaged to be married, but who by the persuasion of his friends, was induced to break off the engagement, and did so a few days since.

The announcement of his determination so affected her, that she immediately procured arsenic and swallowed it. Coroner O'Donnell held an inquest upon the body, and the above statements were elicited. The jury rendered a verdict of suicide by swallowing an overdose of arsenic.

ARRIVAL OF THE SALT LAKE MAIL.—Independence, Mo., June 28.—The Salt Lake Mail Train, with the Mails for May and June arrived last night. The party had no escort from the Lake to Fort Laramie.

The Indians are reported to be numerous around Black Hill, and are much alarmed at the movements of the troops, and desirous of peace. They propose giving up the murderers of the mail party last fall. The reports of so many persons having been killed by them are all fabrications. Four hundred persons reached Fort Laramie.

Col. Cook, and his command, were thirty miles this side the fort on the 1st.

The cholera has broken out among the Mormon tribes.

KINGSTON, C. W., June 29.—Baron De Rottenburgh has been appointed Adjutant General of Militia in Canada, and proceeds to organize the civil forces on an efficient footing. He was colonel in the regular army, has seen service, and the appointment gives satisfaction.

THE Proprietor of the above House respectfully announces to the pleasure seeking public that he will open for the season on WEDNESDAY, June 20th.
To those familiar with the locality of the Sagamore House, not a word is necessary in regard to its beautiful and healthful situation.—To strangers seeking rest and recreation by the seaside it affords attractions unequalled. Situated on a point of land on the Atlantic shore, near the Harbor of Portsmouth, the windows on three sides overlook the salt water. From the beach, the broad Atlantic, the Isles of Shoals, the beautiful Piscataqua, and the City of Portsmouth form a charming prospect, and in the background the green fields and leafy woods present a relieving contrast.

JOHN MACK, formerly of the Rockingham House, Portsmouth, whose experience and skill in hotel keeping will be a sufficient guarantee to all who know him that the management will be all that could be desired. The Table will be supplied with all the seasonable luxuries of the sea and land, and every effort used to render a sojourn at the Sagamore agreeable.
A Coach, in charge of an experienced driver, will run between the Sagamore House and the City of Portsmouth, two or three times a day, during the season, connecting with the several railroad trains. Fare 25 cents. All orders left at WM. R. PRESTON'S, in Portsmouth, will receive prompt attention.

DEAD SHOT FOR BED BUGS.

A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it cuts them up and lays them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees.
It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a neat tidy housewife. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is incalculable.
ANCHO PANZA
Called down "blessings upon the head of the man who first invented sleep." How much more worthy such honorable distinction would he consider the inventor of the Dead Shot, who, by his pungent and deadly Preparation, has rendered utterly impossible the ancient bloody forays of such 'tolerable and not to be endured' tormentors; and who has enabled every one to guarantee to himself his own particular share of "tired Nature's sweet restorer."

76 State st. opp. Kilby st. Boston, Mass.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered by inventors themselves, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the other fifteen dollars through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as personal attendance to their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring those who think they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

Late Commissioner of Patents."

Morning Chronicle.

THE TWO SUICIDES IN BROOKLYN.—The deceased female who was found dead with her lover a few days since in Brooklyn, N. Y., is proved to have been a woman of bad character, having been an inmate of a house of ill fame for five or six years. In her trunk at the house were found several letters from young Gustin, many of them dated from Muscatine, Iowa, and showing that the improper intimacy between the two had existed for some time, and he appears to have been a man of unsteady habits. The New York Commercial has a long account of the case. After giving the particulars, it has these timely comments:

Such was the woman, such were the facts, with which the populace sympathized; which nearly two thousand persons, most of them females, honored so far as they could; which a clergyman extravagantly eulogized. Sarah Williams, thus honored, almost canonized, was a well-known woman of the town, "a public woman," as one of the witnesses described her, had been such for five years, and it is by no means certain that she did not allure her companion to the crime by which they both perished.

AN AFFECTING SCENE.—A man named Cutler, died in West Boylston a day or two since, under novel and painful circumstances. He went to the house of Norman H. Goodale, where he received hospitalities without price, he having intimated that he was poor. He left for Albany, as he said, to meet his wife, and returned soon after with a young woman. He was taken sick and died. Mr. Goodale urged the widow to notify their friends in Manchester, N. H., to which she objected on the ground that they were married without the consent of parents. The circumstances excited suspicion, and on going to Manchester it was found that Cutler had a wife there; and that this woman was his mistress. The Worcester Transcript adds:

Upon being informed of the facts, the parties at Manchester at once started for the funeral, appointed for that day; and upon arriving at the house of Mr. Goodale, found the unfortunate girl weeping over the dead body of her paramour. A scene ensued which may be better imagined than described. The forsaken wife and stricken mistress were together in the presence of the dead. The widow of the faithless found herself face to face with her, for whom she and her children had been deserted. Feeling acutely the impropriety of her presence, and covered with shame at the discovery of her falsehood, the weeping pretender fled to her own apartment, whence, after the funeral, she was taken once more to the home of her parents, to live, and let us hope, to sin no more.

OPIUM.—The intemperate use of opium is said to be a great and growing evil in this country. Its effect upon the lives and intellect of its victims is more deleterious than alcohol, and yet, the New York Times in noticing its use, says, 'many young persons procure it in large quantities and swallow it like water.' It is consumed largely by temperance men; and frequently by lawyers and clergymen, who hope thereby to add brilliancy to their efforts. We have one eminent lawyer in our mind now, who has been nearly ruined thereby; and we once knew a clergyman of great ability who was frequently unfitted for the duties of his office by its use. If liquor sellers are deserving of State prison, we are not sure that the Chinese were not quite right in making the traffic in opium a capital offence.—Newburyport Herald.

Mr. John Connolly, a gardener well known in this city, says the New Haven Register, has for a long period of years been afflicted with deafness, so much so as to prevent his hearing the loudest voice, except by close application of the mouth to his ear. About a week ago, while crossing the Green, he was suddenly startled by distinctly hearing the sound of a carriage passing by. Since that time, he has been able to hear perfectly the slightest noises. No cause has been ascribed for this strange and sudden recovery, as he had years ago given up all hopes of being able to hear again, and had used no means to enable him to do so. Mr. C. is a worthy and honest man, and there is no doubt of the correctness of the above.

NO TENANTS IN THE LOCKUP.—The Bath Tribune publishes the following:—"In conversation with the Marshal and others of our police, we are informed that the utmost tranquillity reigns throughout the city. The midnight brawl, and drunken row is scarcely known. An intoxicated person has become a rara avis, and beneath the benign influences of the Maine Law and a faithful police, our lockup lacks tenants, and the Police Court, business. Compared with the corresponding month last year, the proportion of disturbances calling for the interference of our authorities during the month last past, is said to have been wonderfully small. Our Marshal is sanguine, that from having an unenviable name in this particular, among our sister cities and towns, we shall ere long come to be a model for them."

TUESDAY, JULY 3, 1855.

AMOS KENDALL.—ETERNITY.

Amos Kendall, a famous politician of the Jackson era, is now living in Indianapolis, old, feeble and worn out, exceedingly white-haired, and tottering on the verge of eternity.

We find the above paragraph in the Portland Advertiser, and think we have seen it before, in substance, elsewhere.

Amos Kendall was, it is true, a Jacksonian politician;—but he was also something else, viz.: one of the best Postmaster Generals we ever had. We deem him second to none but John McLean,—whom we esteem as A, No. 1, in filling a place for which only one man in about one thousand is fit.

We copy the item, however, for the purpose of criticising an expression which we consider to be in exceedingly bad taste, viz., tottering on the verge of eternity.

It is somewhat doubtful what the writer means by it. If he means that Mr Kendall's body, being earth, is soon to "return to the earth as it was," how very easy it would be to say so, in beautiful Hebrew Saxon, from our version of the Scriptures.

And if he means this, but desires to avoid Scriptural phraseology, he might say, "tottering on the brink of the grave." This would be simple, harmonious and intelligible. But the expression as it stands, has neither of these three qualities, if the author speaks of the body.

No true master of language speaks of eternity as a pit,—though we have heard the hackneyed pulpit phrase, "dropping into eternity," used by men who could not defend it at all, were they required to analyze it, and especially to harmonize it with the Scriptures. We have also seen, ad nauseam, the phrase, "launched into eternity," used to describe the execution of murderers and pirates by hanging.

We suppose, however, that the newspaper reporters of hangings, the preachers, and the writer of the item quoted, all mean by it, the projection, or passage of the man's spirit, from the present life in the body on the earth, into some future or other state, unseen by mortal eyes. And if this be the meaning, then it is most unhappily expressed.

On the supposition that the writer speaks of the spirit soon to depart,—what does the word eternity signify? a place? or a time?

First, let us look at a place, and go to the scriptures to look at the word. The word eternity does not appear in our English New Testament at all, and only once in the Old.

In Isa. 57: 15, we read, "the High and lofty One that inhabiteth Eternity." This at the first view looks like a place. If so, it is the place where God dwells; and we have generally the idea of elevation or highness, when we speak of God's house. Shall we say then, that Br. Amos Kendall totters on the verge of the Sun? on the verge of Heaven? totters on the verge of the celestial regions? Any careful and candid reader who will look at the whole verse, will see that the phrase only means the Eternal or Everlasting God; and that his dwelling places, both high and low, are described afterward, in the same sentence. And whoever will read the whole passage, may see that his Eternity or Perpetuity is here contrasted with the Vanity of Idols.

There are, however, in the Old Testament, three other passages, where the Hebrew word would be literally rendered Eternity. One of these is I. Sam. 15: 29: the Eternity or Victory of Israel will not lie nor repent, for he is not a man that he should repent. Our common version reads, The strength of Israel, &c.

Plainly enough, the word here does not mean a place at all, nor a time, but is used after a Hebrew fashion, as a figure to express the name of God himself, very much as we sometimes use the word Almighty.

Another is the splendid passage, Jer. 10.10, where the prophet, after describing idols and their ornaments as "the work of cunning men," breaks out thus:

But the Lord is the True God, the Living God, the King of Eternity.

Our translators have tamed the poetry by rendering it "an everlasting King." We would prefer Eternal King; nevertheless their translation is not bad, and it has a special value to us at this time, as it shows their idea, viz., that this eternity means time, and not place.

The other and the last passage is in the prophecy of Micah, 5.2: But thou, Bethlehem Ephratah, though thou be little among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall he come forth unto me, that is to be Ruler in Israel, whose goings forth have been from of old, from the Days of Eternity.

Our translators say, from Everlasting. No one can doubt that this eternity means time, and not place.

But the writer of the item may say, Do you not confound Time and Eternity? Answer, No. Time is the measure of duration, and is often used to mean duration itself, as we say, "we have no time." "Eternity is duration without end," says Webster; aye, and without beginning too, say we. And while there is duration, while God and Man and Nature live, there will be, must be, Time, as the measure of that duration.

But do not the scriptures speak of the end of Time, and the consequent beginning of Eternity? Not a word of either. The only thing that has the least semblance of it, is in Rev. 10.5, "there should be time no longer," that is, say almost all commentators, there shall be no more or longer delay.

But is it not proper to speak of this life as time, and of the future life as Eternity? Not unless all men die at the same time. On the that it were a proper form of statement, if Mr. Kendall dies to-morrow, it is eternity with him, all the rest of this year. And if any body else, Uncle Toby, for instance, should live till next January, then eternity and time would pass along side by side; and this glorious year would be both time and eternity.

The writer of the item does not mean a time, nor a place, by the word eternity, but he means, probably, the state or condition of the departed spirit; and he might have expressed his meaning vastly better, had he said, in scriptural phrase, "the spirit shall return to God who gave it." Or he has nearly "accomplished, as a hireling, his day,"—or his days are as an hand breadth, &c.

Instead of this he has used the pompous, but absurd and unmeaning phraseology of some preachers and reporters, who never do better than when they get a word full of sound—signifying nothing.

LEGAL DECISION.

The Eastern Argus says—

An opinion was delivered here on Thursday, June 28th, by Chief Justice Shepley, in the case of John Hersum, by which the full court decide that, Justices of the Peace and of Police, or Municipal Judges, have no power to try and pass sentence for the offence of selling liquor under the 2d section of the intensified liquor law, unless provision is made therefor, by the act establishing such Court.

The offence of selling liquor can therefore only be tried in the Supreme Judicial Court upon an indictment of the Grand Jury.

Hersum had been tried by the Police Court at Augusta, for the sale of a glass of liquor, and was sentenced to a fine of $20, and 30 days imprisonment. The case was brought before the Court on the petition for a writ of habeas corpus, and after full argument the Court declared the proceedings of the Police Court void, and discharged the prisoner. The effect of the decision, is to take from Justices of the Peace and Police Court all Jurisdiction under this law.

We understand the ground of the decision to be that the Jurisdiction of Justices of the Peace and Judges of the Police and Municipal Courts, has not been extended by this law, and that by the old law they had no power to enforce such penalties. But the opinion of the Court will soon be published, and we shall take the earliest opportunity to lay it before our readers.

When that opinion is published, (which will be this week) we presume our legislature will see how much of a hole it makes in the Maine Law, and how much ours is like it.

The State of Maine newspaper remarks:

The overwhelming of any party, is a small matter; but the revival of one thousand grogshops is a very serious affair. We find a dozen sufficient to keep a large neighborhood noisy and disorderly a great part of the time. If the decision above alluded to is correctly reported, a patch could easily be made by the legislature to stop such a hole; but as it will not sit for some time, unless by a call for a special session, the power of the law is greatly diminished at present.

Since the above matter was in type, we have read the opinion at length, as given in the Argus and State.

It does not in the least invalidate the general provisions of the bill. The search and seizure clauses remain untouched.

It does affect the Justices' and Police Courts, in the cases where the fine is above ten dollars, and where a part of the penalty is imprisonment; as over these they have no jurisdiction,—by reason of an omission of the law.

In future, says the Advertiser, under this decision, Justices of the Peace and Justices of the Police and Municipal Courts not having jurisdiction of cases under this section, will bind over the accused who may be found guilty on a preliminary examination, to the Supreme Court having final jurisdiction. The cases, therefore, will go directly to that Court without an appeal as would be necessary if the Justices of the Peace and Police and Municipal Courts had jurisdiction.

The decision is no great affair after all.—We believe it to be correct, though one judge dissented from it, and one undecided. It was the work of two judges only.

THE NEW SCHOOL HOUSE.—Messrs. Editors:—Permit me to make a few remarks through your press. I have understood that the city government have purchased a lot of land on Daniel St. on which to build rooms for the High Schools for the young Ladies and Gentlemen. Now this site is in the midst of all the wharves and ware-houses in the city, and also the homes of all or the principal part of the emigrants from the old countries, which makes this site the last that should be selected for that purpose. The best site that can be selected is none too good to build on for the high schools. I would advise the purchase of a site at the court-end of the city, and to buy land generously large enough for the young Ladies and Gents. to recreate themselves on the green grass of their own premises, in their leisure moments—not to be driven out into the dusty street for that purpose, where fast horses and carmen would endanger their lives.

The lot of land lately purchased on Daniel street by the city, is situated in the centre of police business, and would make an excellent site to build police court rooms, city watch, bridewell, &c. The city government have purchased cheap and have done well to buy the lot for the latter purpose.

I hope the City Government will take time and weigh well the location of rooms for the young ladies and gentlemen to finish their education in. Land in our city is cheap, and not likely to rise in value at the present time. A generous space of land gives light and air;—a short walk to and from the school gives health and strength and vigor to the young mind. —— A CITIZEN.

If "Citizen" had read the proceedings of the City Council, he would see that it has already been decided to build the school on that lot, and that the plans are about ready for the commencement of the work. Had there been any public opposition to the proposed location—perhaps the city government would have hesitated, before purchasing.

THE SELLER SOLD.—A gentleman in this city, passing a store in Market street, a few days since, bought and paid for a large box of figs—requesting the dealer for a joke to tell his (the purchaser's) son, who often passed that way, that he might have the figs if he would carry them home. The son, thinking the offer rather too liberal, concluded, after looking at the figs, that they must be "not fit to eat," and thought he would turn the joke off. So he procured a label of Kingsley & Co.'s New York Express, and marked the box for delivery to a storekeeper near by—employing a porter to convey it, who was directed to charge a trifle for bringing the box from the depot. The recipient was of course rather pleased with the compliment, for which he gave some New York friend credit; and with his friends, regaled himself upon the delicious present. Our hero was rather disposed to laugh at the "tasters," who from his representation were a little inclined to think they might have been eating wormy fruit—till the truth leaked out through the purchaser, now minus, which showed the pedal covering to be exactly on the other limb. Those figs were excellent, we know, for we had the pleasure of experimenting on half a pound or so.

ANOTHER MARTYR.

On Saturday, June 30, the noon train of cars over the Eastern Railroad, from Boston for Portland, took in at Boston a passenger belonging in some part of Maine, who had evidently been drinking some delicious drink which was too strong for him. His appearance, which was bad at the first, became worse and worse, until the cars arrived at Wells, when the poor victim threw up his arms with a spasmodic effort, and with one expiring groan, yielded up his life. A physician in the train, on examination, pronounced him dead.

He was conveyed on the train, into Portland, where a coroner's inquest was held, according to law. In his pockets and baggage were found a gold watch, notes and bills of some considerable amount, which he had paid in Boston—and above all, three bottles of strong drink, from one of which he had been seen to drink. The doctors present declared the drink strong enough and bad enough to kill anybody, and had no doubt he died by an overdose of bad rum. The jury, we understand, gave in their verdict accordingly. He was supposed to be an Irishman.

Delirium tremens has its victims. But shall there be no end to human sacrifices on this altar?

GREAT CATCH OF MACKEREL.—We learn that mackerel are very abundant in our waters this season. A fisherman took one hundred and fourteen barrels, one day last week, near Boon Island; and others have been nearly as successful.

SERVED HIM RIGHT.—A man who cultivates a small piece of land near the Creek, had some very early potatoes, which he discovered that some scamp had been digging.—He lay in wait for the fellow, who again made his appearance a few mornings since, at about three o'clock, and commenced to dig. The rightful owner rushed from his concealment, seized the thief, and gave him a severe flogging.

GOOD MEDICINES.
It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchits, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.
Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.
Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only while it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, Loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.
These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbors and your own Physicians.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Five clerks and one messenger were removed from the Treasury Department, this morning, on political grounds.

July 1.—During the month of June, about twenty clerks, messengers and watchmen have been removed from the departments for political reasons.

Mr. Waldo, Commissioner of Pensions, has not yet decided as to the acceptance of the judgeship, to which he was recently appointed.

The pension office commences issuing eighty-acre bounty land warrants, next Tuesday.—The total number of applications received for land warrants up to the present time, is 182,000. The total number of adjudications is 11,084, and the total number of warrants issued is 7550.

DEATHS BY SUN STROKES.—A man named Wm. Johnson, a "top sawyer" in Taylor's ship yard, Chelsea, Mass., while at work on Saturday, was so much affected by the heat that he fell from his position and died in less than half an hour.

In New York City on the same day, there were no less than nine cases of sun stroke, most of them fatal; and several in Philadelphia.

WARM SUNDAY.—In New York on Sunday, the day was intensely hot, the thermometer ranging from 90 to 95 in the shade.

In Philadelphia the thermometer ranged from 95 to 97.

In this city 85; and on Monday 90.

WANT OF ENTERPRISE.—Not a single paper from the towns and cities in Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island, that has been received this morning, has an allusion to the weather in their respective localities. There is evidently a want of enterprise and thermometers in the newspaper establishments from Portland to Providence.—Boston Transcript, Monday.

Enterprise, indeed. Don't mention the word, while the thethermometer stands at 90, as it has here for the past four days. We should as soon think of putting on overcoat and mittens. An item about the weather could not be called a news item.

SAGAMORE HOUSE,

FROST'S POINT, 3½ miles from Postsm. Depots.

THE Proprietor of the above House respectfully announces to the pleasure seeking public that he will open for the season on WEDNESDAY, June 20th.

To those familiar with the locality of the Sagamore House, not a word is necessary in regard to its beautiful and healthful situation.—To strangers seeking rest and recreation by the seaside it affords attractions unequalled. Situated on a point of land on the Atlantic shore, near the Harbor of Portsmouth, the windows on three sides overlook the salt water. From the beach, the broad Atlantic, the Isles of Shoals, the beautiful Piscataqua, and the City of Portsmouth form a charming prospect, and in the background the green fields and leafy woods present a relieving contrast.

The House will be kept in the best manner, and every endeavor will be used to give satisfaction to its guests. The more effectually to do this, the proprietor has secured the services of MR. JOHN MACK, formerly of the Rockingham House, Portsmouth, whose experience and skill in hotel keeping will be a sufficient guarantee to all who know him that the management will be all that could be desired. The Table will be supplied with all the seasonable luxuries of the sea and land, and every effort used to render a sojourn at the Sagamore agreeable.

A Coach, in charge of an experienced driver, will run between the Sagamore House and the City of Portsmouth, two or three times a day, during the season, connecting with the several railroad trains. Fare 25 cents. All orders left at WM. R. PRESTON'S, in Portsmouth, will receive prompt attention.

THOS R. CLARK, Proprietor.

Good horses and carriages are connected with the house, and the beautiful steamboats "Lady of the Lake" and "Dover" make several trips each day up and down the lake. Gentlemen who delight in angling and gunning will find here ample field for their favorite enjoyment. DEAD SHOT FOR BED BUGS.

A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it curls them up and lays them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees.

It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a neat tidy housewife. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is incalculable.

SANCHO PANZA

Called down "blessings upon the head of the man who first invented sleep." How much more worthy such honorable distinction would he consider the inventor of the Dead Shot, who, by his Pungent and Deadly Preparation, has rendered utterly impossible the ancient bloody forays of such 'tolerable and not to be endured' tormentors; and who has enabled every one to guarantee to himself his own particular share of "tired Nature's sweet restorer."

The coming crop, according to intelligence from every section of the Union, is to be the largest and the best ever had in the United States. Wheat is so abundant, that unless some unforseen demand shall occur, the beam will tip as much in favor of the purchaser, by giving low prices of flour, as it has been against him in the past twelve months. Indian corn is the only thing backward; and there is time enough for that to grow in the hot months to come. The drought of the last season is said to have proved favorable to the western farmers, by destroying insects injurious to the crops; it will be so, also, to the whole people, in turning a large population to agriculture, and increasing the cultivation of the soil.—Newburyport Herald.

We believe we shall be obliged to yield to the superior knowledge of our friend of the Portsmouth Chronicle, in relation to J. C. Lovejoy's denominational standing. We stated somewhat positively that he was a Methodist. It appears that he is Congregational, and the Chronicle is right, we are wrong, and therein is the difference.—Christian Era, Lowell.

It is not much matter to which denomination he belongs: only we like to see history set right when it is possible to do it. We had received a sermon of his, and thought we knew what his connexion was: but on the Era's statement, we supposed we might have erred, or that Mr. L. might have changed his connexion.

Agency for business with US Patent Office, Washington,
76 State st, oppo. Kilby st, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent office, appointed by Mr. Ewbank) is prepared to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid heretofore), will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries, besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

THE Merits of this Article are too well known to require a lengthy description. It performs the work of Stove or Range, and Bakes quicker than either, and requires but one quarter the fuel. It has a Large Oven, and by an ingenious arrangement the Hot Air is carried around it at pleasure, so that it bakes in the most perfect manner, while at the same time the Boilers are placed directly over and close to the fire. On the top, which is flat, Irons are heated admirably, if required, and kept clean. It is made entirely of Iron, consequently is very durable; requires but little room, may stand in the open fire-place, (in Summer) or be placed in front of the Range, and work it. THE POPULAR MIND.—A gentleman advertised to give a Lecture, at the Temple, in this city, one evening last week, on the most interesting and exciting topic of the day. The admittance fee was twenty five cents. The evening on which the lecture was to be delivered, proved to be very pleasant, and the lecturer naturally expected a good house; but, lo! and behold! when he came upon the stage there were only two persons in the house, and those both, we believe, dead-heads! The luckless wight took the first train of cars that left our city the next morning, and probably will not very soon come to Portsmouth again to lecture.

Now mark the difference.

A Circus company advertised to give two performances, afternoon and evening, last Friday, in a tent pitched half a mile farther from the residences of most of the spectators, than the Temple is. The day was excessively hot, but at both performances there were immense and very respectable audiences;—we think both united could not fall much, if any, short of four thousand. Among this vast multitude were official dignitaries of various grades, lawyers, doctors, musicians, school masters, &c.; and, to cap the whole, individuals who have publicly and repeatedly denounced circuses. T.

ROW AT THE REVERE HOUSE, BOSTON.—Saturday morning, in the Police Court, brought out the real facts in relation to the excitement which had existed at the Revere House on Friday night.

It appears that between the hours of nine and ten that evening, the well-known John Agin and one of his friends went into the bathing department of the Revere House for a bath and a cooling off. But their plan resulted in a different manner, from the indiscretion of Agin, who had been taking too much stimulent somewhere about town.—Agin took improper liberties with Isabella Boyle, one of the attendants, and also with Hannah Siss, who came to her assistance. One of the male attendants, James Mahan, then attacked Agin with a piece of gas pipe. A general row ensued, the servants siding one way, and Agin's friends the other. The Police were sent for, and the row quelled.

On Saturday morning there were four complaints against Agin, three for assault, and one for smashing a glass door. For the assault on Isabella Boyle, he was fined $25 and costs. For the assault on James Mahan, $15 and costs. The complaint alleging an assault on Hannah Siss, is postponed until Friday next, on account of the absence of Agin's friend as a witness. For breaking the glass door, a fine of $15 and costs was ordered.

DEATH OF A VENERABLE LADY.—Mary Channell, a member of the United Society of Harvard, Mass., died a day or two since, at the advanced age 90 years 9 months and 14 days. She was the daughter of John and Mary Dyer, and the former wife of Abraham Channell, of England. Mrs. Channell was one of the choir of singers that welcomed Gen. Washington upon his visit to Boston.—She has been a member of the United Society for nearly forty years. The cause of her decease was inflammation in the stomach, with which she had been afflicted for some years previous to her decease.—Herald.

OREGON TERRITORY.—The Indians at the mouth of the Salmon river, have quit their rancherias and taken to the mountains, sending word to the whites "that it is war to the death." The poor Indians in this section have cause to suspect the whites more than anywhere else. The Indian Agent is calumniated and abused by bad white men, who tell the Indians that he only wants to get them to the Reservation, so he can get them in a crowd, and then he will bring up a big gun and kill them all at once; and other tales of a similar character—which they believe.

The immediate cause of their leaving for the mountains, was the recent unprovoked and cowardly murder of two prominent Indians at the mouth of the Salmon—whose fidelity to the whites had never been questioned. The Indians of course conclude that if the whites kill friendly Indians, the others will find but little mercy at their hands. It is a notorious fact that certain miscreants have been exerting all their ingenuity to stir up another outbreak—and in this we fear they will be successful.

Morning Chronicle.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 4, 1855.

FOURTH OF JULY.

The Birthday of our National Independence cannot be forgotten. It is remembered with gratitude by some, with pride by many, and enjoyed by thousands of boys, great and small, as a day of licensed noise and uproarious jubilation. We delight in it as almost the only general holiday we have extending throughout our country. With the usual concomitants, one such is enough for one year. And yet, with a moderate amount of care, and above all, with temperance, it might be the best national holiday kept in the world.

Having recently had a grand display here, by the Free Masons, no public parade will be attempted in this city, so far as we are informed;—and nothing done beyond making music on bells and guns.

At Dover there is to be a Floral Procession in the morning, by the schools; and a Grand Procession in the forenoon, with two bands of music, miltary escort, &c.

The Address is to be delivered by Timothy Bigelow, Esq., of Boston. Fire-works will be let off in the evening; and the whole is intended to be an old fashioned Fourth of July, celebrated, as the Dover Gazette informs us, "on a most magnificent scale."

The people of South Berwick and Salmon Falls are to unite in a joint celebration.

At Portland there is to be a floral procession, of the schools, got up by the city government. And also at Newburyport.

For the Chronicle.

WHO ARE THANKFUL?

Messrs Editors:—In your paper of June 28th, there was an article signed P. S. purporting to be a sort of protest against a prohibitory liquor law. There are two or three remarkable things about the article.

One is, that several palatable drinks can be made of fruits, and that these drinks will not keep, unless fortified by spirits;—a second is, that the men who drink what they like, are more thankful to their Maker, than those who abstain; and a third, that the modern laws to suppress drinking houses and tippling shops, are a dreadful tyranny and a grievous wrong.

To the first I would make answer that these delicious drinks had better be used up while they are new and sweet: to the second, that I do not believe a word of it: and to the third, that there's no tyrant like a drunken husband or father, and no wrong in the community more grievous than the crime and pauperism caused by drinks.

One thing, Messrs. Editors, in your introduction, is no less remarkable than the communication itself, viz. the statement that your correspondent P. S. neither drinks nor sells spirits, but left off the sale, years ago.

Now gentlemen, it seems to me his actions speak louder than his words. Why don't he drink? Probably because he does not think it necessary, or desirable, or safe.

Why don't he sell? Not because he could not: but because public opinion or his own, or both, induced him to think he had better not keep or sell an article so mischievous or dangerous.

The Freewill Baptist yearly Meeting, at Manchester, N. H., has just passed strong resolutions against intoxicating drinks, approving the prohibitory laws of other States, and recommending a similar law in New Hampshire.

The Merrimack Co. (Congregational) Conference of Churches, at Henniker passed resolutions,—expressing their symphathy with all christian and judicious efforts to promote temperance— approving of a strong law—and lastly, but not least, resolving

That we will never intermit the use of Christian sympathy and effort to reform our fellow men who are addicted to the vice of intemperance; and that we will employ every effort in our power to aid in and encourage such as are seeking to reform themselves.

This last item is one of best we have seen for a long time. We hope it is not a mere Resolution on paper, but that it will be carried out, in the action of those ministers and churches that have adopted it.

ACCIDENT.—The Exeter News Letter says Joseph L. Cilley, Esq., broke his arm on Saturday noon. He was riding in a wagon, when from some cause the horse suddenly sheared, the wagon was upset, and Mr. Cilley was thrown to the ground. His arm fell underneath the wagon and was fractured.

SUICIDE.—We learn that a man named George F. Chase, of Londonderry, committed suicide June 25th, by hanging. He had always been an intemperate man; and on Sunday became beastly drunk. On Monday he was about the house until half past eleven o'clock, but was not seen again till his eldest daughter discovered him in the barn quite dead, with the rope around his neck.—He left two daughters.—Manchester Mirror.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEGISLATURE.

Very little was done on Saturday and Monday.

SATURDAY, June 30th.

HOUSE.—A Report was made, in Geo. Low of Concord, for services at the Indian Stream Country, closing with the following resolution.

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court Convened, That Joseph Low be allowed the sum of $438 60, with interest thereon from Feb. 18th, 1855, in full for his account for his services as commander-in-chief of the military force employed in repelling invasion and suppressing invasion and insurrection in the Indian Stream Territory in 1835 and '36, and that the some be paid out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

MONDAY, July 2d.

HOUSE.—Notices of Bills.—Mr. Sanborn of Hampton Falls gave notice that, on to-morrow or some subsequent day, he would ask leave to introduce a bill for the removal of the Granite Bank from Exeter, and for locating it at Hampton Falls.

Mr. Emery of Portsmouth, by special leave presented petition of certain parties in Portsmouth for an act of incorporation; also a bill to incorporate said parties as the Piscataqua Bath Company, which was read a first and second time, and referred to the Committee on Incorporations.

NATIONAL MAGAZINE.

The July Number is No. 1, of vol. 7; published by Carlton & Phillips, New York, and edited by Abel Stevens. It contains a likeness of Bishop Scott, of the M. E Church, with a brief biographical sketch; Goldsmith's Deserted Village, with 11 engravings; and a great variety of interesting papers—among these is an article on the Dead Sea, and the adjacent county, from which we make the following extract:

Having thus identified this strange location with interesting Biblical events, we are again on our way, eagerly searching for the remarkable pillar seen by Lieut. Lynch, and which some recent writers have understood him to represent as being the monumental effigy of Lot's wife. An ancient tradition of the kind prevailed in the time of Josephus, who declares that he had seen the pillar into which the disobedient woman had been changed.—Other early writers also mention the same circumstance, and Reyland even goes so far as to assert, that as fast as any part of this pillar was washed away, it was supernaturally renewed. Among the superstitious Bedouins, the pillar seen by the American expeditionists is regarded as the "monument of an unbelieving soul." But the position and dimensions of this cylindrical rock are fatal to the hypothesis of its being the pillar into which the mistrustful woman was transformed. It is perched upon the top of an oval hill, about fifty feet above the level of the sea, and is itself at least forty feet in height. Its physical formation is ascribed by travellers to the action of the wintry rains. Indeed, De Saulcy speaks of the existence of vast numbers of needles of salt, and expresses his regret that the American officer did not happen to examine the Salt Mountain on two different occasions, and in the rainy season, when "he would have found a hundred Lot's wives, instead of one." Besides these objections to the supposition in question, the death-stricken woman was overtaken by the divine judgment on the plain, and not in the midst of a range of hills like Udsum; while, from all that is known of the relative positions of Sodom and Zoah, she would in this spot have been miles out of her way to the city of refuge.

APPOINTMENT BY THE PRESIDENT.—S. Wells Williams to be interpreter and secretary of the legation of the United States in China.—Washington Union, June 30.

This is the important and difficult office which has been held with distinguished credit by Dr. Parker, who, if the government rewarded merit and ability, ought to have been appointed to the office of commissioner. The vacancy now caused by Mr. McLane's return, gives an opportunity for this appointment, of which we wish we could hope that the administration would avail.—Boston Advertiser.

We wish so, too. Dr. Parker knows more about China and the Chinese, than any other American;—and what is more, he has the confidence of that people.

THE RECORDING ANGELS.

Two Angels dear on every soul attend,
And watch with patient waiting on each hand;
One with soft eye of hope, and one of fear—
And both, with love intense, a golden record bear.
And when that precious Soul with love doth glow,
Those loving eyes with holy lustre shine;
Then doth the right-hand Angel whisper low,
"'Tis ours forever!" and with seal divine
Confirm the good, for Good can ne'er decay,
But, all immortal, wings to Heaven its way.
But if Suspicion dark, or fearful Wrath,
Trouble the lustre of those sinless eyes,
The left-hand Angel of Man's darkened path,
In weeping silence writes, and sad surprise;
But holds unsealed still the golden line,
And on his hopeful brother leans awhile;
For if that Soul repent the heavens shall smile,
And swift that record fade in light divine;

MAIL IRREGULARITY.—The mail which was due in this city from New York on Wednesday morning last, arrived Saturday afternoon. The errand bags have been down to Newport, we understand, lying off and on, for we don't know how long. We greatly marvel they were not chucked into somebody's paper-mill, and their contents ground up to make wrapping paper of.—Norwich Courier, June 30th.

BALTIMORE, July 2.—New Orleans papers of Tuesday last are received. Only about half the city was polled at the late election for judges, and although the result has been claimed as an anti-Know Nothing victory, most of the papers say, that politics had nothing to do with it. The deaths in New Orleans during the preceding week amounted to 191, of which 48 were from cholera.

LOCAL.

☞ To-day being the 4th of July, we shall publish no paper on Thursday morning.

A HUMBUG.—A darkey calling himself Lynch, (who, by the way, deserves to be lynched) came to this city a short time since, and gave notice of an exhibition to be given at the Temple, which he entitled "Egyptian Curiosities." He deceived quite a number of our clergymen, by getting them to notice the performance from their pulpits, on the Sabbath preceding the evening it was to take place. The eventful evening came, and that was nearly all that did come—the audience consisting of half a dozen who bought tickets, and about an equal number of dead-heads! The blackamoor, seeing so few present, sloped, leaving behind him what little money the door keeper had taken, and also leaving sundry bills unpaid. We have good reason to believe that the whole concern is a humbug; and that the rascal hoped to get a full house, steal the money, and run off; leaving the audience to amuse themselves. As it happened, however, the amount of money taken at the door was not enough to pay for the risk he would run in stealing it. T.

THE PREBLE AT PORTSMOUTH.—Small errors of names, places, &c. will creep into the best of news papers. The ship of War Preble has not arrived at this Portsmouth, where the Chronicle is printed,—but we are happy to see that she has arrived at another Portsmouth in Virginia, as by the following item in the Portsmouth, Va. Transcript of June 30th.

The U. S. Sloop of War Preble, the practice ship attached to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Lieut. Commanding J. F. Greene, arrived here yesterday morning. After a tarry of some days she will proceed on a cruise northward for a practice. There are about eighty young midshipmen on board.

EASTERN RAILROAD.—Mr. W. S. Tuckerman having resigned the office of Treasurer of the Eastern Railroad Company, the duties of both the Treasurer and the Income Clerk will hereafter be performed by Mr. J. B. Parker, a gentleman who has for years past been employed as Income Clerk at the office in Salem.

The season ticket office is now over the depot in Causeway street, under the charge of Mr John Benson.

A NEW IDEA IN RHYME.

BY RICHARD HAYWARDE.

I lent my love a book one day,
She brought it back, I laid it by;
'Twas little either had to say—
She was so strange, and I so shy.

But yet we loved indifferent things—
The sprouting buds, the birds in tune;
And TIME stood still and wreathed his wings
With rosy links, from June to June.

For her, what task to dare or do?
What peril tempt? what hardship bear?
But with her, ah! she never knew
My heart, and what was hidden there.

And she with me, so cold and coy,
Seemed like a maid bereft of sense;
But in a crowd, all life and joy,
And full of blushful impudence.

She married! well, a woman needs
A mate, her life and love to share—
And little cares sprung up like weeds,
And played around her elbow-chair.

And years rolled on, but I, content,
Trimmed my one lamp, and kept it bright,
Till age's touch my hair besprent
With rays and gleams of silver light.

And then it chanced, I took the book
Which she had read in days gone by,
And as I read such passion shook
My soul, I needs must curse or cry.

For here and there her love was writ
In old, half faded, pencil-signs,
As if she yielded, bit by bit,
Her heart, in dots and underlines.

Ah! silvered fool! too late you look.
I know it; let me here record
This maxim, "Lend no maid a book
Unless you read it afterward."

HON. JOHN P. HALE.—We stated last week, that this gentleman had been a total abstinence man for years. We felt sure that we then spoke within limits, and were glad to hear him say in his speech at the convention on Friday, that he had not drank a drop of ardent spirits for twenty years. We trust this will seal the mouth of his defamers.—N. H. Phenix.

GOOD MEDICINES.
It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchits, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.
Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.
Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only while it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.
These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbors and your own Physicians.
Try them once and you will never be without them.
Price 25 cts. per Box—5 Boxes for $1.

Yacht Sea Ranger,
FOR THE SHOALS AND A MARKET.

CAPT. JAMES W. GOODWIN respectfully gives notice to the pleasure seeking public that he has purchased for their accommodation the present season, the safe, commodious and fast-sailing Yacht SEA RANGER, of 45 tons burthen, with which he is now prepared to convey parties to the Shoals, Boar's Head and other places in the vicinity; and having furnished her with all the necessary materials, will accomodate FISHING PARTIES on reasonable terms.
The SEA RANGER will outsail any vessel on the Piscataqua or of any neighboring ports, in light or heavy winds; is fitted with excellent berths; is well supplied with sails, boats, fishing and cooking apparatus, and is in every respect the best vessel for the accommodation of parties who desire a few days enjoyment on the briny ocean that ever hailed from this port.
The SEA RANGER will make occasional trips to the SHOALS for the accommodation of such persons as desire safe conveyance thither; and when the bosom of old ocean is too much agitated for the steamer GRACE DARLING, alias Silver Star, to venture forth, the Yacht will bear passengers safely o'er the bounding billow.
The commander of the Sea Ranger confidently appeals to those who have in past seasons patronized the SPY under his command, for the continuance of their patronage for his new Yacht, pledging himself to use every exertion to give them and all new patrons entire satisfaction.
For further particulars apply to JACOB WALDEN, No. 9 Water street, or to the Master on board, at Pier Wharf, foot of State street.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., July 2.—The steamer Lexington, running between Louisville and St. Louis, was blown to atoms near Stephen's Fort, Kentucky, on the up trip. The packet Baltimore has just arrived from the scene of the disaster, with twenty officers and passengers of the Lexington, including Captain Throop and the first clerk, Wm. Davidson, both wounded. The Captain thinks that there were not more than 35 wounded out of 100 that were on board. The ladies were all saved unharmed. The accident occurred at three o'clock on Sunday morning. The boat and cargo are a total loss.

ST. LOUIS, June 28.—The Republican has advices from New Mexico to the 30th of May. On the 29th Col. Fauntleroy attacked a camp of Utahs, near Arkansas River, twenty miles north of Brencha Pass, killed forty and took six prisoners. The command had one man slightly and one mortally wounded. All the camp equipage, horses, sheep, provisions, &c., were captured. On the 1st of May the same command attacked a camp of 35 Utahs in the Schowatch valley, killed four, wounded four, and captured horses, provisions, &c. Among the prisoners taken is a chief, who is inclined to sue for peace. The command returned to Fort Massachusetts on the 9th of May.

A TRAGEDY IN THE CRIMEA.—Lt. Driant, of the grenadiers, had occasion to check a soldier who, being partly intoxicated, was marching very irregularly. Scarcely had the reprimand been given, when the man replied, "Lieutenant, you've punished me often enough—you shall not punish me any more;" and on the instant leveling his musket he fired and shot him through the body. The General in command of the trenches was in the ravine close by, and after a brief consultation between him and the commandant of the relief, a council was held and the man condemned to be shot. He was taken out and twelve bullets were sent through his body.

On Friday last, as appeared by the testimony before the jury of inquest, Mr. Elizur Steel, a resident of the town of Berlin, a man of property, having a wife and small children, who was a kind husband and father when not under the influence of strong drink, went to the adjoining town of Rocky Hill, and there unlawfully (there being no agency in that town) procured two gallons of spirituous liquor. With that liquor he became intoxicated, and remained so the greater part of the time until Tuesday afternoon. In the course of that day he told his little girl, four years of age, that she would have no father at nine o,clock that evening.

He subsequently took his gun, went to the rear of his house, was followed by his wife, who observed that he sat down, pulled off the boot and stocking off his right foot, placed the muzzle of his gun in or near his mouth, and endeavored to fire it by means of his toes. His wife interposed, and tried to take the gun from him, and could not, but succeeded in taking the percussion cap from the lock, and left him, saying that she would call the neighbors. Before any one came, a report of the gun was heard; and on repairing to the spot, it was found that he had accomplished his object. The right side of his face, his right eye and his brains, were blown off, and the man a corpse.

SHAMEFUL WASTE IN THESE HARD TIMES.—Some of the newspaper accounts inform us that when the Russians found that they were likely to be beaten by the Allies in a certain engagement, they not only burned four of their own steamships and thirty transports, but destroyed 100,000 sacks of flour, 160,000 of oats, and 300,000 of corn. How many famished persons might be sustained by such an immense quantity of provisions. To say nothing of the still more melancholy destruction of human life, one of the inevitable consequences of war, how deep the depravity of those who could ruthlessly sacrifice the ripened fruits of peaceful labor at a time of high prices and great scarcity the world over, and how different the spirit manifested from that of the New Testament, where we read, "If thine enemy hunger, feed him."

SAGAMORE HOUSE,
FROST'S POINT, 3½ miles from Postsm. Depots.
THE Proprietor of the above House respectfully announces to the pleasure seeking public that he will open for the season on WEDNESDAY, June 20th.
To those familiar with the locality of the Sagamore House, not a word is necessary in regard to its beautiful and healthful situation.—To strangers seeking rest and recreation by the seaside it affords attractions unequalled. Situated on a point of land on the Atlantic shore, near the Harbor of Portsmouth, the windows on three sides overlook the salt water. From the beach, the broad Atlantic, the Isles of Shoals, the beautiful Piscataqua, and the City of Portsmouth form a charming prospect, and in the background the green fields and leafy woods present a relieving contrast.
The House will be kept in the best manner, and every endeavor will be used to give satisfaction to its guests. The more effectually to do this, the proprietor has secured the services of Mr. JOHN MACK, formerly of the Rockingham House, Portsmouth, whose experience and skill in hotel keeping will be a sufficient guarantee to all who know him that the management will be all that could be desired. The Table will be supplied with all the seasonable luxuries of the sea and land, and every effort used to render a sojourn at the Sagamore agreeable.
A Coach, in charge of an experienced driver, will run between the Sagamore House and the City of Portsmouth, three times a day, during the season, connecting with the several railroad trains. Fare 25 cents. All orders left at WM. R. PRESTON'S, in Portsmouth, will receive prompt attention.
THOS R. CLARK, Proprietor.

Good horses and carriages are connected with the house, and the beautiful steamboats "Lady of the Lake" and "Dover" make several trips each day up and down the lake. Gentlemen who delight in angling and gunning will find here ample field for their favorite enjoyment. DEAD SHOT FOR BED BUGS.
A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it curls them up and lays them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees
It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a neat tidy housewife. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is incalculable.
SANCHO PANZA
Called down "blessings upon the head of the man who first invented sleep." How much more worthy such honorable distinction would he consider the inventor of the Dead Shot, who, by his Pungent and Deadly Preparation, has rendered utterly impossible the ancient bloody forays of such tolerable and not to be endured tormentors; and who has enabled every one to guarantee to himself his own particular share of "tired Nature's sweet restorer."

The statistical tables of mortality shows a reduction in this country of the proportion of deaths from pulmonary diseases. Dr. Ayer attributes this result to the effect of his Cherry Pectoral. He also asserts that the cures from his Cathartic Pills give reason to believe they will, as they become more general used, materially reduce the mortality from those particular diseases for which they are designed. From what we know of his preparations, we think he has grounds for his claims, and if he has, it is an attainment of which an Emperor might be proud. Rarely is it permitted any one man to know that his skill is bestowing health and life to the masses of his fellow men.

Such a reflection is worth working for, even though he had only the reflection for his reward.—Springfield Daily Courier.

DEATH FROM COLD WATER.—Mr. Wm. Babbitt, keeper of the What Cheer Saloon, at 600 Washington street, Boston, died suddenly on Saturday afternoon, from the effects of drinking ice water. He had been at work in a cool cellar most of the day, and upon coming out he was so much overcome by the heat, that he drank a considerable quantity of ice water, which set him in a fit, and caused death in a short time.—Boston Times.

The Liquor Law in the Board of Aldermen.

In the Board of Aldermen last Thursday evening, Ald. Wherren's preamble and resolutions providing for the enforcement of the liquor law, laid on the table on the 21st ult., were taken up. They are as follows:—

Whereas, A petition has been presented to the City Council, signed by a large number of our most respectable citizens, representing that in their judgment the crime in the city would be very much diminished by the restriction of the sale of intoxicating drinks, and praying for the enforcement of the Laws of the State for its suppression; and

Whereas, The City Council have passed a resolution requesting his Honor the Mayor to instruct the City Marshal to enforce said Law, in compliance with the request of the petitioners; and

Whereas, We believe it to be our duty, as law-abiding citizens, to assist in the enforcement of all laws which shall tend to the suppression of crime of any character in our city, and also believe that it would be for the best interest of the city that the sales of intoxicating liquors should be by some means limited; therefore,

Resolved, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to issue a proclamation forthwith, requesting all persons engaged in illegal traffic in intoxicating drinks within the city of Portsmouth, to desist from such traffic, and in one week from the date of said proclamation, to instruct the City Marshal to prosecute all persons who shall then be engaged in such illegal traffic.

Resolved, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to license Mr. Oliver P. Kennard to keep and sell intoxicating liquors, in compliance with the Laws of the State, and under such rules and regulations as this board may institute.

Resolved, That all votes passed at the meeting of the board on the evening of the 14th inst., relative to the sale of intoxicating drinks, are hereby revoked.

Ald. Rundlett declared his opposition to the preamble and resolutions in whole or in part. He did not believe the evil of intemperance was on the increase, but on the other hand was assured there had been a diminution of it within his remembrance. He declared his opposition to stringent prohibitory legislation in regard to the traffic, and if favor or opposition to the Maine Law was to be made a political issue, he was prepared to take his stand with the opposition and abide the issue. Many of the fanatics who were most boisterous in clamoring for enforcement of laws against the traffic in ardent spirits were open contemners of the fugitive law, which only carried out a requirement of the Constitution, and those who passed the prohibitory laws were hypocrites who would drink the liquors which they sought to prevent others from procuring. He was opposed to all smelling committee proceedings, and in favor of letting the matter alone and leaving those who should enact such laws to bear their responsibility. It was generally believed that the present legislature would repeal the present and enact a new law, and he thought the friends of prohibition might delay for a few weeks their warfare upon the business of a respectable portion of our citizens.

Ald. Dearborn remarked that he believed there was nothing about smelling committees in the resolutions; they merely provided for the enforcement of a state law which was every day violated in our midst, to the great detriment of the community at large.

Ald. Wherren contended that the law ought to be enforced, and could see no force in the argument that we should disregard it because it was expected that a more stringent one would soon be passed. Those who opposed the execution of the present law would also oppose the enforcement of a more stringent one; and if we winked at the violation of the present law, its violators would take it for granted that they might disregard any future enactment. He believed it the duty of the city government, after proper warning, to prosecute all violations of the law against the sale of intoxicating liquors; and that if satisfied that this would be done, a large portion of those engaged in the traffic would abandon it. He had no political feeling in regard to the matter, but was only actuated in his course by a regard for the welfare of the community.—A large portion of our most respectable citizens had petitioned the City Council to enforce the statute for the suppression of tippling shops; he regarded their request as a just and reasonable one, and he was not disposed to abuse the confidence reposed in him by his fellow citizens by disregarding their petition.

Ald. Rundlett said, although a few hundred citizens had signed the petition alluded to, a much larger number of no less respectability, had not signed it, and the latter were entitled to quite as much consideration as the former.

Ald. Dearborn said, if the Board of Aldermen rejected the prayer of the petitioners, it in effect declared itself opposed to the enforcement of the law. He was in favor of the passage of the resolutions.

Ald. Wherren could see no reason why the law against liquor-selling should be disregarded any more than that against theft. There were many persons in the community who regarded rumsellers as bad as robbers or murderers, and many states have passed laws punishing them with imprisonment. He considered the violators of this law as deserving of punishment as the thief who stole his neighbor's property, and would as soon screen the one as the other.

Ald. Rundlett said liquor-selling was not a crime, but a legitimate business, and no legislation could make it a crime.

Ald. Yeaton thought the proprietors of low groggeries worse than the robbers. The man who would entice a boy into his den, sell him poison and make him a drunkard, was worse than a murderer.

Ald. Rundlett recognized no difference between the proprietors of low groggeries, as they were called, and the most fashionable hotels. They each catered to the wants of their customers, and all pursued a legitimate business. He moved for the present the resolutions lie on able.

Ald. Yeaton wished to know what was meant by "the present." If it was intended only to wait long enough to see whether a better law should be passed by the legislature now in session, he would vote for the motion; but he was in favor of decisive action to close up the ram shops, and the passage of the resolutions if a new and more stringent law were not soon enacted.

Ald. Senter said he had from the first been opposed to any action by the Board to enforce the present law. The most ardent friends of temperance and prohibition had long since declared that the present law was unsatisfactory and could not be enforced, and as it was generally believed that the present legislature would repeal it and pass a better one, he had been disposed to await its action. He should therefore vote in favor of the motion to lay on the table.

The question was put on the motion to lay on the table, when the yeas and nays were called for by Mr. Wherren, and the motion prevailed by the following vote:—

Yeas—Ald. Senter, Yeaton, Rundlett and Wendell.

FRIDAY, JULY 6, 1855.

PORTLAND INQUEST.—Eighteenth Day.—Alderman Ring,—one of Mayor Dow's most active opponents, the man whose remarks and stories were breezed through the papers to get up the excitement,—gave in his testimony.

He testifies that in his opinion the mob could have been dispersed by the police before the military came down, but, "After that I do not think they could." Before that, they were good natured, and could have been dispersed without fire arms,—afterwards they were ferocious.

Was there not a tumultuous and violent assembly of people assailing the shop in which the city liquors were kept?

After the military came out there was, before that there was not.

Did you hear stones, &c., thrown against the City Hall?

I did, before the military came, as well as after. I heard the rattling of glass, as if a few panes were broken.

There were shouts and noise. I am under oath as Alderman of the city. I did not make any attempt to disperse the mob.

Why did you not as an Alderman of the city, and a magistrate bound to preserve the peace, endeavor to do it by persuasion or otherwise?

My reply would be, my advice was not asked, my services not required.

Did you consider it consistent with your duty as an Alderman of the city, to retire from the scene where you could be a looker on, without the effort to suppress that riot?

Under the circumstances I did.

When the riot had so greatly increased after the military had been called out, why did you not attempt something that would save the use of the military in preventing that riot and dispersing the multitude?

I did not consider that it belonged to me at all. I did not think it my duty to lead off.

The Mayor, Sheriff and policemen.

Do you not consider yourself of the police force.

No, I am not a policeman.

Are you not a peace officer?

Yes, I am I suppose.

The testimony of this man makes sad havoc of most of the mob witnesses we have had on the stand in previous days. They all thought it was an amiable mob, a very amiable mob, up to the moment when the fatal shots were fired. He thinks it became ferocious, when the military company came down, —and that from that time, the police could not have handled them.

They thought if any leading man among Mayor Dow's opponents, had requested the mob to go, they would have gone. He was one of these very men, but though a sworn peace officer, he left the Mayor, Sheriff, and police officers to quell the ferocious mob as best they could, or be conquered by them, while he retired to a hotel. When he heard the firing, he supposed the armed police were firing blank cartridges; but when a wounded man was brought into the hotel, he found it otherwise.

If his testimony is credible, the Mayor and Sheriff, with the Aldermen and armed police and citizens, have done precisely the duty which he puts down as devolving upon them.

IMPORTANT DECISION.—Judges Curtis and Sprague gave a decision yesterday morning in the U. S. Circuit Court, upon the case of the brig Porpoise, a vessel which our readers may remember had been freed from a seizure made while she was a slave tender.

Judge Curtis reversed the decision of the lower court, and declared the brig forfeited, for although there might have been no direct proof of her having carried slaves, yet it was beyond doubt that she had acted as tender to slave vessels on the African coast, furnishing supplies, assisting over a sand bar by taking off temporarily part of a slaver's cargo,—managing to attract the attention of a cruiser to herself rather than to a slaver, and, although having American colors and papers, she was under partial control of parties engaged in the trade. All this constituted her liable under the law, as being used in the slave trade, and hence the decision of forfeiture.—Boston Mail.

O hoo! Buhoo! Is not this schooner property? How then do these rascally United States Courts and Judges dare to interfere with free trade and sailors' rights?—Don't they know we have an inalienable right to carry out a cargo of R. G. brand New England particular, to the coast of Africa, and buy a cargo of negroes therewith? Only think of it; those old Republican fanatics at Washington, made this law long years ago,—and now those fanatic Radicals, Curtis and Sprague, dare to enforce it! What is the world coming to?

☞ The testimony before the second Portland Inquest on John Robbins, is supposed to be closed. Alderman Libbey testifies as follows, about the bells.

Some days after the sextons were introduced here as witnesses, I was informed that the order was conveyed to the sexton by Alonzo Butler, a policeman, and that he received the order from some one in the agency communicating to him through the funnel hole.

The remainder of his testimony sustains the mayor's statement, and is similar to that of other witnesses before him.

THE 4TH AT DOVER.

The 79th anniversary of our National Independence was celebrated in Dover in good style, on Wednesday.

The early and extra trains from the neighboring towns brought in large numbers of people, so that as early as seven o'clock, the town appeared as crowded as at any time during the day. The cause of this great influx at so early an hour, was a desire to view the great floral display, which was to take place in the morning, so that the children might not be overpowered by the "sun's perpendicular rays."

The heavens were exceedingly auspicious during the progress of the floral procession, as the sun was obscured to a great extent.

The floral procession, under the direction of Wm. Chase, Esq., Chief Marshal, was a very beautiful display, considering the short time allowed for its arrangement. Children to the number of more than a thousand, all tastefully clothed in white, and neatly ornamented with evergreens and flowers, walked in the line. The representatives of "Childhood," "Youth," "Manhood," "Age," "The Goddess of Liberty," "Spring," "Summer," "Autumn," and "Winter," &c., were well conceived and fairly carried out. The procession as a whole was a beautiful affair for a first attempt, though not so ornate with allegorical tableaux, as have been exhibited in Portsmouth, where knowledge in such matters has been derived from a long experience.

The grand procession of citizens was arranged in line about 11 o'clock. In the procession were the six engine companies, Odd Fellows' Societies, Hibernian Society, Cavalcade, &c., the whole under the escort of the Strafford Guards, led off by the Cocheco Brass Band. Among the engine companies, was a company with an ancient tub built in the year 1807, well loaded with fire buckets and the hose hanging on the breaks. This tub, though of so diminutive capacity, did good service in Portsmouth, at the Market street fire in 1813.

After marching through the various streets, the procession proceeded to a beautiful grove near the High School House, on the bank of the river, to attend to the various exercises of singing, speeches, music &c.

We did not have the pleasure of hearing the oration, which was delivered by Timothy A. Bigelow, Esq. of Boston though we heard it spoken of as a very able affair, containing less of that small beer patriotism than is usually given on such occasions.

At the conclusion of these exercises, the citizens dispersed, to amuse themselves till evening, in their own various ways.

Great expenditure had been made for appropriate fire-works, to the amount of about $700, and a beautiful display was expected. They were burnt in a most favorable situation on the west bank of the river, while the declivity of the east bank formed an available natural amphitheatre, where tens of thousands could sit on the green sward, and have a perfect view. The spectacle was viewed by at least five thousand persons; but the general verdict was—a failure, considering the money paid out. The various pieces did not seem to come out in their desired beauty, as was intended. Some parts would burn nearly out before another part was ignited—while the whole should have flashed out at once. One cause of this was probably the dampness of the atmosphere of the low ground where they stood.

Take the celebration, all in all, it was very fair, and the people of Dover, and the many spectators were generally well satisfied.

LIQUOR BILL.—The new liquor bill which has been reported in the New Hampshire Legislature, provides for a fine of fifty dollars for the first offence in single sales, fifty dollars and imprisonment of thirty days in the common jail for the second offence, and for every subsequent offence, a fine of one hundred dollars and imprisonment of ninety days in jail.

In common seller cases, the penalties are, for the first offence, fifty dollars and one month's imprisonment; for the second and every subsequent conviction, one hundred dollars fine, and not less than three nor more than six months' imprisonment in the common jail.

The seizure clause is similar to that in the Massachusetts law. Section 17th provides that no clerk, servant or agent, in the employ of any person engaged in the traffic, shall be excused from testifying against his principal, on the ground that he may thereby criminate himself, but no testimony so given shall be used against him. Section 20th makes it the duty of the Mayor and Aldermen of every city, and the selectmen of every town, to prosecute at the expense of the cities and towns. The other provisions of the bill are very much like the Massachusetts law. The bill will without doubt pass both branches.

ACCIDENT ON THE FOURTH.—At Salmon Falls, while firing the morning salute, Nahum Tucker and L. K. Litchfield were badly injured,—Tucker so badly as to lose his left hand.

LOCAL.

TRAGEDY.—On Thursday morning, in the western part of this city, a Scotchman named Hugh Pindar, died under the following circumstances. An intemperate Irishman named John Crowley, had quarrelled with his (Crowley's) wife repeatedly; and several days ago, Mrs. Crowley had gone to board in the family of Pindar, who was a sick man, far gone with the asthma. On Thursday morning, Crowley called to see his wife, in Pindar's house, and after some talk, Pindar ordered him out, and stepped toward him. Crowley lifted his hand and pushed him backwards, Pindar fell heavily, and died almost immediately.—The wives of both the men were present.

An inquest was held on the body on Thursday afternoon, by John Bennett, Esq., Justice of the Peace and of the Quorum, who appointed I. Bartlett Claggett, Robert Lefavour and J. Chaplin Carr, as jurors. The jury, in their verdict, after rehearsing the facts in the case, substantially as above, say—

That by reason of the said feeble health of him the said Hugh Pindar, the said John Crowly in manner and form aforessid, did then and there feloniously and wilfully kill and slay him the said Hugh Pindar, against the peace and dignity of the State.

☞ In the City Council, on Thursday evening, no business of particular importance was transacted. The Common Council amended the resolution of the Board of Aldermen, so that the sale of the buildings on the High School lot shall be made by a joint committee instead of the Building Committee. This amendment was concurred in by the Aldermen, with a slight clerical amendment. This latter amendment was not agreed to by the Council. So that progress on building is delayed still another week—this time by a childish opposition of the Council to a necessary verbal alteration.

☞ For the loan of the types giving a report of the Aldermen's sayings and doings respecting the liquor traffic in Portsmouth, we are indebted to our neighbors of the Ballot. The report will be found on our first page, and is interesting as showing of what stuff our Board of Aldermen is made.

ACCIDENT.—A son of Mr. Francis Jarvis, this city, was accidentally shot in the face, on Wednesday, with a pistol fired by a playmate, and was so severely injured, that it is feared he will lose his eye-sight.

HIGHLAND COTTAGE at Stratham, is well known to be one of the most agreeable visiting places. The grounds never looked more charmingly than now—and Mr. Diman has by no means forgotten how to serve up delicacies. Of course the visitor will want a dish of his unexcelled strawberries and cream, and one of his fresh cut bouquets to take home.

☞ It will be seen by reference to our auction column, that the desirable residence of the late Dr. Kittredge is for sale.

FROM ST. JOHN, N. B.—A great fire occurred early in the morning of the 2d inst., which destroyed the Exchange Hotel and three other contiguous buildings.

The New Brunswicker says:

We learn from a gentleman who has recently returned from the northern part of the Province, that much distress exists among the agricultural population, the French particularly, on account of the scarcity of seed, and that many have not been able to plant one half the usual crop. The government is severely censured for not forwarding something like a proper quantity of seed to the distressed farmers, the very little sent being altogether inadequate to meet the wants of the settlers.

CLEVELAND, July 3d.—The schooner Bialto was capsized on Sunday, off Long Point, and the mate drowned. The captain was in the cabin at the time of the disaster, and remained there for two hours, when the vessel partially righted, and he was providentially released just as the crew were on the point of abandoning the wreck.

INDENTIFIED.—The name of the man who died in the cars on the P. S. & P. Railroad, near Wells, has been ascertained to be Owen Doyle, of Fire Island. On examining his overcoat, three bottles containing liquor were found. An inquest was held in Portland, and a verdict was rendered that his death was caused by intoxication.

MEN DROWNED.—A boat containing four men, factory operatives, was run into and capsized, by a schooner, on Thursday, as she was going over the Newburyport Bar. Three of the men were drowned.

☞ Four men died in Boston on Monday, by exposure to the heat of the sun,—and one man and woman died by drunkenness.

In the Boston Police Court on Saturday, Ellen Brown, formerly a teacher in the Dwight School, was brought up for disposition as an insane person. She was a believer in the new doctrine of spiritualism, and by continual thought and excitement upon the subject has become insane. She imagines that she is continually receiving communications from the spirit world, is totally unfit to care for herself, and will be sent to an insane asylum.

PREPARATORY TO THE FOURTH.—We understand that the liquor dealers in the largest city of this county commenced open sales on Monday, and will pay no farther attention to the law.—Newburyport Herald.

What if the law should happen to pay some attention to them?

GOOD MEDICINES.

It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchits, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.

Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.

Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only wyile it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.

These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbors and your own Physicians.

Try them once and you will never be without them.

Price 25 cts. per Box—5 Boxes for $1.

Prepared by DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Ms., and sold by every respectable Druggist in New England.

Yacht Sea Ranger,

FOR THE SHOALS AND A MARKET.

CAPT. JAMES W. GOODWIN respectfully gives notice to the pleasure seeking public that he has purchased for their accommodation the present season, the safe, commodious and fast-sailing Yacht SEA RANGER, of 45 tons burthen, with which he is now prepared to convey parties to the Shoals, Boar's Head and other places in the vicinity; and having furnished her with all the necessary materials, will accommodate FISHING PARTIES on reasonable terms.

The SEA RANGER will outsail any vessel on the Piscataqua or of any neighboring ports, in light or heavy winds; is fitted with excellent berths; is well supplied with sails, boats, fishing and cooking apparatus, and is in every respect the best vessel for the accommodation of parties who desire a few days enjoyment on the briny ocean that ever hailed from this port.

The SEA RANGER will make occasional trips to the SHOALS for the accommodation of such persons as desire safe conveyance thither; and when the bosom of old ocean is too much agitated for the steamer CHAS DARING, alias Silver Star, to venture forth, the Yacht will bear passengers safely over the bounding billow.

The commander of the Sea Ranger confidently appeals to those who have in past seasons patronized the SPY under his command, for the continuance of their patronage for his new Yacht, pledging himself to use every exertion to give them and all new patrons entire satisfaction.

For further particulars apply to JACOB WALDEN, No. 9 Water street, or to the Master on board, at Pier Wharf, foot of State street.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

HALIFAX, 5th.—The Royal Mail Steamship America arrived at this port yesterday afternoon, on route for Boston.

The America brings advices from Liverpool to the 23d.

On the 18th of June the French and English attacked the Malakoff and Redan Towers, but were both repulsed with great slaughter.

The details of the affair could not be looked for before the end of June, and in the meantime, private advices of the most serious description were agitating the public mind.

According to one account, the British loss alone was not short of 4000, including among the killed Gen. Campbell, and upwards of 70 other officers.

Contradictory rumors prevailed, and it is thought that the above was somewhat exaggerated.

In the British Parliament, Mr. Roebuck had moved a vote of censure against the Ministry.

A large now French loan is to be negotiated.

BREADSTUFFS.—With the exception of Indian corn, which had slightly advanced, ranged at about the rates current at the departure of the Baltic. Provisions generally were steady at former quotations. The London Money Market was still easier, and consols had declined to 90 3-4.

MORE ABOUT CROPS.—A letter from the interior of Illinois, dated the 21st ult., says:—"We have had fine rains here for some time past, and if they will hold up now for a little while, to allow our farmers to go into their harvest fields, which will be ready in about two weeks, we will have the largest crop of wheat ever raised upon what is commonly called the Military Tract. Corn, owing to late frosts and cold weather, has been backward, but the stand is good. For the last few days we have had it quite warm. You can almost see the corn jump for joy. Such a crop as is expected, was never seen by the "oldest inhabitant."

One of our cotemporaries has received a letter which says: "The wheat in the Southern counties is now harvesting, and the price is coming down with a rush, much to the disappointment of some of those farmers who still retain their hoards. One old farmer sold his wheat in Alton, on the 21st for $1,50 per bushel, who was offered for it two months ago, 32 per bushel at his barn door, in place of hauling it 26 miles. A farmer living eight miles from Alton, brought in a load of fine, yellow corn upon the ear, on the 22d, stood about the streets all day, was offered 50 cents per bushel—refused it, asking sixty, and at night drove home with it. Several loads of corn sold for 50 cents per bushel, within two day past.

SPRINGFIELD, July 3d.—Fire at South Hadley Falls.—The Gingham establishment known as the Glasgow Mills at South Hadley Falls, Mass., was burned this afternoon.—The fire originated in a pile of yarn in the attic, and is supposed to be the result or spontaneous combustion. The machinery and building with much of the stock are destroyed, but a great part of the manufacturing goods were saved. Loss estimated at some 200 or $250,000. Two men were injured by falling from a ladder, and one man killed by the falling of a wall.

DEAD SHOT FOR RED BUGS.

A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it curls them up and lays them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees.

It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a neat tidy housewife. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is incalculable.

SANCHO PANZA

Called down "blessings upon the head of the man who first invented sleep." How much more worthy such honorable distinction would be consider the inventor of the Dead Shot, who, by his Fumigant and Deadly Preparation, has rendered utterly impossible the ancient bloody forays of such tolerable and not to be endured' tormentors; and who has enabled every one to guarantee to himself his own particular share of "tired Nature's sweet restorer."

IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT
—IN—
Rotary Planing, Tonguing and Grooving Machines.

PATENTED NOVEMBER 21st, 1854.

THIS Improvement has been thoroughly tested and found to possess just what is necessary to perfect the rotary planer.

My machine will plane very much faster and better than any other now in use. I would particularly call the attention of those in want of machines for side work, or for planing very thin, cross-grained or knotty material, to these machines, as it is impossible for them to tear or throw out loose knots.

My Clapboard Machine will plane and joint as fast as the clapboards can be put into the machine, and perform the work without sorting them so as to plane with the grain, upon any quality of clapboards, in a very superior manner, without tearing the thin edge.

Applications for rights and machines, or for further particulars, can be made to the Patentee,

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

It is made entirely of Iron, consequently is very durable; requires but little room, may stand in the open fire-place, (in Summer) or be placed parallel with the Range, and work it. Morning Chronicle.

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY IN ENGLAND.—The last steamer brought the intelligence that the English House of Lords by a majority of one vote had adopted a measure called the "Religious Worship Bill." The following report of the debate furnishes an idea of the measure:

The Earl of Shaftesbury moved the adoption of the report on the Religious Worship Bill, the object of which was to repeal so much of the act of George III. as prohibited the assembling of more than 20 persons in a house, besides the family, for the purposes of religious worship. He thought that at the present day, when so much ignorance, especially in religious matters, existed, every impediment ought to be removed from religious instruction, and he was therefore much surprised to hear that any opposition was to be offered to this measure.

The Bishop of London was willing to give every facility to persons engaged in the spread of religion, but would not consent to allow persons to establish in their houses small congregations, to the injury of the established church. The Bishop of Oxford had no doubt that the bill was brought forward with the best intentions, but felt bound to oppose it, on the ground that it would interfere materially with the action of the established church.—After stating several reasons against the bill, the right reverend prelate moved that it be taken into further consideration, that day six months. The Earl of Harrowby, the Earl of Chichester, the Duke of Argyle, the Earl of Roden, and the Earl of Carnavon against it.—Their Lordships then divided, when the numbers were—for the bill, 31; against it, 30;—majority, 1.

MONTREAL.—A letter from a Bostonian, written in Montreal on Sunday last, says:—"To-day is a grand fete day with the Catholics in this city, and the large cathedral has been thronged since sunrise. A procession was intended, the streets being dressed for the purpose, but the rain has prevented it, except in a small degree. Bands of music have been stationed in the cathedral towers, some two hundred feet above the pavement, where they have given out their martial music to the throng below in true military style, while the religious services were going on below. At short intervals the bells of the tower would ring as though Bedlam were let loose—every tone in the scale being heard, and as many more which had no musical sound, and such confusion our Yankee ears never listened to before. We are greatly disappointed in losing so favorable an opportunity to witness a religious holiday in a city where the Catholic influence is so powerful as in Montreal."

THE BEAUTIFUL.—Nature would be barren, desolate, naked and ugly, and we should be glad to die and get rid of it, if it were not that with uses come beauty; with strength, refinement; with practical value, delightful sensations. Give us the man that loves the rolling prairie and the wild horse dashing over it—the cloud-covered mountain with the storm howls about its head, and the fierce lightnings that run down its sides—the stormy ocean, the good ship now stunned by the wave and now leaping the crest;—give us the woman that trails the vine upon the garden walls, gathers the flowers at the door-side and in the open window—that loves her pets, the dog, the kitten and the child that frolic on the floor together, and the bird that hangs in the cage—give us man or woman, boy or girl that loves nature, wild or cultivated; and in them we can rejoice; for like their loves they will be pure and free and happy. But the man that sees no glory in the skies, no beauty in the flower, no goodness in the grass, however godly he may pretend to be, give us none of him. He was born for treason and crime; there is less hope of him, than of the criminal who tends his single plant in the lonely cell, and as he waters it, night and morning, dreams of his better days, his mother and his home. And a woman—she is no woman who does not love the rosebush and take delight in the lilly. Let not the like of her be mother of boys or girls. The world will run to ruin with such a race.—Newburyport Herald.

KEY WEST, June 25.—The sloop-of-war Cyane, Wilson, remained in port until the 16th, when she sailed on a cruise to the westward. While here she was visited by the Hon. Stephen R. Mallory, Major Wm. H. Chase, and other gentlemen. Before they left the ship, the crew applied to the officer of the deck, Lieut. Strain, for permission to cheer the Hon. Senator. They had heard that he was a friend to the Navy, and when presenting to Congress the "reform bill," of which he was the author, he had advocated the system of flogging; he was also in favor of giving them grog, and also wished to increase their pay; and as these measures coincided exactly with their own views and opinions, now that an opportunity had occurred they wished to testify their approbation in the usual manner. Their request was granted, and when the party left the ship, the men sprang into the rigging, manned the yards, and gave six hearty cheers for Stephen Mallory, the friend of the sailor. Who now can say that flogging is not popular in the Navy?

We certainly cannot say that, because we don't know: but we can say, that these cheers are not decisive evidence in favor of it. Sailors, especially hard drinkers, might cheer for grog: Any sailor might cheer for pay;—and they might do this in spite of the blessed privilege of being flogged. But to prove the thing, give them the flogging without the grog,—and if they cheer then, we shall believe they love it. Till then, we believe the above paragraph to be a small bug of the hum order.

We have no run ration in our army; and have not had for years; but we see no difficulty in getting soldiers.

The seamen of our merchant ships draw no rum ration. Certainly if rum drinking is a good thing in a sailor, it must be just as needful in a packet ship as in a frigate. But one thousand temperate sailors know that the whole pretence of its necessity is mere nonsense.

A TRIP TO GERMANY.

BONN, Germany, May 18, 1855.

Messrs. Editors:—Our voyage across the Atlantic was so similar to others, descriptions of which have been seen by all your readers, that I deem it quite unnecessary to burden your columns with details. Our accommodations were the very best. The state rooms of the Rhine surpass (I was told) those of the ocean steamers in spaciousness and comfort. Capt. Doane and all the officers of the ship were exceedingly polite and agreeable. The weather was fine, most of the time, with a good wind, and the passage almost devoid of incidents worthy of special notice. We saw no sea serpents nor mermaids, no whales nor icebergs, although we kept a constant lookout for them. We had no severe gales nor storms, neither accidents of any kind. We had, however, one very narrow escape. About two o'clock on Sunday morning, May 13th, as we were entering the mouth of the British Channel, it being very dark and rainy, the man on the lookout called out in a tone of consternation, "A ship across our bow, sir!" Captain Doane, who was himself on deck, was forward in a moment, and sure enough, within sixty feet of us, a large ship was crossing our bow under full sail. She had no light out, and apparently no man on the lookout. We had a large, strong light on the end of our bowsprit. Fortunately our ship had but little headway at the time, having a few moments before been brought "into the wind" for the purpose of reefing a sail. Thus we escaped what a little more headway on our part, a little less on his, or a little difference in the course of either vessel, might have been "another disaster at sea." I have no time now to comment on the culpability of sea-captains putting out no lights, and keeping no lookout, during dark, rainy nights, where vessels are so numerous as in the mouth of the British Channel. When daylight dawned, seven vessels were in sight. Now commenced the most interesting part of our voyage. Notwithstanding the rain, all were eagerly looking for land. The clouds, however, obstructed our view, and we passed the Scilly Islands, Land's End and Lizard Point, points of land that are usually first seen, without seeing them, and about 3 o'clock P. M. made Start Point.

The British Channel is far from being the seaman's paradise, especially if he is sailing up it. If the wind is fair, that is, westerly, it is sure to storm; if the weather is fair, the wind is almost as certain to be "ahead" or not to blow at all.

It was our fortune to have a fair wind and "foul weather" until we reached Start Point. The clouds then broke away, and what little wind remained to us was easterly. Our progress was consequently very slow. All the next day we were in sight of the Isle of Wight, on which is the Queen's Palace, where she spends much of her time during the summer, enjoying the cool sea-breeze and the quiet pleasures of retired life.

On Tuesday morning, although the royal island still lingered in the distant horizon, Beachy Head was encouraging us to look forward. The shore was also in full view, at a distance of only six or eight miles, presenting to a stranger a very peculiar and striking appearance. It is pure white chalk, rising in nearly perpendicular cliffs, varying in height from thirty to three hundred feet. Some vessels passed between us and them, and the tops of the tallest masts did not reach half the height of the cliff.

After passing Beachy Head, the highest of these cliffs, the incredible number of vessels around us reminded us that we were approaching the commercial emporium of the world. We were still nearly one hundred and fifty miles from London, but we seemed rather in harbor than a channel not less than fifty miles wide. I cast my eye around carelessly and counted one hundred sail, consisting of ships, steamboats, barques, brigs, schooners, sloops, revenue cutters, pilot boats and fishermen—representing nearly every commercial nation on the earth. Railroad trains were also steaming along the shore. Just then the sun threw back the veil that had for three days hid his face from our sight, and added to the lively scene the glories of a "sunset at sea;" the whole leaving a painting in the picture gallery of my mind that must remain undimmed forever.

The next morning, when I arose, we were lying at anchor about four miles from Dover. A fisherman was laying "along side," inquiring if any of the passengers wished to go "ashore." I had taken passage for London, but as my destination was the Continent, and my intention to reserve all travel for sight-seeing until my return, I concluded to leave the ship Rhine here, and make all possible haste to the river bearing the same name.—Several others also landed at this place, and about eight o'clock on the morning of May 16th, just three weeks from the morning we left Sandy Hook, with a joyful bound we leaped upon the shore of the small island of Great Britain, not far from the favored spot where, just one month before, the Emperor and Empress of France had landed, and immediately beneath the frowning batteries of the old and renowned Dover Castle.

The joy and gratitude I felt at that moment, not only for a safe and prosperous passage across the deep, but that I was permitted to set my feet once more on something that seemed to have foundation, I shall not attempt to describe. More anon. Farewell.

P. S.—I arrived here last night in good health and spirits. In my next, I shall give a short account of my journey from Dover to Bonn, through France, Belgium, and a part of Prussia.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEGISLATURE.

THURSDAY, July 5th.

HOUSE.—House of Reformation for Juveniles.—Mr. Edwards of Keene, from the select committee, to whom was referred that portion of the Governor's Message relating to the State Reform School, reported the following resolutions:—

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened, That His Excellency the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Council, be and he is hereby authorized and empowered to appoint a board of three commissioners, who shall have power to select a tract of land or farm containing not less than one hundred acres, in some town in the central part of the State, the same being an eligible site for a House of Reformation for juvenile and female offenders against the laws, regard being had in the selection thereof to the centre of population, cheapness of living, and facility of access;—and with the approbation of the Governor and Council, to obtain the same by gift or purchase, and to take a conveyance of the same to the State. And said commissioners are further authorized and empowered to cause to be erected, on such tract or farm, a building or buildings suitable for said House of Reformation, and sufficient for the accomodation of a superintendent and steward and their families, and a teacher or thechers, and other persons necessary in the care, management and instruction of the inmates for whose benefit it is designed, and capable of accomodating 125 boys and 25 females, and so constructed that it may hereafter be conveniently enlarged or finished to accomodate double the numbers mentioned, if the wants of the State shall require it. And the said commissioners shall have power to make all necessary contracts for the erection of the same, and to appoint an agent or agents to superintend the construction thereof; and shall suitably furnish said buildings when erected, and provide necessary stock and implements for the profitable management of the land. And said commissioners shall present all of their accounts to the Governor and Council, to be by them audited and allowed from time to time, as they shall deem just.

Resolved, That for the purpose of defraying expenses which may be incurred under the preceding resolve, His Excellency the Governor be and he is hereby authorized, by and with the consent of the Council, to draw his warrants from time to time upon the Treasurer of the State for the necessary sums of money, not exceeding the sum of fifteen thousand dollars.

Mr. Edwards said that the resolutions were submitted to the House, on whose action on them further procedure in the matter would take place or be declined. He spoke of the success of such institutions in other States, their usefulness, and the special advantages furnished by the Wilkins bequest for its establishment. The condition of the devise was, that the institution should be established & in operation before it could be realized, and that it should be constituted for the reformation of juveniles of both sexes. The appropriation of $15,000, the Committee thought, was as little as the House could justify their minds in assigning, and as little as constituents generally would expect their representatives to appropriate. At the same time, the committee thought there would be more money required, but not at this time, and not much more, unless a larger number of inmates were to be admitted to the institution than the resolutions warranted. Mr. Edwards concluded by showing the great advantages to be gleaned by the State through the measure before the House. The resolutions were then ordered to a second reading.

Mr. Herbert of Rumney moved a complimentary resolution to Franklin Pierce, on account of the Collins veto; and on various other accounts. After an amusing debate, the resolution was referred to the following committee:

Messrs. Kittredge of Canaan, Emery of Portsmouth, Hooper of Somersworth, Whitehouse of Alton, Eastman of Conway, George of Hopkinton, Swett of Windsor, Baker of Marlow, Boardman of Cornish, and Benton of Lancaster.

The anti-slavery resolutions, in reply to Arkansas, were passed.

The Address for the removal of James W. Weeks, Judge of Probate for Coos, was recommitted to the delegation from that county, 176 to 72.

Mr. Currier of Derry, by leave, introduced a bill to constitute the County of Amoskeag, making Manchester the centre of the county, to be set off from those of Rockingham and Hillsborough, which was read and laid on the table.

The Bill, imposing new restrictions on Foreign Insurance Companies, doing business here, was indefinitely postponed, by almost a unanimous vote, after a little debate.

An order having been issued to the men of the razee-frigate Independence, now stationed on the Pacific Coast, to work on Sunday while in port, the Chaplain spoke against such labors in a sermon. Commodore Mervin thereupon ordered him to desist, and he has not been permitted to preach since. It is understood that the chaplain accordingly will leave his ship, and come to Washington to make complaint.

LOCAL.

POLICE COURT.

FRIDAY, July 6.—Before Justice Parker.—John Crowley was arraigned for killing and slaying Hugh Pindar. The testimony showed an angry, profane, drunken assault, by Crowly, on Pindar, who was a sick man just ready to drop into the grave. Mrs. Crowly was not a boarder as we stated, but lived in a room in the house with Pindar.

Medical testimony went to show that Pindar's excitement was a more probable cause of his death at the time, than the force of Crowly's blows or pushes.

After argument by W. H. Y. Hackett, Esq. for the prisoner, and I. B. Claggett, Esq. for the State, the Court ordered the prisoner to be discharged, and no case was made out.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.

FRIDAY, July 6.—Judge Harvey presiding. The Court were occupied all day with a marine case, in which the Portsmouth Marine Railway Corporation libel the bark Mary Annah, her owners and friends, for damage done to their railway by said bark.

A TRIP TO THE SHOALS.—By invitation of Capt. Makinney, we yesterday took passage in the steamer Silver Star, for the Shoals. The day was lovely—neither too warm nor too cold—the sea was as smooth as a lake in a calm, and the steamer "walked the water like a thing of life." She made the trip in a manner entirely satisfactory to every person on board.

On arriving at the Shoals, most of the party landed at Appledore Island, and placed themselves in the care of Hon. Thomas B. Laighton, of the Appledore House. By so doing they shew their wisdom, for Mr. Laighton has long been known as a skilful caterer for the inner man; and on this occasion he fully sustained his reputation.

By reference to our advertising columns, it will be seen that the steamer runs to the Shoals daily. It will also be seen that she will make an excursion on Sunday, starting from Dover at 8 o'clock in the morning, and touching at Portsmouth on her way down the river, to receive passenger. Many who wish to attend church at Star Island, and those who do not have leisure to snuff the invigorating sea air on any other day of the week, will avail themselves of this favorable opportunity.

T.

THE BARDS.—This company of singers give their last concert this evening. The concert given by the same company a few weeks ago gave universal satisfaction. All will attend, of course.

☞ The old tub, at Dover, which did service here in 1813, did it in the Buck (State) street fire,—and not in Market street.

MAINE CONFERENCE.—The following is the Resolution adopted by the Maine Conference of Congregational Churches, in regard to the Maine Law:

Resolved, That the law of this State for suppressing the sale of intoxicating liquors, meets our cordial approval. Its necessity has been abundantly demonstrated, and we believe it to be our duty to use our influence in every proper manner for its vigorous enforcement, and to prevent its repeal or any essential modifications of its provisions.

This is to the point, and, considering its source, which is no less than the annual assembly of the delegates and Ministers of the Orthodox churches in Maine, will command attention and respect.

GOOD.—Dr. Clay's Medical Rambler, printed in Portland, says:

Dr. Lord informs us that the boy who was shot in the ankle, in the late riot, is doing well. He will save his foot.

We are glad to see it; and as he was probably no rioter,—the city will be held, as we think, to make good his damages,—exactly on the same principle as cities pay for houses torn down to stop a fire. He was unfortunately within the range of shot fired to repel the mob. If it can be shown that he was lawfully there, his remedy is good—but not otherwise.

DAMAGES FOR SEDUCTION.—At the late Middlesex (Mass.) Court of Common Pleas, a farmer of that county, of some forty years, having a wife and two children, was defendant in a suit brought by a neighbor, for damages for the loss of the services of his child, a girl of eighteen years, whom it was alleged he had seduced while she was attending upon his sick wife. The jury awarded $162, the Court to fix the amount of an annual allowance to be paid the girl for the support of her infant child.

Wm. C. Holford, an Englishman, was killed by lightning, in South Deerfield, on Tuesday of last week.

Three persons were drowned in the Merrimac river, near Lowell, on Saturday and Sunday, and a fourth narrowly escaped death by the same cause.

A poor seamstress in Dundee, Scotland, led away by religious monomania, has resolved to deny herself the comfort of a bed until she has converted the world. She now sleeps regularly upon some grass, under a tombstone "in the auld kirkyard at the Manse."

GOOD MEDICINES.

It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchits, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.

Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.

Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only wylle it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.

FOR THE SHOALS AND A MARKET.

CAPT. JAMES W. GOODWIN respectfully gives notice to the pleasure seeking public that he has purchased for their accommodation the present season, the safe, commodious and fast-sailing Yacht SEA RANGER, of 45 tons burthen, with which he is now prepared to convey parties to the Shoals, Boar's Head and other places in the vicinity; and having furnished her with all the necessary materials, will accommodate FISHING PARTIES on reasonable terms.

The SEA RANGER will outsail any vessel on the Piscataqua or of any neighboring ports, in light or heavy winds; is fitted with excellent berths; is well supplied with sails, boats, fishing and cooking apparatus, and is in every respect the best vessel for the accommodation of parties who desire a few days enjoyment on the briny ocean that ever hailed from this port.

The SEA RANGER will make occasional trips to the SHOALS for the accommodation of such persons as desire safe conveyance thither; and when the bosom of old ocean is too much agitated for the steamer GRACE DARLING, alias Silver Star, to venture forth, the Yacht will bear passengers safely o'er the bounding billow.

The commander of the Sea Ranger confidently appeals to those who have in past seasons patronized the SPY under his command, for the continuance of their patronage for his new Yacht, pledging himself to use every exertion to give them and all new patrons entire satisfaction.

For further particulars apply to JACOB WALDEN, No. 9 Water street, or to the Master on board, at Pier Wharf, foot of State street.

CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS, &c.

On Wednesday the 4th, as we learn from the Boston Courier,—

A boy named Joseph Volls was drowned in the waters of the Back Bay near the Providence Depot. William O'Connell, of Malden, while upon the track of the B. & M. R. R., Causeway street, on the night of the 3d, had one of his legs crushed. He was taken to the Hospital. He was under the influence of liquor.

Thomas Ward was instantly killed by the Milton and Dorchester train of cars on the Old Colony Railroad, at the foot of E street. He heard the whistle but stepped upon the wrong track and was struck by the engine.

A most lamentable affair occurred in Congress street on Wednesday night. After the fireworks, Mr. Albert Sumner, of Stoughton Centre, expressman, was driving a four horse wagon through Congress street, when the horses were frightened by crackers, and ran away. Mr. Sumner was thrown off, and his head so much injured as to cause his death in a few minutes. Mr. Sumner was an estimable man, and leaves a wife and four children.

Mrs. Daley left her child three years old, named Isabella, sleeping upon a bed in the fourth story of a house in Burgess alley on Wednesday afternoon. It reached the window and fell out, striking its head upon the ground, and died after a few hours of suffering.

Mary Murphy, who resided in a house in Pearl place, fell down stairs and broke her neck.

On Wednesday morning a fire broke out in a block of buildings on Plympton court.—The roof of five of the houses was burned off, and the interior of three of the houses was pretty well riddled. The cause of the fire was crackers in the hands of children, who were playing with them in the attic.

About 2 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, the house of George W. Tuckerman, at Washington Village, was set on fire, but the flames were extinguished without causing any great damage. The incendiary broke a pane of glass, placed some shavings on the sofa, and then fired them.

Tuckerman is a police officer, and the incendiary was probably some culprit who owed him a grudge.

In the evening, the house of Thomas Doherty, on Fourth street, South Boston, was set on fire by crackers thrown upon the roof.

On Wednesday night, an Irishman named Miles Sweeny entered the dance hall of Joseph F. Clash, No. 152 North street, and insisted on passing through the house to an alley way. He was informed that he could reach no alley in that direction, and refusing to leave, was ejected by Clash. The man then broke in the door and returned. A quarrel ensued, during which Clash inflicted a frightful gash upon the left breast of Sweeney, six or seven inches in length, with a razor. Clash surrendered himself to the officers of the First Police Station. Sweeney was conveyed to the Hospital.

There was more than an average of drunkenness in the city on the 3d and 4th. On Wednesday some 60 individuals were taken before the Police Court, and yesterday about 120 ladies and gentlemen were taken before the same tribunal for drunkenness and offences incident thereto.

The Boston Bee says,—

On Tuesday night a most vicious Irish family in Salem near Richmond St., named McLaughlin, who have more than once threatened the life of Mrs. Elizabeth Swift, boarding house keeper, (an American) living next door, No. 81 Salem street, attacked the house and windows with pavement stones, breaking a number of panes of glass. John McLaughlin fired a gun or rifle loaded with bullets, through a window, breaking the glass and endangering the lives of Mrs. Swift and family. In the ceiling may be seen 47 holes made by bullets, and had not the occupants left the room, death would have been caused. The firing was kept up until 3 o'clock in the morning.

ACCIDENT AT SALMON FALLS.—On the morning of the Fourth of July, three men were wounded by the premature discharge of a cannon. The persons injured were Nahum Tucker, —— Maloon and N. K. Litchfield.—Tucker was ramming down the cartridge, and Maloon and Littlefield were assisting. Tucker had one of his arms severed from his body, and his abdomen on one side seriously lacerated. His recovery is very doubtful. Maloon lost one eye, and was otherwise injured.—Litchfield had one finger blown off and his hands burnt very badly. These men were not experienced as gunners, and did not use the proper caution so strictly observed by good artillerists. W. A. C.

CHURCHES IN LOWELL.

There are in Lowell 26 Congregations divided as follows, Congregational 5; Baptist 3; Methodist 3; Catholic 3; Universalist 2;—Unitarians 2; Adventa 3; Episcopal 1; Presbyterian 1; Free Will Baptist 1; Wesleyan 1; Mission Chapel 1. The three Catholic Churches have as many attending them as any eight of the others. The Baptist denomination as the whole is not as strong here as it was ten years ago. We think that the same may be said of our congregational brethren.—During the last ten or twelve years there have died out several churches—viz. 1 Baptist; 1 Wesleyan Methodist; 1 Universalist; 1 Episcopal. Several are now very feeble, and on the whole we cannot believe that the religious aspect of Lowell looks encouraging. We gave some statistics last week of Baptist increase for the space of thirty years, but for the last five years, the gain has been hardly equal to the loss. In 1850, we reported four churches and a membership of 1916. Our total membership is now about the same as this or slightly increased.—Christian Era.

On Sunday there were 14 cases of death from sun stroke, in New York city.

DEAD SHOT FOR BED BUGS.

A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it curls them up and lays them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees

It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a neat tidy housewife. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is incalculable.

SACHO PANZA

Called down "blessings upon the head of the man who first invented sleep." How much more worthy such honorable distinction would be consider the inventor of the Dead Shot, who, by his Pungent and Deadly Preparation, has rendered utterly impossible the ancient bloody forays of such 'tolerable and not to be endured' tormentors; and who has enabled every one to guarantee to himself his own particular share of "tired Nature's sweet restorer."

BOYS IN MERCHANT VESSELS.—Most of the better class of merchantmen continue to take out several boys, say from two to eight, as a part of their available force for working the ship; and in many instances where masters are interested in the welfare of the boys, a 'boys' room is provided, that they may be kept separate from the men and their influences. For berths of this description, in the China ships in particular, the applications have been very numerous for a long time,—far exceeding the wants of the service; and will continue to be until "school ships" are provided in connection with the Navy, and instruction, as well as discipline and comparative exemption from evil influences, is secured. The commanders of the ships generally have the privilege of selecting or rejecting whom they choose. Not unfrequently, these lads are retained until qualified for responsible positions.—N. Y. Journal of Com.

AN EXPENSIVE LODGING.—As Mr. John D. Felton, book pedlar, was on his way from South Danvers by the South Reading Branch Railroad, to Boston, Monday, he fell into a snooze by the side of the track. While enjoying his open air slumber, his frock coat side pocket was cut by some finished pick-pocket, and a memorandum book, containing $180, extracted therefrom. His gold watch was also cut from a ribbon guard in his vest pocket. With his booty the wide awake thief escaped, while the pedlar slumbered on as though nothing had happened.—Telegraph.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Widow Ruth Pierce, a lady 84 years of age, dropped dead Sunday afternoon, at Woburn, in the road a short distance from her son's dwelling, where she resided, as she was returning from church. She had walked the entire distance, about two miles, to the centre of the town, very much against the wishes of the family, as she had been unwell a short time previous.—Telegraph.

I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they can safely employ a person of his talents and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

Morning Chronicle.

A GREAT BOO FOR A SMALL COLT.—The Boston Times says:

The decisions adverse to the Maine Law that have been made by the highest courts of Massachusetts and Maine, though they have nothing to do with opinion, are likely to have much effect on increasing opinion against the coercion system.

The Boston Advertiser says:

The late Supreme Court decision in Maine, which has pretty much knocked the bottom out of the prohibitory liquor law in the State of its parentage. The point of the decision does not directly affect our Massachusetts law.

The latter sentence from the Advertiser is quite true;—but the former is very extravagant; and is not borne out by an inspection of the law itself.

As to what the Times says about adverse decisions in the two States, we have not yet seen any in either State, on any material point. The decisions so far, merely relate to defective or inconsistent clauses in the statutes.

The principles of coercion, prohibition, search, seizure, confiscation and imprisonment, have not yet been disturbed by the courts, though they have been assailed by paid opinions of counsel.

We have examined the Maine decision carefully, consider it quite sound, and think it may be useful. So far from knocking the bottom out of the law, it can hardly be said to make a hole in it.

We do not believe that large fines, or great penalties of any sort, should be put within the power of any justice or judge, without a fair trial by jury.

For police purposes, our laws give justices the power to sentence a vagrant or a drunkard to the house of correction for a certain number of days;—and the laws of Maine intended to give the justice the same amount of power over the seller of drinks, as he now has over the drinker. But they did not do it: that's all.

We hope our law-makers in this State, in the law they are about to give us, will take care to be equitable, honorable, and intelligible.

JAMAICA NEGROES RELEASING A SLAVE. The Baltimore Republican says that a letter has been received in that city from the United States Consulate at Kingston, Jamaica, giving an account of the release of a slave from a Baltimore vessel, the 'Young America,' by the negroes of the Island. It occurred at Savannah-la-Mar. The black cook of the vessel, a slave from Maryland, being desirous of escaping from bondage, the negroes enlisted in his behalf and took him from the vessel by force. The magistrate, says the Republican, 'coolly looked on and countenanced the atrocious act.' The case has been laid before the Governor of the Island, and the Consul thinks that the offenders will be punished.

Another account of the above affair states that the slave had shipped at Baltimore under an assumed name, and with a borrowed free paper. On arriving at the port named, the captain took every precaution to hide the slave, but the affair got wind, and a great mob of blacks collected. The magistrates considered it the duty of the Custom House officers to demand the liberation of the slave, but the blacks manned their canoes, boarded the bark by main force, and seizing the slave, bore him off in triumph. When he reached the shore a magistrate asked him if he were free or a slave, to which he replied, 'I am a slave.' 'Then,' replied the magistrate, 'in the name of Her Majesty, the Queen, I now declare that you are free and at liberty, having landed on British soil.' The decision was fully confirmed on the next day.

If any other people than Englishmen had done this, our papers would have called it an outrage. As it is, Great Britain will very coolly pay the price of the slave, and no fuss will be made about it, because no capital is to be made out of it. Queen Victoria's black subjects are on the increase; but is it not a strange thing that this fellow, who can't take care of himself, should leave his master and cast off the blessed patriarchal institution, to become a miserable free negro in Jamaica? What is the world a coming to?

A JOKER DEFEATED BY A LITTLE GIRL. Riding with a friend a few miles into the country, last week, we met a bright blue-eyed little girl five years of age, leisurely carrying a small tin pail. To while away a few minutes, our friend accosted the child, with, 'What have you in your pail, my little darling?'

'Milk, thir,' was the modest reply.

'Do you love to drink milk?'

'Yith thir.'

'Don't you ever drink wine?'

'No, thir! its naughty to drink wine.'

'Ah, yes!' exclaimed our friend—so suddenly taken aback that he was forced to blush; but suddenly rallying and thinking to get square with the bright little child, he exclaimed—

'Do you go to church, my little one?'

'Yeth thir.'

Feeling sure that she would say wine,—he asked what it was that they passed around—

Taken completely aback for the second time, the man threw the little girl a bright gold dollar, exclaiming, 'Take that my sweet one, and God grant that your heart may ever be as innocent and free from guile as at this moment.'—Boston Mail.

Morning Chronicle.

MONDAY, JULY 9, 1855.

For the Chronicle.

"ANTI-PROHIBITORY LAW."

Messrs Editors:—In your Chronicle of Thursday, 28th of June last, the above caption appeared over the signature of "P. S." The writer is said to be past sixty years, and still preserves the glow of health on eye and cheek, with erect an easy carriage as most men at forty—and all this it is hinted is owing to his strict temperate habits—having abandoned the sale some years since—is now neither a drinker nor seller of spirits. He is opposed to prohibitory laws, and says we live under a republican form of government, where certain rights and privileges have been promised, and tyrannical laws must not be tolerated on any pretence whatever, and at the next election, Republicans will dethrone all Tyrants!

With all due respect to unknown "P. S.," I doubt not his strict temperance principles will save him from taking offence at a few plain and honest interrogations. Has he not, in past years, made money by the traffic which he would not have molested? Has he a son or friend now engaged in the business with which to interfere he calls it "tyranny?" Has he seen any child of his, or hopeful relative, ensnared by the freedom of drinking intoxicating beverage, and go down to the inebriate's grave? He says that "claret wine may be called the national drink of France," and "malt liquors" the common beverage of England, and asks, what shall we drink if intoxicating beverages be wrested from us? Has "P. S." lived so long and not yet heard of "Adam's Ale," not yet heard of the universal beverage which the beneficent Creator has provided for the race of man, and which everywhere gushes up from the pure cool bosom of the earth, sparkling more beautiful than famed Castalia's fountain? Does he approve of the general habits of the French, who indulge in their national drink? Has he ever given a sigh for the squalid wretchedness, sensuality and laziness of English drinkers of their "common beverage?" Has he ever contemplated the haggard and forlorn pictures of starvation in Ireland and England, and thought how much of it was the legitimate offspring of drinking malt liquors, instead of eating the natural wheat and corn which mercenary man has by his ingenuity steeped into streams of liquid ruin and death? Does P.S. really think that it would displease the Creator to leave untouched as a banquet the cup that has but coils of adders in its draught? Does he mean because God has given man ability to do, that he has the sanction of Heaven to manufacture "blue ruin," and then for the love of gold, use every stratagem to induce a fellow man in his weaker moments to partake of the fluid that steals unawares to the lips, nor falters until it burns into the soul, and even makes the glad, green, beautiful earth partake of pandemonium. He intimates that the "Creator ought not to have given man the knowledge to make spirituous liquors, if it was not intended to be taken as a beverage!" Does he think because man had ingenuity to make false keys, it follows of consequence that he may, by this means, rob the State Treasury with impunity? Must we receive the viper from cavern and woods to our bosom, because such pestilential things are permitted to exist? Is not man a moral agent, and can he not turn his talents to a good or bad account? Is it tyranny to pass laws against theft, robbery and murder? Is it tyranny to restrict the apothecary in his sales of medicinal poison to those he knows or suspects intend self-destruction? Has P. S. ever taken a peep into the drinking houses, cellars and dens of New York, Boston, and other large cities, and thought that the pictures of perverted taste and talent therein depicted, were grateful to the sight and wholesome to the world? Has P. S. ever attentively listened to the orphan's wailings—to the heart broken wife's tones of anguish, as the exulting angel of Hades laughed over her once happy companion, while he sank down, down, in the nerve and soul-rending agonies of delirium tremens to the black gulf of voiceless death?

Admitting that there are many varieties of pleasant and refreshing drinks, which if taken in reason are comparatively harmless, and oftentimes beneficial to health, still but few restrain their depraved appetites, while infinitely greater numbers sink to ruin by indulgence,—hence it becomes the few to make a sacrifice for the many. This doctrine was inculcated by St. Paul, and it is the basis of our own republican institutions. It is the doctrine of common sense. The invention of Steam has been death to comparatively but few, while it is life to positively many. The legitimate invention of the rifle is to protect, and not to wantonly destroy. Not so the manufacture of intoxicating beverages. It saves but comparatively but few, while it positively destroys countless millions.

The mental light of the present age forbids the idea that its free use is in any wise beneficial to the civil and moral world; but on the contrary it is seen beyond all quibbling to be a blasting, burning sirocco, spreading destruction, dismay and disgraceful death all over the globe. In fine, we are unavoidably led to conclude that men must be restrained from doing evil—from abusing liberty. We submit to this in the domestic circle and in private corporations; as for instance, the too universal, foolish and annoying practice of "smoking" is positively prohibited in all stage coaches, and all cars on our railroads. Were it not thus resolutely forbidden, many would be unnecessarily annoyed, smothered and suffocated from one of the filthy and useless habits into which man voluntarily plunges himself.

Learned and often addle-brained jurists, and sharp-shooting and sometimes bribed editors may sputter, equivocate and argue the case, whether the sun give heat from meridian skies, or water drown, or fire burn, or rum intoxicate and destroy—the unflinching fact stands boldly out, and the case is too clear for nonsense, that sober men have a civil, legitimate and moral right to pass stringent laws upon the subject of so much comment—which immediately concerns the welfare of the community and the world; and all the quibbling, ridicule, abuse and concentrated talents, basely employed to favor the indulgence in liquor drinking as a beverage, and thus favor sensuality and vice in all its hideous deformity, must disgracefully fail. Such a foundation is of loose sand,—the resistless waves of truth will surge over it, and those who stand thereon must go deep down to oblivion, or be unpleasantly remembered. ALPHONZO.

Boston, July, 1855.

AN ILLUSTRATION.—The New York Journal of Commerce endeavors to shield its conscience from all responsibility for the present state of things in Kansas. It says:

"The disingenuousness of those papers which speak of the invasion of Kansas by an armed body of men from Missouri, as the 'practical working of the Nebraska Law,' is too obvious to require remark. Clearly it is not that law, but the violation of it, which is the cause of the present difficulties. As well might we charge all the sin in the world—and all the misery, the fruit of sin—upon the law of God, as to charge this invasion upon the Nebraska Law, every principle and aim of which it violates."

On this, the Independent remarks:

"If this is a specimen of the theology which the Southern Aid Society proposes to teach, we doubt whether it will find favor with any of the schools north or south of Mason and Dixon's line. It admits of ready illustration.

We buy of the editor of the Journal of Commerce a patch of land for a corn field. Surrounding this land is a substantial stone wall that separates it from his piggery. After the deed is recorded, our neighbor breaks down the wall, on the ground that it is the natural right of pigs to root in whatever soil they choose. We enter a complaint against him for letting his pigs into our corn field, and charge him with the damages. He declares that this is 'disingenuous;' that the fault lies in the nature of pigs, and that we might as well charge it upon their Maker as upon him!"

A SOUTH-SIDE VIEW OF CAPT. GOODRICH.—We cut the following from the Transcript, published in Portsmouth, Va.:—

Capt. Goodrich, of the sch. Grace Darling, who so nobly caused the arrest of several slaves a short time since, when endeavoring to escape to the north on board his vessel, has been hung in effigy at Manchester, Mass., his place of residence, and received other gross indignities. He should be remembered by the citizens in this region, and some substantial evidence should be given of their appreciation of his disinterested and praiseworthy conduct.

We don't believe he will ever get a continental dime. The Widow Batchelder was going to have—we can't remember how many thousand dollars from the South, but only got about an X.

She lost a husband: Capt. G. only betrayed the negroes. The highminded Virginians despise all such fellows.

SYMPATHY WITH RUSSIA.—The Boston Courier, in remarking on some matter in the Journal, says:

God help John Bull! His friends in America are as indiscreet as his cause in the East is unholy. Here is a journalist, who neither sympathizes with "despotic Russia" nor "espouses the cause of the allies," and yet has a few tears, of the "commercial intercourse" kind, to shed into the laps of widowed Englishwomen: but who has not a sigh even for the women of Russia, whose husbands and sons are warring against Turkish barbarism. We say that there is virtue and Christianity in the cause of the Russians, and on the side of the allies immorality and infidelity.

HOPEFUL.—The New Hampshire Gazette of July 7th, says:

We have heard it said that some of the most miserable sots in the State are petitioning for a "Maine law" to enable them to save themselves from a drunkard's grave.

We suppose it to be true: and will any man blame them?

LOCAL.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.

The Session of the U. S. District Court closed Saturday, M., at 1 o'clock. In the case of Railway vs. barque Mary Annah—C. B. Goodrich, Esq., of Boston, for the claimants, (the underwriters) contended in the first place that the case did not come within the admiralty and maritime jurisdiction of the Court, but if any lien could be had on the vessel, it should be tried before some other tribunal. And even if it came within that jurisdiction, there was no evidence sufficient to prove any agreement of the owners of the barque to insure the railway against injury. The owners of the railway either had or should have had their eyes open, and had the privilege of examining the barque; he relied to a great extent upon a statement made by one of the barque's owners to this effect, "If you (the Agent of the Company) will risk your railway, we'll risk the barque." James W. Emery, Esq., for libellants, argued that the owners represented the keel of the barque as straight, and it was their duty to provide extra blocking, and that the breaking down of the railway was caused by the want of good and sufficient extra blocking. The decision in the case was reserved till the regular session of this Court in September next.

OSSIAN'S BARDS.—These talented performers, five in number, gave a Concert on Saturday evening, at the Temple. They were very successful in giving the best of vocal music, in the sentimental and cheerful pieces; and the comic pieces were real comedy. The rainy evening prevented many from attending, but those who went were highly gratified.

One of the vocalists, Mr. J. G. Clark, is also a composer, and has presented us with two of his pieces, viz, Moonlight Hours, a quartette; and Meet me by the Running Brook, a duett—both of which do credit to his taste and skill.

We have also received from the same hands a $500 prize book. Don't think we got the $500: the writer got that; we got only the book, for which he got the money. It is a short tale, soon told and soon read;—and the Appendix, like the P. S. to a woman's letter, is the most important part of it, as that tells some stories about Dodge, to keep him before the people.

Long may he wave; and long may the Bards sing, if they sing as well as now.

☞ On a few hours' visit to Hampton, on a hot day, Uncle Toby found the sea air at the Boar's Head quite refreshing; and the hospitalities of the host and hostess of Batchelder's Hotel, were as gratefully received as they were cordially offered.

☞ The New England Paste Blacking, sold by John Buzzell & Co., shoe dealers in Daniel street, is an excellent article. It easily takes a perfect polish, and is remarkably clean and free from smut.

THE DISASTER TO STEAMER LEXINGTON.—The steamer Lexington, before reported as having been blown up on the passage from St. Louis to Louisville, had on board 80 persons and a cargo of 250 bales of hemp: The disaster occurred near Rome, and the boat was burned to the water's edge. The steamer D. A. Given rendered prompt assistance and succeeded in saving many of the passengers; but it is believed that 25 lives were lost. There were besides some 20 or 30 wounded, among whom was Capt. Throop, badly scalded. The ladies and children on board all escaped injury.—Boston Chron.

SUICIDE BY SHOOTING.—A young man in Hampton Falls, N. H., named Samuel Fogg, about twenty years old, shot himself dead on the evening of the 4th. He was under the influence of delirium tremens.

HOW AN ANTICIPATED ELOPEMENT WAS STOPPED.—The Mount Joy (Pa.) Herald says:—

Mr. John H. Stinson, from Philadelphia, but formerly of Illinois, was arrested last Friday evening, at the instigation of Rev. N. Dodge, principal of the Cedar Hill Seminary, of this place, for attempting to decoy one of the ladies from under his charge. Stinson was brought before Mr. J. R. Long, of our borough, and committed by him in default of bail, to the county prison. He had two separate hearings before Judge Hayes, and was finally released under bonds to keep the peace. One of the young ladies who was to have acted as bridesmaid upon the occasion, highly delighted with the air of romance about the affair, had commenced a letter to a friend, describing the whole plot. Being suddenly called away, she left the letter exposed. The wind carried the letter out of the open window into the yard below. It came into possession of the principal, who, with his usual promptness, put an end to the affair by arresting Mr. Stinson.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—At Saxonville, on Monday afternoon a young lady while attempting to get upon a train of cars when in motion, made a misstep and fell upon the track. She was instantly killed, the cars passing over her body.

A pile of boards fell upon the wife of Charles Goodwin, Greenfield, on Sunday, and she was instantly killed. She was 28 years old, and leaves one child.

Theodore Parker in his sermon, last Sunday, stated that there is a man living in the town of Freeport, Me.—a citizen owning three hundred slaves in Georgia—holding some in this State—a wife and daughter living with him, he being father to his wife, and grandfather to his daughter.

GOOD MEDICINES.

It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchitis, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.

Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and throw them from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.

Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only while it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.

These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbors and your own Physicians.

Try them once and you will never be without them.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEGISLATURE.

FRIDAY, July 6th.

SENATE.—Read a third time and passed.—An act to incorporate the Manchester Mutual Fire Co.; an act relating to insurance companies; an act to increase the capital stock of the Connecticut River Bank; an act to incorporate the Strafford Ice Co.; an act in amendment to an act incorporating the Equitable Mutual Fire Ins. Co.; an act in amendment of an act entitled an act to incorporate the Breed Pond Co.; and act to incorporate the Amoskeag Veterans of Manchester.

HOUSE.—The Liquor Law.—On motion of Mr. Kittredge of Canaan, the bill for the suppression of intemperance was taken from the table, the rules were suspended, and the bill put upon its second reading.

Several amendments were made to the bill by the Chairman of the committee which reported the bill, the principle of which was one authorizing the authorities to destroy confiscated liquors of bad quality, and add costs to fines; also, providing that claimants of liquor seized, but proved not to have been kept for sale, should be paid their costs out of county treasuries.

Mr. Chapman of Nashua, moved to amend the bill by providing that the reports of agents shall specify the parties to whom sales of liquor may have been made; but the motion was negatived.

Mr. Harvey of Epping moved an amendment providing a penalty of $500 in case of any mayor or board of aldermen or selectmen refusing to appoint agents—one-half the penalty to go to the informer, and the other to the State; but the motion was rejected.

In the afternoon session, by appointment, the question being put on the final passage of the bill, the yeas and nays were called for by Mr. Kittredge of Canaan, and the roll called, when 213 voted for and 50 against the bill, which was accordingly passed.

Read a third time and passed.—Bills—relating to the Cochecho Railroad Company; to extend the charter of the Lancaster Bank for the purpose of collecting its debts; providing for the assessment of the State tax; to change the names of certain persons; to incorporate the Penacook Bank; to incorporate the Piscataqua Baths; to amend chapter 82 of the Compiled Statutes; to incorporate the Sugar River Railroad.

On motion of Mr. Christie of Dover, the bill in relation to the Manchester & Lawrence Railroad, after being read a third time, was laid on the table.

The bill to incorporate the Derry Bank was put to a division, after a brief explanation by Mr. Currier of Derry, and passed by a vote of 135 to 37.

The following resolutions were adopted: to appropriate $300 for the repair of the road between the north portion of Jackson, and the south portion of Gorham; to appropriate $3000 for the indigent insane; to appoint a board of commissioners to locate a house of reformation for juvenile offenders; relating to the erection of a house of reformation for juvenile male and female offenders against the laws; in relation to the contingent expenses of the State; to authorize the Treasurer to borrow money for the use of the State.

ROCKLAND, ME.—At a large public meeting called in that city "to consider matters connected with the recent riot in Portland," Mayor Crockett was called to the chair, and it was

Resolved, That the late Riot in Portland was a wanton attempt to dethrone the law and destroy the order of the city; that it was instigated by the reckless course pursued by some of the presses and politicians of Portland; that their 'citizen's meeting,' in which men were clamorously hissed for modestly asking a legal investigation, and as clamorously applauded for demanding a violent revolution, proved itself to be a preconcerted and rum stimulated affair, calculated and intended to add fuel to the flame of popular excitement. * * * *

Resolved, That while we have heard with regret of the death of a citizen in the riot, yet promptness and severity are alone merciful in quelling an excited mob, and that the life of one or many of the rioters should not prevent the execution of law and the preservation of the lives and property of community; and that we commend to the consideration of those whose mock philanthropy is excited by the death of Robbins, the thousands upon thousands who are annually sent to the drunkard's grave by the terrible ravages of the rum traffic.

Resolved, That the Hon. Neal Dow has exhibited in this unhappy affair the heart of a man and the courage of a defender of the right; that his coolness in devising plans to suppress the mob, and his fortitude in executing them, give him the strongest claims upon our confidence and respect; and that, in all honorable ways, we will defend him from the foul aspersions of those who vainly attempt to disparage his character and destroy his influence.

THE GREAT FAILURE.—The failure of Strahan, Paul & Co., the London bankers, is likely to prove a much more serious affair than was anticipated, as it appears that not only have the funds of their depositors been deliberately squandered, but that various securities deposited in trust have also been made away with. One of the partners, Sir John Dean Paul, occupied an unquestioned position as the head of a section of the religious world, and was treasurer to a large number of societies and charities in connection with it. This fact causes each new revelation of the delinquencies which have been practised to be regarded with general attention. The partners have been arrested and brought before the Bow street magistrate, on complaint of the Rev. John Griffiths, who had lodged securities amounting to upwards of a hundred thousand dollars with the firm for safe keeping, but which had been disposed of, for their private account.

Between fifteen and sixteen thousand reaping machines, it is said, will be manufactured and sold this year in our country. The demand is so great that manufacturers cannot make them fast enough for their orders.—This affords evidence of agricultural prosperity, as the cost of these machines will amount to nearly $2,000,000.

SAGAMORE HOUSE,

FROST'S POINT, 8½ miles from Postsm. Depot.

THE Proprietor of the above House respectfully announces to the pleasure seeking public that he will open for the season on WEDNESDAY, June 20th.

To those familiar with the locality of the Sagamore House, not a word is necessary in regard to its beautiful and healthful situation.—To strangers seeking rest and recreation by the seaside it affords attractions unequalled. Situated on a point of land on the Atlantic shore, near the Harbor of Portsmouth, the windows on three sides overlook the salt water. From the beach, the broad Atlantic, the Isles of Shoals, the beautiful Piscataqua, and the City of Portsmouth form a charming prospect, and in the background the green fields and leafy woods present a relieving contrast.

The House will be kept in the best manner, and every endeavor will be used to give satisfaction to its guests. The more effectually to do this, the proprietor has secured the services of MR. JOHN MACK, formerly of the Stockingham House, Portsmouth, whose experience and skill in hotel keeping will be a sufficient guarantee to all who know him that the management will be all that could be desired. The Table will be supplied with all the seasonable luxuries of the sea and land, and every effort will be used to render a sojourn at the Sagamore agreeable.

A Coach, in charge of an experienced driver, will run between the Sagamore House and the City of Portsmouth, leaving the Hotel at 8½ A.M. and 5½ P.M. Returning, leaves Portsmouth at 10½ A.M. and 7½ P.M., or on arrival of cars from Boston and Concord. Fare 25 cents. All orders left at WM. R. PEASON'S, in Portsmouth, will receive prompt attention.

DEAD SHOT FOR BED BUGS.

A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it curls them up and lays them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees.

It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a tidy household. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is incalculable.

SANCHO PANZA

Called down "blessings upon the head of the man who first invented sleep!" How much more worthy such honorable distinction would he consider the inventor of the Dead Shot, who, by his Pungent and Deadly Preparation, has rendered utterly impossible the ancient bloody forays of such 'tolerable and not to be endured' tormentors; and who has enabled every one to guarantee to himself his own particular share of "tired Nature's sweet restorer."

A CANINE DIFFICULTY.—From time immemorial there has been near the old boundary line between Dorchester and South Boston, a settlement known as Poverty Point. The inhabitants of this locality have been famous for keeping a great number of dogs, making a business of rearing them for market. Pigs, geese, hens, goats, and a variety of other domestic creatures have also been a feature of the 'Point.' The annexation of Washington Village brings Poverty Point into Boston, and of course, within the pale of her municipal regulations. The Sixth Station Police, as in duty bound, have been investigating the number of dogs, hogs, geese, &c., and notifying their keepers that they must forthwith comply with the city regulations relative to domestic animals. Of dogs, some families kept four or five, and the whole number was very large. Opportunity will be given their owners to have them licensed, and those that are left without this protection, will probably meet with a cruel fate in a few days. Pigs, cows, &c., will also be obliged to conform to city fashions.—Traveller.

HARMFUL WASTE IN THESE HARD TIMES.—Some of the newspaper accounts inform us that when the Russians found that they were likely to be beaten by the Allies in a certain engagement, they not only burned four of their own steamships and thirty transports, but destroyed 100,000 sacks of flour, 160,000 of oats, and 300,000 of corn. How many famished persons might be sustained by such an immense quantity of provisions. To say nothing of the still more melancholy destruction of human life, one of the inevitable consequences of war, how deep the depravity of those who could ruthlessly sacrifice the ripened fruits of peaceful labor at a time of high prices and great scarcity the world over, and how different the spirit manifested from that of the New Testament, where we read, "If thine enemy hunger, feed him."

AMERICAN AND FOREIGN OFFICE.

Agency for business with US Patent Office, Washington,

76 State st, oppo. Kilby st, Boston.

IMPORTANT TO THE MANY INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements for the business, which is prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection of the application. Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries; besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,

Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office, and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,

Late Commissioner of Patents."

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

BARNUM ON TEMPERANCE.

From a letter to the Boston Herald, we copy a few sentences of a free and easy report of Barnum's late Temperance Speech at Concord.

The speaker stated that, according to the most reliable statistics, the people of this country pay one hundred and fifty millions a year for intoxicating liquors, exclusive of the value of grain which is worse than destroyed, buildings devoted to the manufacture and sale, the time of the men employed, the immense amount of pauperism and crime traceable directly or indirectly to drunkenness, to say nothing of the value of 30,000 lives annually destroyed.

Place the cost of drunkenness for one year at 80 years compound interest, and you have a sum sufficient to buy all the real estate in the United States.

One of the cardinal principles for which our fathers contended in the revolution, was—"No taxation without representation." We stand upon that platform to-day, and say to the liquor trade and the world, "no taxation without representation." You make paupers and criminals, and then tax us to support them. Against this palpable injustice we protest. Thank God, we are not represented in your trade in any capacity.

Rum selling, continued Barnum, dies hard, but it has got to die. Our old remedial agencies, the pledge, were inefficient. It was only taking the deadly serpent by the tail, and he soon got away, but Neal Dow—one of two great humbugs, myself being the other—when he came forward with his Maine Law, got the reptile by the neck, and it is your own fault if you don't kill it. Its got to be killed or it will kill you.

Barnum continued. The great difficulty with which we have to contend is, that every man claims to be a temperance man, from the wine bibber to the whiskey guzzler and gin bruiser, whose most frequent lodging place is in the gutter. I am a showman, and if you will find me a man who is not a temperance man on his own evidence, I will give more for the privilege of exhibiting him in the American Museum than for any curiosity I have yet got hold of.

Here followed another batch of jokes. In answer to the claim that alcohol is a good creature of God, evidently designed for the use of man, he replied that paving stones were also the good creatures of God, and asked, with much feeling, "Would you like to live on paving stones?" "Drugs are good creatures of God," continued Barnum, with deep emotion on his expressive countenance, "but would you order Epsom Salts for breakfast, Rhubarb and Elixirs for dinner, and Brandreth's pills for supper?"

Some people, the people and old laws of Connecticut particularly, say circus exhibitions are demoralizing—and so they are, (quoth Barnum,) because you get a good many people together, and they drink rum. If it were not for rum, a circus would not be demoralizing.

Barnum opened with a ten strike on politicians. There isn't, said he, a millionth part of the humbug in all the show business I ever had anything to do with, that there is in a holitician.

An Irishman who was fined four dollars at the Boston Police Court, a few days since for violating the ordinance against bathing, said to the officer as he paid it—"There's not much liberty for an Irishman in Boston; I'll have it—if a fellow drinks a drop, the p'lice 'ill nab him' and if he washes himself in salt water they'll nab him too."

A CONTENTED WIFE.—It is a blessed thing for a poor man to have a contented, loving wife; one who will not wish to live in a style beyond her husband's income, just because her next door neighbor does; one who can be happy in the love of her husband, her home, and its beautiful duties, without asking the world for its smiles or its favors.

PERSECUTION OF RUSSIAN DISSENTERS.—There is a large sect in Russia, called the Russians "of the old faith," who are to be found chiefly in Courland and Leifland. The emperor had at different times ordered very severe measures to be taken against this sect, which he considered prejudicial to the State; they must either be Rosso-Grecks, or they must be rendered incapable of filling any public offices, or of carrying on any trade or calling, or possessing landed property; they were not to be competent to the enjoyment of anything higher than the rights of peasants. The intentions of the late Emperor in this respect were, however, never fully carried out. The present one seems desirous of attaining a "bad preeminence" over his "never-to-be-forgotten" parent, and is striving to work out these measures to their fullest extent. The ukases on the subject have been brought to the recollection of various Dissenters of this denomination in Riga; in consequence the shops and the counting houses of a number of them have been closed, and the staro-virize are in despair. Some have been admitted to the full enjoyment of their civil and civic rights by being baptized into the Orthodox Church; but the heads of two considerable houses of business, rather than renounce their "old faith," have given up their business, and reduced their standard of living to that of peasants; they have, however, had their children baptized into the State Church.

TEXAS.—A letter from Houston of the 15th ult., announces an abundant harvest. Railroads and temperance are the only topics amongst politicians, and it was thought that the Maine Law party would succeed by a heavy majority at the next election.—Ind. Dem.

The Austrian Government requests the directors of the railways in that empire, to plant young trees of a description indicated, at convenient distances along the lines, intending them to replace eventually the posts upon which telegraphic wires are at present affixed.

Morning Chronicle.

TUESDAY, JULY 10, 1855.

A TESTIMONIAL.

The Portland Journal informs us, that the close of the Maine State Conference of Congregationalists, which was held in that city last week, the ministers and laymen of that denomination held a Grand Temperance Meeting in Rev. Dr. Dwight's Church. The Journal says, we have attended a great many temperance meetings, but never a better than that of Thursday, June 28th.

The meeting was called to order by Rev. Mr. Parker of Dover, and Hon. Neal Dow, Mayor of the city, was chosen chairman. Rev. Dr. Tappan offered prayer. Mr. Dow, on taking the chair, made some very happy remarks.

Rev. Messrs. Balkam of Lewiston, Adams, Parker of Dover, and Fessenden of Rockland, made speeches.

After Mr. Fessenden had taken his seat, Rev. Mr. French of the Bethel came forward, and announced that by the liberality of a gentlemen of this city, he had the honor to say that Hon. Neal Dow had been constituted a Life Member of the Seamen's Friend Society, and he presented the certificate of membership to Mr. Dow.

Rev. Mr. Turner then came forward, and said that by a like liberality, he was enabled to announce that Mr. Dow had been constituted a member for life of the American Tract Society.

When Mr. Turner took his seat, Rev. Mr. Willey, agent of the American Bible Society, came forward, and announced that he was enabled by the donation of a generous friend, to declare that Mr. Dow had been made a Life Member of the American Bible Society. This took Mr. Dow, as it did the audience, entirely by surprise; but it was a very agreeable episode in the services of the meeting.

At such a time as this, when base men and godless politicians are maligning the character of Mr. Dow, and perpetrating any quantity of falsehoods about him, it was both fit and proper that his friends should thus honor him. The occasion was well chosen, and all the services connected therewith were appropriate.

We think this moral demonstration in favor of Neal Dow and his acts, made by these clergymen, may be fairly set by the side of that other moral demonstration against him, made by F. O. J. Smith, Charles Q. Clapp, and John A. Poor, Esqs., with their associates.

People abroad, who have any knowledge of the men, can easily make their own choice between the two sets, and weigh the moral influence in the scales of their own judgment.

THE DIVINE PRESENCE.—A little medical paper, called Clay's Medical Rambler, printed in Portland, speaking of a late tragic death there, says:

But whatever the friends or opponents of ——— may think of the late sad occurrence—of the necessity of taking the life of a fellow being—it is certainly to be regretted that he was sent without warning into the presence of his maker—God.

We would like to know whether any man who reads and believes the Bible, has any idea that he is out of his Maker's presence now, or that he will be more really in His presence after death than before. Our idea of God is, that he is present, yes, Omnipresent and Omniscient; believing with David, in the 139th Psalm, that we cannot flee from his presence; and with the same writer, in the 16th Psalm, that in his presence, in another and a higher sense, is fullness of joy.

☞ Tower's Elements of Grammar, came from Daniel Burgess & Co., New York, two or three weeks ago, with the request that we would hand it to teachers, for examination. We handed it to two school girls, who examined it, (as we had no time to do) and they report that it is a good grammar. If so, it is worthy of notice, for some new books on Grammar are good for nothing, except to impede the scholar's progress, by incumbering his mind with a great mass of words to communicate a very little knowledge.

☞ Frank Leslie's Gazette of Fashion and the Beau Monde, for July, contains a splendid colored quarto Fashion Plate, and numerous wood engravings, among which is a likeness of Florence Nightingale, with a brief but admirable notice. Frank Leslie, publisher. price 25 cents per number. $3 per annum.

ONE OF THE SHEPHERDS.—The Chicago Journal gives the following as a day's experience of a clergyman in that city:

Rev. Patrick Bryon, a Catholic priest, sat down yesterday to drink, and rose up to go home, and after proceeding a short distance lay down on the sidewalk to drunken dreams. He awoke in the lock-up to pay a fine of $2 and costs for his unpriestly offence.

☞ Our South Berwick correspondent informs us, that on Friday evening, July 6th, a young man by the name of Barker, from Bethel, Maine, was drowned at the Lower Landing, so called, on Rollinsford side, N. H. He went in to bathe, alone; was missed from the house where he was visiting; when his friends went to the side of the river and found his clothes, and found him in about three hours after.

The Annual meeting of the Stockholders of this Corporation was held in Chapman Hall, Boston, on Monday.

Albert Thorndike, Esq. President of the corporation, proceeded to read the Directors' 20th annual report.

The receipts and expenses of the road to May 31st, 1855, a period of 11 months, have been as follows,—

The receipts from 946,714 passengers, have been $468,199 54. From freight $103,598 03. The income from the property of the road has been $47,102 42.

The entire cost of the road and equipment is stated at $4,787,004 19. The total valuation of property not required for the use of the road is stated at $1,565,179 96.

The total indebtedness of the company is $3,018,412, of which half a million is due the State; $176,700 66 is payable on demand; $253,079 in 1855, and so on.

The President then read a supplementary report, giving all the information known as yet by the Directors in relation to the defalcations of the treasurer.

Mr Tuckerman had admitted that his fraudulent conduct commenced shortly after his appointment, about ten years ago, and had been during this whole period successfully concealed from the frequent official examinations into the affairs of the corporation.

The total amount of defalcations already disclosed was $207,000.

The deficits are in sundry accounts to the amount of $41,180; in notes payable $60,500; in Asiatic Bank stock $56,801; Merchants' Bank, $9769; notes, &c. $7500; over issue of stock, 625 shares, $31,250.

Mr. Tuckerman had restored $3000 in money, and given up $62,000 worth of real estate. His bonds are for $20,000.

Mr. Richardson moved that a committee of five be selected by the meeting to report a committee of five stockholders, to make inquiry into the condition of the corporation, and report at an adjourned meeting on the 30th inst. Passed, and then reconsidered.

Mr. Preston of Portsmouth, on leave, read a series of resolutions passed at a recent stockholders' meeting in Portsmouth, which recommended that the election of Directors be deferred till after a thorough investigation of the company's affairs should be had, and deprecated the "free pass" system over the road.

Mr. Akerman of Portsmouth made an onslaught on the free pass system, and reported some abuses, which, however, were denied by the President. He also stated that some of the Directors owned little if any stock in the road, and had too much other business to attend to.

After some discussion, Mr. Richardson's motion for a preliminary committee of inquiry was adopted, and the following gentlemen were selected:

Wm. Richardson of Boston; Wm. H. Brewster, Newburyport; Ashabel Huntington, Salem; George M. Browne, Boston; Henry H. Ladd, Portsmouth; Joseph N. Sanderson, Lynn; and Levi Merriam, Boston.

This committee are to proceed immediately in their investigation, to report on the 30th inst., and it was concluded to keep up the free pass system for stockholders on that day, to insure a full representation.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW for July is laid on our table by the editor. And almost at the same moment we see in the Transcript the following brief notice of its contents:

The July number of this standard quarterly has ten articles and sixteen critical notices. The first article is devoted to the London Clubs, and presents many interesting and curious facts respecting them. The second article is upon "American Society." It is a very pleasant paper, which evinces that the author has an observant eye and a reflecting mind. The sketches are admirably drawn, and we intend to give our readers several pages of the article at the earliest possible day. The third article is upon Gymnastics. The fourth article treats of Mount Lebanon, and will be perused with interest by all Christian readers. The fifth article reviews Lord Carlisle's Diary and the American edition of the same, edited by Professor Felton. The subject of the sixth article is the Private Life and Household of Charlemagne; of the seventh, the Persistence of Physical Laws; of the eighth, Recent Records of Travel, reviewing the books of Rev. Samuel Irenæus Prime, William B. Sprague, D. D., and Professor Thomas C. Upham. The ninth article reviews Horace Binney Wallace's "Scenery and Philosophy in Europe." The tenth article is entitled "Workingmen's College," and gives much information in regard to the movements abroad to elevate the laboring classes. The eleventh article has sixteen literary notices, and with the list of new publications, closes the number. The North American is edited by Rev. Andrew P. Peabody, D. D., and is published by Crosby, Nichols & Co., at five dollars a year.

Among the literary notices, we observe the following correct estimate of Mrs. Stowe's earlier literary labors, in a brief mention of a book by her, entitled "The May-Flower and Miscellaneous Writings:"

A large amount of high intellectual ability must needs go almost unrecognized, or pass into speedy oblivion, because employed in contributions to periodical literature, which is impersonal to such a degree as by no means to confer the character it possesses. Though we recollected many of the pieces in this book, and they had made us think the better of the magazines in which they originally appeared, they yet had not separately produced upon us the impression which together they now make with regard to their writer. As we read them in their collective form, we perceive that her world-famous tale was not the miraculous outblooming of a genius that had previously given no sign, but that in the "Miscellaneous Writings" of earlier years there had been the distinct presage of high and enduring reputation. There are among them specimens of character-painting and of dialogue, of the ludicrous and the pathetic, which are hardly surpassed in their kind by corresponding passages in "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

LOCAL.

POLICE COURT.

MONDAY, July 9.— Before Justice Parker. —Daniel Murphy was arraigned for making a brawl and tumult on Sunday evening in a house on the corner of Court and Atkinson streets: and Thomas Mahoney for a similar offence at the same time at a house in Hancock St.

They were fined $2 each; and the costs, $8,53, were divided equally between the two.

Thomas Berry was arraigned for selling liquor on the Lord's Day, to Thomas Mahoney. But the witness, Mahoney, refusing to testify, the Justice sentenced him to a $5 fine and costs, $3,56—as he would have done the respondent, had he been convicted.

Thus Mr. Mahoney had to pay $14,83 for his Sunday evening's entertainment;—and Mr. Murphy 6,27. And Mr. Berry, the nominal seller, who is a poor crippled sot, maintained by his wife's groggery, goes unwhipt of justice this time.

Two boys were accused of robbing a garden; one was acquitted, the other was sentenced to the House of Correction for 15 days and to pay the cost of prosecution. Others committing a similar offence, may expect to meet the like punishment.

☞ Ned Buntline, as he is called, by way of distinction, and sometimes of derision, is to lecture at the Temple in this city This Evening. His real name, as most readers know, is Edward Z. C. Judson, and his history is rich in ups and downs. He has been officer and editor, prisoner and lecturer. Different persons now, look at him on opposite sides. Some call him a villain, others a hero.

He will lecture here, as he says, on the American Party, and the Next President.—He has just returned from the British Provinces, and promises to give interesting information in regard to the Orangemen.

He charges gentlemen fifteen cents for admission,—but admits ladies free of charge, and they are invited to attend.

No doubt there will be a houseful of ladies, to see Ned in his uniform, sword and moustaches.

DEATHS IN JUNE.—Mr. Robert Bell furnishes us with the following record of mortality in Portsmouth during the month of June.

Males seven—aged 1 month, 4 months, 1 year 6 months, 32 years, 58, 58, 71.

Females seven—aged 4 months, 1 year 3 months, 4 years 6 months, 18 years, 26, 26, 71.

ANOTHER SHIP OUT OF PLACE.—The Boston Journal of Saturday evening has the following item:

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The frigate Constitution, at Norfolk, is to be refitted forthwith for the Mediterranean station.

For the Chronicle.

Messrs. Editors:—The City of Concord have a large tract of plains land, lying exposed to the public travel without being fenced; on these lands there are corn, rye, and other articles growing; one field of rye containing one hundred acres of fine heavy grain now lying exposed to all the streets and roads, and yet this fine field is not troubled in the least with horses, cows, hogs, or any other animal. How long shall we be tormented with cows about the streets of this City, for want of independence and decision of character and action in our City Officers? C.

The Circus combination of Welch & Lent's establishments will be on exhibition here on the 16th. The well-considered and well-expressed opinion of Mrs. Partington, on this subject, are thus recorded by her scribe, in the Boston Post:

"Those are astonishing feats," said an ardent admirer of the sports of the ring to Mrs. Partington, at the Circus last evening—"astonishing feats!" "Yes, said the old lady, "so they are astonishing feet, and considerable legs, too, to judge at this distance." She looked at Ike, who sat by the curb watching the clown with his eyes full of wonder and his hands full of peanuts, and she reached over to his honor the Mayor and asked him if he thought "the revolting by the whole troupe would have a dilatorious tenderness on the boy." He assured her with great urbanity that he did not think it would. "Ah!" said she, as she handed her snuff box to Lee, at the door, "this riding is very different from what it was in the country, when I was a little girl, when we had to ride double on a pillory. But what agility they show! It seems as if they were set upon springs like a patent feather bed, and that every bone in 'em was made of whalebone." She stood looking at the horsmanship, and pronounced it to be the best equestering performance she had ever seen, said that Mr. Stout beat Herculaneum himself for strength, and that the whole was worth the highest pargoric.

GOOD MEDICINES.
It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchitis, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.
Every body needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.
Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only while it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.
These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbors and your own Physicians.
Try them once and you will never be without them.

Blake's Patent Fire Proof Paint.
THIS extraordinary substance has now been tested nearly nine years, and its Fire and Water Proof qualities are most extraordinary. Instead of the action of the weather destroying the coating as it does ordinary Paints, it only serves to turn it to a perfect Slate or Stone, protecting whatever covered from the action of Fire or Weather.
IMPORTANT DECISION
April Term, U. S. Court, New York.
Wm. Blake, vs. E. S & J. G. Belknap.—This was an action brought by the Piff. to establish the Validity (in the U. S. Court at Law) of his Patent, for Fire and Weather Proof Paint, or Artificial Slate, granted 28th March, 1848. After an able charge, by Judge Nelson, the Jury returned a verdict for the Piff; thus establishing the validity of the Patent. The Defendants made no application to application to disturb the verdict, and the Judgment entered on the 15th of June, 1853, for $1,029 67. Costs were paid by the Defts. The fact that the Patent has been sustained by one trial at Law is all that the Court requires to be shown before granting to the Patentee the summary process of Injunction to restrain all persons from Making, Using or Vending the patented article.—The damages already sustained by the Patentee will be taken under the rule of the Court before a Master in Equity. New York, Nov. 1853.

FROM CALIFORNIA.

The Northern Light, at New York, and the Prometheus at New Orleans, bring California news to June 16.

The Northern Light has $829,000 on freight.

The mining news is reported favorable and the shipments of specie are large. The town of Auburn has been destroyed by fire.

The law prohibiting gambling was very generally observed. Messrs. Bolton and Barron's claim has been satisfactorily arranged by the Commissioners. At Placerville and several other towns the K. N's have been successful.

Advices from the Isthmus state that Col. Walker, from San Francisco, had arrived at Nicaragua, and taken the town of Rivas.—Great excitement ensued.

Lola Montez left San Francisco on the 5th day of June, in the barque Fanny Major, bound to Australia, where she will then take the stage again, and proceed to Europe by China, Calcutta, and Sebastopol.

Some trouble with the Indians in the neighborhood of Fresno River is anticipated, owing to the hanging of an Indian who shot a Mexican miner without provocation. All the Indians on the Fresno reserve had run off to the mountains, and several of them were shot.

A rich gold quartz lead mine, and a silver mine had been discovered in Columbia County.

There are stated to be 54 flour mills in California, supposed to be able to turn out 4000 barrels of flour per day.

The know nothings have been defeated in Oregon. General Lane, democrat, having been elected delegate to Congress by over 2000 majority.

The most important item of news is the confirmation of Bolton & Barron's claim by the land commissioners. It embraces some 13,500 acres, lying mostly within the corporate limits of San Francisco, and covering the whole southern municipality, and is estimated to be worth $40,000,000.

The burning of the town of Auburn, entailed a loss of 1,000,000.

The clipper ship Metropolitan, which sunk at her dock, the day the last mail left, was pumped out, and raised the day after.

About twenty small frame houses, and six brick houses, situated in the square bounded by Dupont, Jackson, Stockton and Washington streets, San Francisco, were destroyed by fire on the 13th. Loss estimated at $40,000.

The returns as to the propriety of forming a state government were incomplete, but enough had been received to indicate that it had been determined that Oregon should cease to be a territory. The Indians are reported to have killed six white men in the Klamath Reservation, and six others in the Illinois Valley.

The mines were yielding abundantly, and the production for the year 1855 bids fair to equal if not exceed any previous year.

The Branch Mint was coining at the rate of $100,000 per day.

Sugar, gunny bags, and a few other articles had slightly improved, but most other articles had declined. The following were the closing quotations: Gallego and Haxall Flour 11 a $12; Wheat 1 1-2 a 1 7-8 per lb; Clear Pork 21,50; Lard 16c; Crushed Sugar 12c. East Boston Syrup firm at 64 a 67 1-2c; Adamantine Candles 26c; Lackawana 20.

POST OFFICE ROBBERY.

The most important arrest in the annals of post office depredations ever brought to light in this country was made in that city on Saturday morning last. The thief was a clerk in the Post Office in Chicago, and was arrested in the street as he was going home in the street on his way to breakfast. He was thrown into consternation, turned as pale as ashes, and made an effort to throw away the money on his person, which was prevented, as he was conveyed to the jail and was searched.

The name of the wretched young man is Theadore F. Denniston. He is between twenty-five or thirty years of age and unmarried. His brother, Perry Denniston, was arrested for the same crime in March, and is now at liberty on bail for three thousand five hundred dollars. The Dennistons are understood to be nephews of Post Master Cook, and if this be the case, their opportunity to commit these depredations upon the public is due to the relationship. Their father lives in New Jersey, and the sons, upon a salary of five or six hundred dollars a year, have the credit of having purchased and paid for a farm for him within the last year or two.

After arresting Denniston, the officer went to his boarding house and searched his room. The search was nearly concluded without finding any trace of his crimes, when officer Pinkerton decided to search minutely, and took the pictures down from the walls. On removing the back to several, bank bills to the amount of $3783 were found concealed, most of which were of large denominations.—The money was distributed as follows: Behind a picture of the Virgin Mary and the Imaculate conception, $1503; The Highland Lovers, $900; The Indian Warrior, $1000; a framed daguerreotype of his mother, $300. In his desk was found $135, which, with that found upon his person, makes nearly $4000 recovered.

W. J. Brown, General Agent of the Post Office Department, was in the City and visited Denniston in the Jail. Upon being told of the recovery of the money, he voluntarily confessed his crimes. He says that he had no accomplice, and that he never imparted his secret to any one; that he did not commence stealing letters until after the arrest of his brother, whose duties in the office was the same as his own, and of course each had the same opportunities.

The greater part of it was taken in small sums, although one letter gave him $300.—He had been in the habit of exchanging money at the banks, principly for eastern funds, and bills of large denomination. After taking the first package, all fear of compunction or conscience was gone, and in a little while it became impossible for him to pass a package through his hands without purloining it. He says he never knew what the love of money was before, and he has given full freedom to his desires since the means of gratifying them was so easily obtained.—From the Chicago Daily Press, July 2d.

THE OCEAN HOUSE,

ON RYE BEACH, N. H.

IS now open for Company. Great improvement has been made at this beautiful place this season. The Stable has been enlarged and fitted up in the best manner, and will be kept by the Proprietors in the same liberal manner that the house has always been kept in. The bar will in no case be opened on Sunday.

Take the Eastern Railroad, and stop at the Greenland Depot.

SAGAMORE HOUSE,

FROST'S POINT, 8½ miles from Portsm. Depots.

THE Proprietor of the above House respectfully invites the pleasure seeking public that he will open for the season on WEDNESDAY, June 20th.

To those familiar with the locality of the Sagamore House, not a word is necessary in regard to its beautiful and healthful situation.—To strangers seeking rest and recreation by the seaside it affords attractions unequalled. Situated on a point of land on the Atlantic shore, near the Harbor of Portsmouth, the windows on three sides overlook the salt water. From the beach, the broad Atlantic, the islands of Shoals, the beautiful Piscataqua, and the City of Portsmouth form a charming prospect, and in the background the green fields and leafy woods present a relieving contrast.

The House will be kept in the best manner, and every endeavor will be used to give satisfaction to its guests. The more effectually to do this, the proprietor has secured the services of MR. JOHN MACK, formerly of the Rockingham House, Portsmouth, those who have been still in hotel keeping will be a sufficient guarantee to all who know him that the management will be all that could be desired. The Table will be supplied with all the seasonable luxuries of the sea and land, and no effort need to render a sojourn at the Sagamore agreeable.

A Coach, in charge of an experienced driver, will run between the Sagamore House and the City of Portsmouth, leaving the Hotel at 8½ A.M. and 5½ P.M. Returning, leaves Portsmouth at 10½ A.M. and 7½ P.M.; or on arrival of cars from Boston and Concord. Fare 25 cents. All orders left at WM. R. PRESTON'S, in Portsmouth, will receive prompt attention.

THOS R. CLARK, Proprietor.

ISLES OF SHOALS.

THIS House is now open for public accommodation. As everybody is, or ought to be, cognizant of the natural advantages of this purely OCEAN RETREAT, the public will not be bored with real or imaginary descriptions. Suffice it to say that every facility for the promotion of the happiness and quiet enjoyment of visitors may be found here.

A STEAMER will make daily trips between the Islands and Portsmouth, accommodating itself to the arrival and departure of the several trains.

je16 2m THOMAS B. LAIGHTON.

PAVILION,

WOLFBOROUGH, N. H.

THE subscribers beg leave to inform their friends and the public that they have leased the above spacious Public House, which contains over one hundred well furnished rooms, which have been put in good order, for permanent and transient boarders. The House commands a good view of Lake Winnipesogee, together with the beautiful hills which surround it—from one of which the prospect is said to excel that of Mount Washington—making many beautiful rides in the vicinity, on land as well as on the beautiful lake.

Good horses and carriages will be connected with the house, and the beautiful steamboats "Lady of the Lake" and "Dover" make several trips each day up and down the lake. Gentlemen who delight in angling and gunning will find here ample field for their favorite enjoyment. Meals at all hours, without extra charge, for sportsmen.—Good carriages and accommodating porters in attendance on the arrival of each boat.

DEAD SHOT FOR BED BUGS.

A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it curls them up and lays them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees

It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a neat tidy housewife. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is incalculable.

SANCHO PANZA

Called down "Blessings upon the head of the man who first invented sleep." How much more worthy such honorable distinction would he consider the inventor of the Dead Shot, who, by his Pungent and Deadly Preparation, has rendered utterly impossible the ancient bloody forays of such 'tolerable and not to be endured' tormentors; and who has enabled every one to guarantee to himself his own particular share of "tired Nature's sweet restorer."

GREAT WEDDING.—The Richmond Dispatch tells a very large story of a very large wedding, which it says will take place in New York city next month. The Dispatch says:

The parties are wealthy. The bridegroom is a Louisiana planter (sugar) and the bride is the daughter of a New York judge. The preparations are of the amplest kind. No presidential tour was ever so magnificently provided for, even in the hey dey of Old Hickory. There are 2000 guests invited, all of whose expenses are to be borne by the inviters. The bridegroom is to be accompanied by 200 pairs of young ladies and gentlemen from the south. In his route he will be joined by recruits in every city. There being no possibility of accommodating the multitude at a private mansion, the St. Nicholas hotel has been rented at $2000 a day for four days, during which there will be royal feasting. The most distinguished caterer in New York has been engaged to fill the post of purveyor for the vast assemblage of guests.

P. S. The New York Evening Post is informed by the proprietors of the St. Nicholas that no such arrangement has been made or contemplated with them. It adds:

There is to be a small wedding party at the St. Nicholas some time during the present month. A gentleman named Lawrence, of Kentucky, is to be married to a Southern lady, and the wedding party will come to the North and stop a few days at the St. Nicholas. About fifty rooms have been partially engaged for the party. The bride and bridegroom and their friends, will afterwards leave the city for Saratoga and other places of summer resort. This is the nearest approximation to the 'monster wedding' of which the proprietors of the St. Nicholas have any knowledge.

A CURIOUS CASE.—Nineteen Slaves gone.—We observed a good deal of excitement, on Monday afternoon, on the wharf, near the steamer Caledonia, and soon saw a number of colored people, male and female, carrying a great quantity of baggage off the steamer to the wharf. On inquiry, we learned that an old gentleman on board was taking nineteen slaves, male and female, by way of this city, from Culpepper, Va., as he alleged, for the purpose of freeing them in Ohio, and buying land for them. The slaves, however, from some cause became suspicious that he really intended taking them to some slave State, and holding them as slaves. Six men of the number therefore broke away from the party and concealed themselves. The old man, as one of the slaves told us, assured the others that they might also leave if they pleased, and finally all put their baggage ashore, quite deliberately procured a wagon, and took it off into the city.—Pittsburg Despatch.

ACCIDENTS.—On the 4th, at Annisquam, Mass., Capt. O. G. Lane, Jr., and two boys were badly injured by the explosion of a rocket which he was firing. Capt. Lane's face was burned all over, and it was feared that he would lose his eyesight. The boys were not burned so badly.

At Millville, Blackstone, Mass., while a clerk in the store of Charles A. Fletcher was carelessly experimenting with some fireworks, the fire communicated to a lot of other fireworks and an open keg of powder. The entire building, which was used for a store and dwelling-house, was destroyed, with Mr. Fletcher's goods, household furniture, books, papers and cash, and Mrs. Fletcher and her child had barely time to escape. The child was burned so badly that its life is despaired of. Fletcher's loss is about $5000—insured for $2000. The house of P. S. Thayer, Esq., was also consumed. Loss about $2000—insurance $600.

NEW YORK, 7th.—The number of deaths for the week has been 546, being an increase of 206 over last week.

Causes, we suppose, hot weather, bad liquor, excess.

NARROW ESCAPE.—Monday evening about 9 o'clock, as a lady and gentleman were passing down Montgomery street in an open carriage, the horse took flight from the explosion of a fire cracker, and ran off. The gentleman with great presence of mind held on to the lady, and although the horse went at a tremendous pace, managed to keep his own seat and retain the lady in hers until assistance came. This was afforded by on Irish cartman who was passing, and who running forward succeeded in seizing hold of the reins, and at the imminent risk of his own life stopping the horse. The gentlemen was extremely gratified and offered to reward the man, who positively declined receiving anything of the kind, declaring that he had done no more than he would have wished to have been done to himself.—New York Sun.

A noble Irishman that.

NOT UNITED.—The question of uniting the Manchester and Lawrence and Concord Railroad has been postponed in the New Hampshire Senate, by a vote of 7 to 5. The Committee to which the subject was referred reported for a postponement, and though at the first vote in the Senate, the subject of indefinite postponement was lost, 2 to 10, the outside pressure carried the postponement to next year, as above mentioned. The proposition of union was to have the united stock $2,500,000, of which $1,500,000 was to be allotted to the Concord company.

The fourth of July celebration at Hamilton, C. W., passed off in excellent style. The proceedings—something entirely new in Canada, and which will form a new epoch in the history of the "Provinces," were entered into with spirit and real enthusiasm.

A sumptuous repast was served up, and six or seven hundred persons partook of it.

Morning Chronicle.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 11, 1855.

THE CROWNER'S QUEST.—The Portland papers of July 10, contain the verdict of the second coroner's jury on the death of John Robbins. They find that he 'came to his death through the agency of Neal Dow, Mayor of the City of Portland —— in consequence of the illegal order of said Neal Dow to the military company of Rifle Guards.'

"And this the homicide of the said John Robbins, by the said Neal Dow, in the manner and by the means aforesaid, was and is without any legal justification or excuse.

But whether such homicide committed under the circumstances aforesaid, constitutes the crime of murder, or manslaughter only, the jury are not able to decide; and therefore leave that question to be determined by the appropriate law tribunal of the State."

This is the material part of the verdict, and really leaves the whole question as open as it was when the jury took it up. There is surely no Manslaughter about the matter. It is either Murder or Justifiable Homicide. The jury don't say which it is, but the scribe, whoever he was, that drew up the paper, has inserted the word Manslaughter, as the most convenient mode of bringing the laborious task to its close,—and yet getting rid of a positive decision.

The jury recommend that the material witnesses be recognized to appear before the Grand Jury on the last Tuesday of July, that the usual criminal course may then be taken with Neal Dow.

In the meantime, the very unusual course is taken, of letting the alleged criminal go at large, even out of the State,—as he sat beside the Speaker of the N. H. House of Representatives, when the liquor bill passed that body last Friday.

The testimony taken before the inquest, is to be published and sold in a book, and will be interesting as a portion of history—but it will never convict the any body before a jury in any Court of Law.

OUTRAGE.—On Friday of last week, an innocent girl was brutally ravished in a store in Maiden Lane, New York, where she had gone on an errand for her employers. New York papers, from which the above is derived, also state, without further comment, that the details are unfit for publication.

To this the Boston Telegraph adds:

Now we do not think it will hurt the public to know what the virtuous papers of New York would rather suppress, viz.: that the store was a liquor store, that the act was committed by three different men who went there to drink, and that their helpless victim was held by the bar keeper during the time, he having first fastened the door!

Does any man blame Mayor Wood for trying to shut up such a den of demons as this?

A SLAVE BORN OF A WHITE WOMAN FREED BY A VIRGINIA COURT.—The Richmond Enquirer of the 12th inst., gives the following account of a very interesting case which has been decided in the Botetourt Circuit Court:

Eliza Crawford and five children, colored, sued for their freedom. The case was decided in favor of the plaintiffs, the evidence being full and complete that the chief plaintiff, Eliza, was born of a white woman in Georgia. She is now about thirty five years of age, and has been in slavery between fifteen and twenty years. Her appearance indicates that her father was a mixture of African and Indian. She is now the mother of six children, all of whom were plaintiffs, except the eldest, who never belonged to defendant, and who, it is said, will not be set at liberty without resistance. There was no evidence, however, to show that the defendant was in any way privy to, or accountable for, the injustice done the plaintiffs.

ARE THEY, DOCTOR?—Rev. Dr. Nehemiah Adams, in his South Side View, says that suicides are unknown among slaves. The following we clip from the Savannah (Ga.) Republican of June 14:

Horrible Tragedy.—On Wednesday last, a negro woman belonging to Mr. Henry E. Williamson, residing about five miles from Griffin, took her two children, one aged three, and the other about six years—went to the woods, hung her two children, and then hung herself.

☞ At Concord, on Friday evening, Neal Dow addressed a large meeting on the subject of temperance, and defended his conduct at the Portland riot.

ARRESTS UNDER A LIQUOR LAW.—There were some 70 or 80 men arrested in New York, Thursday under the Liquor Law, but they were to ascertain where they got their liquor, to be followed by the prosecution of the dealers.

There were several similar arrests made in Brooklyn, and the parties compelled under oath to disclose the names of the liquor sellers, against whom warrants have been issued.

The Vermont Verde Antique Marble Co., in Roxbury, have their machinery in operation day and night, to fill numerous orders for slabs and blocks, of both finished and unfinished marble; there are now sufficient, provided no others are received, to keep all hands in employment for a period of at least eight months. They are now engaged in supplying a contract for material for building the great central stairway for the Capitol extension at Washington, which will require 10,000 cubic feet.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEGISLATURE.

SATURDAY, July 7th.

HOUSE.—Resolutions providing for the education of the Indigent Deaf and Dumb at Asylum at Hartford, and for the education of the Blind of this State at Boston, were read a third time and passed.

Mr. Eastman of Conway, from a Select Committee to whom were referred resolutions of the Legislature of Rhode Island, relative to the introduction of foreigners into this country, reported a series of resolutions urging upon Congress the necessity of passing a a law imposing severe penalties against the introduction and importation into this country of foreign paupers and criminals, and also for the passage of a new naturalization law, which shall require a continuous residence of not less than 10 nor more than 21 years in this country, to enable an alien to become a citizen, which was ordered to a second reading.

Mr. Sinclair of Bethlehem, offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the people of New Hampshire have never regarded the French Spoliation Claims as founded on justice, and for that reason have resisted their payment,—therefore we approve of the act of the President of the United States vetoing the bill for their payment, passed by the last Congress, and we hereby request our delegation in Congress to oppose all similar bills.

Mr. Clark of Manchester, hoped the resolution would be passed to a second reading, so that the House might amend it, so as to express the real opinion of the people of New Hampshire upon the subject. The resolution was ordered to a second reading.

A bill to amend the charter of the city of Manchester, was referred to a select committee of the delegation from Manchester.

MONDAY, 6th.

SENATE.—Bills read a third time and passed. An act relating to the assessment of the school tax.

An act in relation to the fees of sheriffs and other officers.

HOUSE.—Bills and resolutions ordered to a third reading.—Bill to incorporate the Rumford Mills.

Resolution in relation to the introduction of foreign criminals and paupers, and the passage of a new naturalization law.

The resolution in regard to the veto by the President, of the French Spoliation Bill, was, on motion of Mr. Clark, of Manchester, laid on the table.

Bills Introduced.—Mr. Kittredge of Canaan obtained consent to introduce a bill to prohibit the sale of India crackers. Read the first and second times, and then referred to the Committee on Military affairs.

Mr. Converse of Marlborough, obtained consent to introduce a bill relating to the laying out of highways. Read the first and second times, and then referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

The bill to incorporate the Rumford Mills was read the third time and passed.

Resolutions urging upon Congress the necessity of passing a law to prevent the introduction of foreign criminals and paupers into this country, and also the propriety of passing a new naturalization law, were read the third time, and laid upon the table.

Mr. Brown of Manchester, introduced a bill to establish a State Normal School, which was read the first and second times, and then referred to the Committee on Education.

Mr. Sanborn of Concord, offerred the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Judiciary be instructed to inquire into the expediency of repealing the act in relation to Insurance Companies, and report by bill or otherwise.

The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Lane of Dover obtained consent to introduce a bill to amend the act establishing a board of Insurance Commissioners, which was read the first and second times, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

YEAS AND NAYS.—In the House of Representatives, on Friday, the following were the Yeas and Nays from Rockingham County, on the liquor:

Yeas.—Messrs. Lary and Collins of Brentwood, Prescott, Philbrick, Sleeper of Chester, Collins of Danville, Robinson, Montgomery, Currier of Derry, Lovering, Waters, Marsh of Exeter, Newton, Hatch of Greenland, Buck of Hampstead, Shaw, Sanborn of Hampton Falls, Patten, Alley, Hurd, Tarlton, Nutter of Newington, Dow, Winkley, Rowell, Ring, Shannon, Tullock, Whittemore of Portsmouth, Blake, Wheeler, Peters, Neal, Wiggin of Stratham, Jackson.

ERROR IN THE LIQUOR BILL.—In Sec, 5, lines 8, 9—we read, not less than two, nor more than five hundred dollars. It ought to be amended so as to read, not less than two hundred, nor more than five hundred.

ACCIDENT IN ROXBURY.—On Wednesday, as Mr. Robert Watt, machinist, of Roxbury, whose shop is on Tremont street in that city, was proceeding up stairs with a heavy piece of iron in his hand, in endeavoring to open the door at the head of the stairs, the latch broke, which caused him to fall backwards to the floor below, the iron striking him in the chest and on the head. He lay in great agony sometime before he was discovered, and on being taken to his residence, lingered till Thursday afternoon, when he died. His age was 65, and he leaves a wife and family.

FUEL.—In Washington city, a day or two since, the bids were offered and the contracts made by the Clerk of the House, for the coal and wood required for the use of the House of Representatives during the ensuring season. The accepted bid for the coal (best quality of anthracite) was $6,19 per ton of 2260 lbs.; and for hickory wood, at $8 per cord; both to be delivered at the capitol. This shows that the price of coal has materially decreased of late.

A new Sunday law has been passed in St. Louis, Mo., by which all stores may be kept open the whole of Sunday, except places for the sale of liquor, which must be closed from 9 A. M. until 4 P. M.

EASTERN RAILROAD.

A gentleman of this city, one of the stock holders, has handed in to us the printed Annual Report, on the 8th and 9th pages of which there is an error of $13,297,58, as he makes it manifest by his figures. The error is made in carrying up a footing from the bottom of the 8th page to the top of the 9th;—and it is carried on through the account, to its close, and balanced in such a way as to show that it is not the printer's error, but an organic fault in the accountant, who either deceived himself in a singular way, or else tried to deceive his employers.

Every merchant's clerk who will look over the book, will see the error at once.

Since the above lines were written, the same stockholder has shewn us another printed copy of the same report, in which the above mentioned error is corrected. But in this last copy, the cost of extension into Boston is reduced, from $791,601,60 to 778,304,-02. The difference is exactly 13,297,58; precisely the same amount with the errors which we have noticed. This change looks even more like an intent to deceive, than the error in the first copy.

EASTERN RAILROAD IN N. H.—The Annual Meeting of the Eastern Railroad in N. H. was held at the Eastern Depot in this city on Tuesday forenoon. The old board of Directors were elected as follows:

Ichabod Goodwin, Daniel P. Drown, Portsmouth; Isaiah Breed, Lynn; Stephen A. Chase, Salem; Benj. F. Reed, Boston.

The election was conducted without excitement, and nothing of consequence was said in regard to the affairs of the lessees of the road.

☞ The trip to Clark's Hotel, at the Sagamoro, is most delightful, whether made by land or water, in carriage or on foot. And the surrounding view, is not surpassed by any of the pleasure houses—from the most delicious landscape, especially at set of sun, to the broadest display of "the open sea," pleasantly studded with an occasional lighthouse or island, and the ever-passing vessels.

And within, the arrangements are better than ever before—which is accounted for from the fact that that experienced, skilful and gentlemanly caterer for the pleasure-seeking public, Mr. John Mack, is to be found in the "office." A coach runs twice daily each way between Odiorne's Point and Portsmouth, under the charge of Mr. Wm. D. Perkins, one of the most skilful of drivers—and affords a chance for a very cheap and delightful ride.

Among other good things, a lobster weighing sixteen and a half pounds was taken near this hotel a few days since, and proved most delicious eating.

☞ All who wish to regale themselves on the delicious strawberries furnished by Mr. Diman, at Highland Cottage, Stratham, should do so without delay, as the season for that berry does not last long. It is just an hour's travel for a good horse, to go from Portsmouth to Highland Cottage; and those who prefer the cars to a private conveyance, can go via the Concord Railroad. We have visited the place many times, and can cordially recommend it as a quiet, beautiful resort, where a guest is well cared for. T.

EXCURSION.—A large party of Ladies and gentlemen made an excursion down the harbor on Tuesday, in the pilot boat Sibyl, Capt. Preble. Sol Holmes went with them as commissary general. The party enjoyed themselves hugely, though their cruising ground was contracted somewhat by the heavy sea which was raised by the strong southerly breeze. Had they braved the billows, the vivacity of most of the company would probably have been diminished somewhat in the course of the day, by a call from Neptune for his tribute.

☞ Rev. J. H. Marston, of this city, has received a unanimous invitation to become pastor of the Freewill Baptist Church in Brookfield, N. H.

PREMATURE PYROTECHNICS.—The citizens of Roxbury had provided for a grand display of fire-works on Mt. Warren, but on the discharge of the first piece, the wind blew the sparks among the remainder, and the whole were fired at once, without waiting for the order on the programme. This grand explosion cost the sum of $800, and it is hardly lasted long enough to repay in pleasure the outlay in money. No one was hurt by unlooked for extent of this first piece, and those gathered to witness the display returned home much sooner than they had calculated upon.—Boston Chron.

A VIGOROUS OLD AGE.—On Tuesday last, Mr. Noah Noyes, of Newburyport, eighty four years of age, started from Newburyport on foot, dined at Medford, and reached Boston in the afternoon, having walked the whole distance. He spent the Fourth with his relatives here, and on Thursday morning took the early train for Newburyport. He would have walked back, he said, if his garden had not needed his earliest attention.—Mr. Noyes performed a similar feat three years ago.—Boston Traveller.

GOOD MEDICINES.

It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchitis, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.

Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should live on to old age. Take antidotes early and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.

Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only wylie it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative remedy is required.

These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbors and your own Physicians.

Try them once and you will never be without them.

Price 25 cts. per Box—5 Boxes for $1.

Blake's Patent Fire Proof Paint.

THIS extraordinary substance has now been tested nearly nine years, and its Fire and Water Proof qualities are most extraordinary. Instead of the action of the weather destroying the coating as it does ordinary Paints, it only serves to turn it to a perfect Stone or Stone, protecting whatever covered from the action of Fire or Weather.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

April Term, U. S. Court, New York.

Wm. Blake, vs. E. R. & J. G. Belknap.—This was an action brought by the Plff. to establish the validity (in the U. S. Court at Law) of his Patent, for Fire and Weather Proof Paint, or Artificial Slate, granted 28th March, 1848. After an able charge by Judge Nelson, the Jury returned a verdict for the Plff; thus establishing the validity of the Patent. The Defendants made no application to disturb the verdict, and the Judgment entered on the 15th of June, 1853, for $1,629 67. Costs were paid by the Defts. The fact that the Patent has been sustained by one trial at Law is all that the Court requires to be shown before granting to the Patentee the summary process of Injunction to restrain all persons from Making, Using or Vending the patented article.—The damages already sustained by the Patentee will be taken under the rule of the Court before a Master in Equity. New York, Nov. 1853.

Yacht Sea Ranger,

FOR THE SHOALS AND A MARKET.

CAPT. JAMES W. GOODWIN respectfully gives notice to the pleasure seeking public that he has purchased for their accommodation the present season, the safe, commodious and fast-sailing Yacht SEA RANGER, of 45 tons burthen, with which he is now prepared to convey parties to the Shoals, Boar's Head and other places in the vicinity; and having furnished her with all the necessary materials, will accommodate Fishing Parties on reasonable terms.

The SEA RANGER will outsail any vessel on the Piscataqua or of any neighboring ports, in light or heavy winds; is fitted with excellent berths; is well supplied with sails, boats, fishing and cooking apparatus, and is in every respect the best vessel for the accommodation of parties who desire a few days enjoyment on the briny ocean that ever hailed from this port.

The SEA RANGER will make occasional trips to the SHOALS for the accommodation of such persons as desire safe conveyance thither; and when the bosom of old ocean is too much agitated for the steamer GRACE DARLING, alias Silver Star, to venture forth, the Yacht will bear passengers safely o'er the bounding billow.

The commander of the Sea Ranger confidently appeals to those who have in past seasons patronized the SPY under his command, for the continuance of their patronage for his new Yacht, pledging himself to use every exertion to give them and all new patrons entire satisfaction.

For further particulars apply to JACOB WALDEN, No. 9 Water street, or to the Master on board, at Pier Wharf, foot of State street.

ITEMS FROM CALIFORNIA.

The San Francisco correspondent of the New York Journal of commerce, writing under date of June 16th, says:—

The present available stock of flour in this market estimated at equal 100,000 barrels of all kinds—about three months' supply, which is more than sufficient to suffice until the new crop appears in market.

There is no disputing the fact, that the miners throughout our State are now and have been doing better for the last four months, than at any previous period since the discovery of gold.

The deposit at the Mint in a single day last week for coinage, amounted in the aggregate, to the amount of sixteen thousand ounces, or about half a ton of gold! or $300,000 in money. Upwards of 800 ounces were deposited by one gentleman from Shasta.—Does it look as if the mines were giving out?

The reports from the interior in regard to the grain crop, are somewhat conflicting; yet we are satisfied that the yield will be but half the usual product of California soil, but that the increased breadth of land sown will furnish us an abundant supply for our own consumption, and leave us at least 100,000 bbls. of flour surplus for export.

A plague of grasshoppers has been experienced around Marysville, by which all green things are devoured. They have been collected and eaten by bushels by the Indians.

FEMALE LABOR.—We alluded some time since to the high price demanded by females for their services in doing housework for families. Since that time there has been little reduction in such demands, though the numbers of that class have nearly doubled. A good cook cannot be procured for less than $50 per month, and an ordinary housemaid demands $40 per month. There are a large number of females who were glad to be employed at $6 and $8 per month in the East, who prefer lying idle to accepting employment at a less rate than that above mentioned. The consequence has been that many families have been driven out of the State, while others get along as best they can with male help, which can be hired at one-half the price of female help. There are a very large number of young women in the Eastern States who, if they were content to come to this city and work as they would there, and not expect to much, could make a vast improvement in their condition.—Alta. Cal.

SNOW PUNCH.—A Mr. Hawley, who resides about 8 miles beyond Placerville, arrived in Sacramento, Friday morning, with a large cart of frozen snow. He found a ready and profitable sale for his commodity. The snow was obtained twenty miles beyond Placerville, and although brought so great a distance, there was very little loss, it having been properly packed.

WASHINGTON, 10th.—A petition for relief has been forwarded to Pres. Pierce, by a party of Germans now imprisoned at Melville Island, Nova Scotia. They state that they were hired in New York to go to that place to work, but that on arriving there, they were offered the alternative of enlisting for the Crimea war or imprisonment, and they chose the latter.

NEW YORK, 9th.—Several cases of fatal sickness occurred on board the Northern Light on the first day out from San Juan.—Amongst those who died was Mrs. Rosalie Polby of Boston, aged 64. Mrs. Pelby was just returning to her home in Boston from a visit to California.

Yesterday a large number of the liquor shops, and many lager beer saloons were closed, and the streets, both here and in Brooklyn, were more quiet than they have been. Many of the lower groceries have stopped selling liquor at all since the 4th.

YACHT CAPSIZED.—The new yacht Grace W. Kerr was upset yesterday morning in the bay, and three out of five persons on board were drowned. Among the drowned was Mr. Ferguson, for many years ship news reporter of the Journal of Commerce. He was a native of one of the British Provinces.

DISAPPOINTMENT IN LOVE.—Yesterday afternoon a young lady at the West End attempted to commit suicide by hanging herself in the cellar of her father's house. She was discovered by a younger brother, who happened to go into the cellar, and thus frustrated her design. The cause assigned is that her betrothed had not only squandered his fortune at a noted gambling house, but was paying his addresses to another lady.—Boston Telegraph.

SAGAMORE HOUSE,
FROST'S POINT, 3½ miles from Postsm. Depots.
THE Proprietor of the above House respectfully announces to the pleasure seeking public that he will open for the season on WEDNESDAY, June 20th.
To those familiar with the locality of the Sagamore House, not a word is necessary in regard to its beautiful and healthful situation.—To strangers seeking rest and recreation by the seaside it affords attractions unequalled. Situated on a point of land out of the Atlantic shore, near the Harbor of Portsmouth, the windows on three sides overlook the salt water. From the beach, the broad Atlantic, the Isles of Shoals, the beautiful Piscataqua, and the City of Portsmouth form a charming prospect, and in the background the green fields and leafy woods present a relieving contrast.
The House will be kept in the best manner, and every endeavor will be used to give satisfaction to its guests. The more effectually to do this, the proprietor has secured the service of Mr. JOHN MACK, formerly of the Rockingham House, Portsmouth, whose experience and skill in hotel keeping will be a sufficient guarantee to all who know him that the management will be all that could be desired. The Table will be supplied with all the seasonable luxuries of the sea and land, and every effort used to render a sojourn at the Sagamore agreeable.
A Coach, in charge of an experienced driver, will ply between the Sagamore House and the City of Portsmouth, leaving the Hotel at 8½ A.M. and 5½ P.M. Returning, leaves Portsmouth at 10½ A.M. and 7½ P.M., or on arrival of cars from Boston and Concord. Fare 25 cents. All orders left at Wm. R. Parsons's, in Portsmouth, will receive prompt attention.
THOS R. CLARK, Proprietor.

ISLES OF SHOALS.
THIS House is now open for public accommodation. As everybody is, or ought to be, cognizant of the natural advantages of this purely OCEAN RETREAT, the public will not be bored with real or imaginary descriptions. Suffice it to say that every facility for the promotion of the happiness and quiet enjoyment of visitors may be found here.
A STEAMER will make daily trips between the Islands and Portsmouth, accommodating itself to the arrival and departure of the several trains.
je16 2m THOMAS B. LAIGHTON.

PAVILION,
WOLFEBOROUGH, N. H.
THE subscribers beg leave to inform their friends and the public that they have leased the above spacious Public House, which contains over one hundred well furnished rooms, which have been put in good order for permanent and transient boarders. The House commands a good view of Lake Winnipiscogee, together with the beautiful hills which surround it—from one of which the prospect is said to excel that of Mount Washington—making many beautiful rides in the vicinity, on land as well as on the beautiful lake.
Good horses and carriages are connected with the house, and the beautiful steamboats "Lady of the Lake" and "Dover" make several trips each day up and down the lake. Gentlemen who delight in angling and gunning will find here ample field for their favorite enjoyment. Meals at all hours, without extra charge, for sportsmen.—Good carriages and accommodating porters in attendance on the arrival of each boat.

DEAD SHOT FOR BED BUGS.
A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it twirls them up and lays them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees
It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a neat tidy housewife. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is incalculable

THE Merits of this Article are too well known to require a lengthy description. It has a Large Oven, and by an ingenious arrangement the Hot Air is carried around it at pleasure, so that it bakes in the most perfect manner, while at the same time the Chips are placed directly over and close to the fire. On the top, which is flat, Irons are heated admirably, if required, and kept clean. It is made entirely of Iron, consequently is very durable; requires but little room, may stand in the open fire-place, (in Summer) or be placed parallel with the Range, and work it. SHREWD OPERATION BY A POLICEMAN.—In the New York papers we read an account of a very clever operation performed by a New York policeman on board one of the Sound boats:—

☞It seems that Mr. Sampson (the policeman in question) was informed by the clerk of the boat that one of the passengers, John Dunn, Esq., familiarly called 'Rascal Jack,' and well known as a star comedian, lately performing at Burton's Theatre, had been robbed of his gold watch, worth $200, $60 in money, a pair of gold and tortoise shell glasses, &c., &c., while on board the steamer. The officer knew not at first what to do, his power there, so far from home, being of a doubtful character; but, after a little reflection, he decided to take the responsibility, and use every laudable effort to recover the stolen property of the unfortunate actor. He accordingly called as many of the 150 passengers then on the boat as was practicable, and took a close and scrutinizing survey of the crowd. At last, fixing his eyes on one more suspicious than the rest, he politely invited the strange gentleman to step into the Captain's office for a few minutes. The stranger demurred, and putting on an air of innocence, desired to know what it all meant.

None of the passengers were in the secret, and each one, of course, had his curiosity wrought up to the highest pitch. The individual singled out by the officer was compelled to submit to the request of the latter, and on being searched, sure enough, and to the surprise of all, and delight of Mr. Dunn in particular, the gold watch, glasses and passage ticket of the latter were found sunk in the fellow's pantaloons pocket. The money was not recovered, the thief having passed it to an accomplice, or otherwise disposed of it. A majority of the passengers were decidedly in favor of administering summary punishment upon the pickpocket. Some proposed to tie a rope about his neck, throw him overboard, and drag him in the wake to the next landing, if he was not drowned; while others preferred tying his hands, compelling him to run the gauntlet, (from one end of the boat to the other) and submit to kicks and cuffs at every step. The rascal was only saved from great violence by the prompt interference of Sampson.

On reaching Stonington the light fingered chap was passed to the custody of the authorities, for prosecution by Mr. Dunn, Esq., who it is understood will pursue the rascal to conviction. The sagacity displayed by Mr. Sampson in selecting the real thief from among so many persons, was highly complimented by the officers and passengers of the boat.

GREAT FIRE.—A fire broke out on the 1st of June, in Bergen, Norway, by which upwards of 350 houses were destroyed. So rapidly did the flames extend that the inmates were obliged to escape in their night dresses, not having time to save a single article.—Three of the finest districts of the town have been destroyed, and it was only by pulling down houses in different directions that the other parts of the town were saved. By the exertions of the firemen, several of whom are said to have been killed, the bourse, the bank, and the royal museum were saved. The amount covered by insurance is 148,430 crowns, (about £31,500) but that sum is only a twentieth part of the loss.

MORAL SUASION.—A friend whose good opinion we have always valued, staggered us somewhat the other day by telling us that he was altogether in favor of moral suasion in the management of the young, to be implanted and strengthened by a free use of the rattan.

Rev. Mr. Drew, in the last Rural Intelligencer, says that Prof. Hitchcock of Bowdoin college has resigned his situation, and accepted a Professorship in a New York Institution.

The immense nugget of gold, the arrival of which at Havre on its way to the exhibition, all Paris has been so ostentatiously informed of, turns out to be a deception. The men who brought it took it to the Bank of France in order to obtain on it a loan of money, when it was found that the bulk of it was in fact lead, ingeniously covered over with gold, put on in such a manner as to closely resemble the valuable metal. The man who presented it has been arrested.

We are sorry to learn that a melancholy instance of insanity, caused by attention to the spiritual manifestation theory, exists in this city, in the person of a young lady, much valued for her good qualities by numerous friends. The lady belongs to a town in Maine, but has resided here several months, and has made many friends by her intelligent and amiable character. This spiritual theory seems to be a dangerous matter for people of nervous temperaments and imaginative minds. —Newburyport Herald.

SINGULAR CASUALTY.—Christian Streller, a grocer, left his store this morning about 1 o'clock, to bathe in the river. In going he met an unknown man, who also appeared to be bound for the water, and unfortunately got into conversation with him. In crossing the railroad track at 59th street, the unknown man knocked Streller down, with the intention of robbing him. At this moment down came a train of cars and cut off one of Streller's feet. The robber escaped.—New York Mirror, 30th June.

THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1855.

LIFE IN BANGOR.

The Portland Expositor, which is the Repeal paper on the Maine law, is highly indignant that the law is enforced in Bangor, and especially that Marshal Weaver, of that ilk, is so persevering and thorough. Weaver gives the number of his searches and seizures —and then says—

The commitments to the watch house during the last three months were about half as many as during the same months last year—didn't think there was more than one twenty-fifth as much drank now as last year at this time.* Only a few citizens can obtain it.—People from the country cannot get it. It is only to be found in the lowest places and dog-holes. It will be awful dry times in August and September.

If Exchange street and Union street could be cleared of their rum holes, instead of four police by day and six watchmen by night, he could perform all the police and constable duties by day, and two men could take care of the city by night.

On this dreadful state of things, the Expositor offers the following elegant remarks:

But from this Weaver's account of the vassalage, and espionage, and miserable search-submitting-condition, in which the citizens of Bangor are represented as living, under the Maine Law, we confess we feel like denying that they belong to the State of Maine—that they ever had any existence among our people. We feel inclined to proclaim, that they are a wart upon the very posterior of the body politic of Maine, which has never been cut out and cast away, because the delicacy of the public person has forbid any surgical operation being conducted on a part so indecent to exposure. Only consider—149 searches into the private possessions of the citizens of Bangor in 90 days! And this a fact to brag of!

Why, what are these people made of? Is there no infernal machine to appeal to, if no higher associations exist for the redemption of Bangor? Talk about constitutional law in a land that permits such a busy system of search and espionage?

We proclaim the whole statement of this bullying, bragging, hypocritical Marshal Weaver, to be a wicked libel upon the manly independence of the citizens of Bangor, or they are waiting to beat up for him a thunder-bolt that will be so reddened with vengeance, that when its explosion shall take place, so living thing in hell or heaven will be left, having a sympathy to ever inquire what become of such a disgrace to humanity as he is.

It was this same spirit, only a little more disguised, which plotted and raised the rum riot in Portland on the 2d of June. We commend the above eloquent remarks of the Expositor to the attention of all our readers, especially to any who may have imagined that body of rioters to be very good natured, amiable and harmless. The active men about the battered door, felt and acted very much as this editor writes.

RESISTANCE TO LAW.—It will be recollected that a Mr. Willis, of South Carolina, died in Cincinnati a few weeks ago, after having emancipated his slaves.

The Edisto (S. C.) Clarion learns from a private source that Mr. Joliffe, executor of the Elijah Willis will, was advised by the citizens of Williston to leave that place in short order, and that, being indisposed to hide the consequences, he did, in fact, leave on the down train of cars on Monday morning for Cincinnati.

That is to say, law is law when it favors slavery—but law is not law when it favors freedom. Will our federal executive call out all the force at his disposal, to defend the legal and constitutional rights of this executor? No one expects any such thing. And those men who roll up their eyes in holy horror, for fear some fanatic should think of a higher law than the constitution, have no horror at all at a law many degrees lower.

☞ In the Boston Municipal Court, on Tuesday, July 10, J. Smith Robinson was indicted for larceny.

C. B. Goodrich, Esq., then moved that the bail for J. Smith Robinson, accused of robbing $5000 from Jackson & Co's Express car on the Eastern Railroad, be reduced, as he was unable to obtain the amount of bail required, ($5000.) He stated that Mr. Robinson had property to the amount of $2500, and that it would be very desirable for him to be at liberty in order to obtain witnesses for the defence. District Attorney Cooley opposed the motion for a reduction of bail, on account of the large amount of property stolen. The Court, however, directed the bail to be reduced to $2000, and that the case be continued to the August term of the Court. The Counsel stated that they were prepared to show, by competent medical testimony, that the accused was partially insane, and also that he had previously borne a good character.

☞ In the Boston Police Court, on the same day, Wm. H. Davis, convicted of having stolen a gold watch and chain, at the house of Robert McDonough, was sentenced by Judge Russell, to three years in the House of Correction.

☞ The Ladies' Repository for July, 1855, just received from the publisher, Abel Tompkins, Boston,—contains many valuable articles,—some peculiarly so, from the editor.—We are also specially pleased with two translations from the French and German, by Mr. Soule, viz. the Housewife, and Tears. We would gladly transfer them to our columns, if we had room.

DEFALCATIONS.

The Boston Journal offers the following remarks on the important question, Are Defalcations and Swindling Legal Crimes? Aside from the strength of language, written on the spur of the moment, the suggestions are worthy of being pondered by every man, whether he owns stock or not.

A man might be excused for believing that the standard of business morality and integrity is falling lower and lower, when he reflects upon the number of astounding defalcations which have come to light within a year. The public had but just begun to recover a little from the shock which their confidence received by the defalcations of Schuyler, Kyle, Crane, and other railroad speculators, when this affair of Tuckerman's, developed at the Eastern Railroad on Monday, has again destroyed confidence, and will, it is to be feared, contribute to keep railroad securities in a depressed state for a long time to come. Badly as the business affairs of our railroads have been managed, dishonesty and downright swindling on the part of officials have contributed full as much as any other cause to depress the stock and to ruin individuals who have invested their all in these once favorite securities. Money has been squandered as though it were inexhaustible, in building many of our roads, and it is too well understood that in many instances, officials connected with the management have enriched themselves and their favorites upon spoliations of the widows and orphans and the hard working laborers who have invested their little savings in projects which were extravagantly lauded, and which promised to become at once prosperous and profitable. Not to be too sweeping, while some roads have been well managed but unfortunate, others have been begun and continued upon deceptive assurances. At the outset a fraud upon the public, they have continued to draw their sustenance, like some huge cancer, from the healthy organization, and when at last the crisis has come, and the rottenness of the whole concern could no longer be concealed, the boards of management who have feathered their own nests at the expense of the public, have quietly retired with all the appearance of innocence, and have sported their ill-gotten wealth with as much assurance as though it had been honestly acquired. Such transactions have been of frequent occurrence, and they have contributed largely to shake public confidence, and, by the example which they furnish, and the code of morality which they introduce, they have operated as a direct encouragement for the defalcations of minor officials.

There is something wrong in the law or its administration, for it utterly fails to reach this swindling, and seems to have no terror to defaulters. But public opinion is still more out of joint in the toleration which it exhibits to the offenders, and in the direct encouragement which it offers to such swindling and robbery. Men that are living on the plunder of the defenceless and generally poor stockholders, who have confided in their honesty and integrity, are received in society and taken by the hand upon the exchange with as much apparent warmth as though the property which gives them consideration had been honestly acquired. Justice has been emphatically blind to the misdoings of the wholesale plunderers, and wealth has gilded their iniquities. If cheating, swindling and defalcation were recognized as downright robbery, as they are in fact, and punished with as much severity as society punishes the poor wretch who, to provide for his urgent necessities, steals a loaf of bread, we should have a higher standard of morality among those to whom the property of others is entrusted.

After the force of example, the immunity from punishment which seems to attend those who swindle upon a large scale, operates as a direct incentive to others to commit like crimes. Among the many defalcations which come to light, how very few are punished.—The offenders relinquish a portion of their ill-gotten gains on condition that they shall escape scot free with the remainder, and thus a premium is offered for future wholesale robberies. If a man wishes to feather his nest to the tune of $50,000, he has only to steal $100,000, and give up one half, thus securing in fact a valid title to the remainder. Take the case of Tuckerman. For aught that we know to the contrary, he walks the streets with impunity, policemen pass him deferentially, and their superiors nod to him. Men take him by the hand as though he had been simply unfortunate, and thus the successful swindler is surrounded by an atmosphere of apparent respectability, which, though in reality black and pestilential, seems to hide his crime. People ask why he is not prosecuted, but receive no answer. We hear of means which have been adopted to recover a portion of the money that has been fraudulently obtained, but we learn nothing of legal proceedings being instituted to punish the offender. Is this right? Is the recovery of stolen property always to be made paramount to the punishment of crime, and to the security of society? There is a law to reach such criminals as Tuckerman, and there is another law to punish those who compound a felony. When these laws are rigidly and impartially enforced in this and every other case of like crimes, we shall hear of fewer bank defalcations and railroad swindlings. Until then thousands must suffer in property and estate, from the sin of others—crime will flaunt its ill-gotten wealth in the face of virtue—public confidence will be continually disturbed—honest and upright men who hold places of trust will be suspected, and the whole atmosphere of society will be tainted with an immorality which will tend to corrupt all who come within its influence.

In Worcester on the 4th, as some persons were firing a cannon on the Common, Charles McNeil carelessly stepped before its mouth, receiving the contents of the gun in his stomach, breaking one of his ribs, and tearing the flesh from his body.

The N. Y. University has conferred the degree of "Doctor of Music" on Lowell Mason.

LOCAL.

MORE CRIME.

In another paragraph we mention that J. Smith Robinson has had his bail reduced, in the Court in Boston, to $2000.

He obtained Bondsmen, and came to this city on Tuesday evening.

On Wednesday he rode round the city in a carriage, and in his travels, on the North road, towards Gravelly ridge, attempted a rape on the person of a respectable married woman, whom he threw down and injured.—The woman's husband, who is a cripple, hastened to her relief, and attacked the ravisher with his crutch. Robinson then fought him with his whip, and as the neighbors came, he escaped. They knew Robinson by sight, but not by name, and set officers in pursuit of the culprit, whom they described.

Robinson, having escaped from this scene, rode round elsewhere, and some hours afterwards made a similar attempt on another respectable matron, not far from the Creek Bridge. Here a woman came to the rescue, and he fled again, went home and went to bed.

These people also could describe him accurately, though they did not know his name; they also complained to the police,—and after some hours search and trouble, he was identified, arrested and put in jail for safe keeping, to be brought up for examination today.

RESIGNATION.—Rev. Henry D. Moore, pastor of the North Church in this city, has tendered the resignation of his pastoral charge —"having been led through the direction of Providence to commit himself to another field of pastoral and ministerial labor."

This was taken into consideration at a meeting of the Church, July 9, when it was

Resolved, That the resignation of Rev. Henry D. Moore of his pastoral office among us, be, and is hereby accepted, provided a mutual council shall advise thereto; and that we do cordially and affectionately commend him to the Grace of God, and the fellowship of the Churches, as a faithful minister of the New Testament, and that we pray for his success in whatever field of labor he may be called in the Providence of God to occupy.

At a Parish Meeting, July 10, the Parish voted to concur in the above vote.

The usual committees were appointed in both bodies, to call the mutual Council to act on the resignation.

The citizens of Portsmouth generally, who have become acquainted with Mr. Moore, will cherish their recollections of him as a friendly and pleasant man who ministered among them for a season; and will follow him with their good wishes wherever he goes.

WORCESTER, MASS., June 10.—The Know Something convention is now in session in this city at Masonic Hall. It met at ten o'clock. The attendance is quite large.

P. Emery Aldrich of Worcester, State President, occupies the chair.

Resolutions were adopted reaffirming the platform of the order, as promulgated at the recent National convention in Cleaveland, recommending a fusion of all parties in the State on one broad platform of liberal American principles, advising temperance without reference to a prohibitory law; recommending the appointment of a committee of two from each congressional district, to further the progress of the new party, with power to call a State Nominating Convention in August or September next.

A resolution to do away with the rule of enjoining secresy in the meetings of the order, was negatived.

THE UNITED STATES MAGAZINE FOR JULY.—The current number opens with a canto of Scott's "Lay of the Last Minstrel," illustrated with eleven spirited engravings, copied from the designs of the Edinburgh edition. This poem will be given complete in the succeeding numbers, the whole illustrated with over 60 engravings. This is followed with two more of those thrilling and interesting illustrated narratives, entitled "Scenes and Incidents in American History," two of which are prepared for each number of this Magazine. A paper on "Education" is illustrated with views of the new hall of the Board of Education, and some of the principal school buildings in New York city. It also contains valuable information on this important subject.

One dollar a year, single copies 12 1-2 cents. J. M. Emerson & Co., publishers, New York.

HAIL STORM.—On Monday evening, there was a tremendous fall of water and hail, about five miles west of Dayton, but the range of the storm was confined to a comparatively small amount of territory. On the farm of Levi Goodin, the fall of water was so great that fences were carried away, although the creek which runs through the farm, was not perceptibly swelled. In the language of our informant, "it seemed as if two clouds had met right over that farm and busted." The hail fell in such quantities, that as late as nine o'clock on Tursday morning, it lay on the ground in piles four inches high under the eaves of the house. Our informant says he could have "shoveled up ten bushels of hail stones along one side of his house." The "truck" in Mr. Goodin's garden was entirely destroyed by the hail. His wheat was also greatly injured.—Dayton, Ohio Jour.

GOOD MEDICINES.

It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchitis, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.

Everybody knows more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.

Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only while it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the binding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Cathartic Remedy is required.

These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbors and your own Physicians.

Try them once and you will never be without them.

Price 25 cts. per Box—5 Boxes for $1.

Prepared by DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Ms., and sold by every respectable Druggist in New England.

Yacht Sea Ranger,

FOR THE SHOALS AND A MARKET.

CAPT. JAMES W. GOODWIN respectfully gives notice to the pleasure seeking public that he has purchased for their accommodation the present season, the safe, commodious and fast-sailing Yacht SEA RANGER, of 45 tons burthen, with which he is now prepared to convey parties to the Shoals, Boar's Head and other places in the vicinity; and having furnished her with all the necessary materials, will accommodate EVENING PARTIES on reasonable terms.

The SEA RANGER will outsail any vessel on the Piscataqua or of any neighboring ports, in light or heavy winds; is fitted with excellent berths; is well supplied with sails, boats, fishing and cooking apparatus, and is in every respect the best vessel for the accommodation of parties who desire a few days of enjoyment on the briny ocean that ever hailed from this port.

The SEA RANGER will make occasional trips to the SHOALS for the accommodation of such persons as desire safe conveyance thither; and when the bosom of old ocean is too much agitated for the steamer GRACE DARLING, alias Silver Star, to venture forth, the Yacht will bear passengers safely o'er the bounding billow.

The commander of the Sea Ranger confidently appeals to those who have in past seasons patronized the SPY under his command, for the continuance of their patronage for his new Yacht, pledging himself to use every exertion to give them and all new patrons entire satisfaction.

For further particulars apply to JACOB WALDEN, No. 9 Water street, or to the Master on board, at Pier Wharf, foot of State street.

ARRIVAL OF THE PACIFIC.

SEVEN DAYS LATER NEWS.

NEW YORK, July 11.

Among the passengers are Martin Van Buren and family, and the wife and daughter of Com. Perry.

There were no indications of immediate operations in the Sea of Azoff or in the Baltic.

The official loss in the battle of the 18th, gives in killed, wounded and missing—English, 1437, including 93 officers; French, 3337, including 133 officers, among them Generals Mejrano and Brunel.

It is asserted in Paris that the failure was owing partly to the error of the British commanding officers. The English throw part of the blame on the French.

Subsequently to the Crimean news, there were rumors afloat that a battle had been fought on the Tchernaya; that the Sardinian army had been cut to pieces, and that the allies had finally stormed and taken Sebastopol.

These rumors distracted speculation some, but were soon falsified.

Accounts from Stockholm state that the English have bombarded Hango, and destroyed the telegraph station.

The Allies have given orders to complete the destruction of the fortifications at Anapa. Two hundred pieces of cannon and two years' provisions were found in the forts. The Circassians plundered the town.

LATEST.—London, 30th.—A despatch from the Baltic states that Sweaborgh had been bombarded, and the military stores destroyed.

The London Times of this morning states that the Emperor Alexander is seriously ill; also that the King of Prussia has been sick for some time, and that his reign is probably drawing to a close.

FROM CALIFORNIA.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The steamship Illinois, from Aspinwall, 30th of June, arrived here about 8 o'clock this evening, bringing 450 passengers, the California mails of June 16th, and $839,613 in treasure.

The rainy season was prevailing on the Isthmus with much severity.

The Panama Railroad Company had reduced the wages of their laborers, and a large number of them struck in consequence, and were joined by some of the mechanics and machinists, on account of discontent with the food furnished them.

The U. S. ship of war Independence was at Payta on the 15th of June, but in consequence of despatches from Lima, sailed for Callao to enforce the settlement of a question pending between the U. S. Representative and the government, relative to the detention of the captain of the American vessel, John Cummings.

They are remarkable for giving a tone to the Digestive Organs, assisting Nature and preventing the various Bowel Complaints, so frequent and so dangerous during Summer and Autumn.

No Family should be without them.

DEAD SHOT FOR BED BUGS.

A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it cuts them up and keeps them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees.

It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a neat tidy housewife. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is incalculable.

SANCHO PANZA

Called down "blessings upon the head of the man who first invented sleep." How much more worthy such honorable distinction would be consider the inventor of the Dead Shot, who, by his Pungent and Deadly Preparation, has rendered utterly impossible the ancient bloody forays of such tolerable and not to be endured torments; and who has enabled every one to guarantee to himself his own particular share of "tired Nature's sweet restorer."

Prepared by L. L. DUTCHER, St. Albans, Vt.

THE Merits of this Article are too well known to require a lengthy description. It performs the work of Stove or Range, and Bakes quicker than either, and requires but one quarter the fuel. It has a Large Oven, and by the ingenious arrangement the Hot Air is carried around it at pleasure, so that it bakes in the most perfect manner, while at the same time the Boilers are placed directly over and close to the fire. On the top, which is flat, Irons are heated admirably, if required, and kept clean. It is made entirely of Iron, consequently is very durable; requires but little room; may stand in the open fire-place, (In Summer) or be placed parallel with the Range, and work it. It burns either Wood, Bark, Chips or Charcoal, and may be adapted to almost any place. Try it: it is sure to please.

Morning Chronicle.

A "STRANGE" PREACHER.

His name was Strange. Many will think his conduct was strange also. He was a zealous preacher and a sweet singer. Nothing gave him so much pleasure as to go about the country preaching and singing. A benevolent gentleman, well off in worldly gear, desiring to make him and his family comfortable in their declining years, generously presented him with a title deed for three hundred and twenty acres of land. Strange accepted the donation with thankfulness, and went his way, preaching and singing as he went. But after a few months he returned and requested his generous friend to take back the title deed. Surprised at the request, the gentleman inquired,

"Is there any flaw in it?"

"Not the slightest."

"First-rate."

"Is it not healthy?"

"Yes."

Why then do you wish me to take it back? It will be a comfortable home for you when you grow old, and something for your wife and children if you should be taken away."

"Why, I'll tell you. Ever since I've had that deed I've lost my enjoyment in singing. I can't sing my favorite hymn with a good conscience any longer."

"What is that?" "This—

"'No foot of land do I possess,
A poor wayfaring man,

I dwell awhile in tents below,
Or gladly wander to and fro,
Till I my Canaan gain.

My treasure and my heart are there,

"There!" said Strange, "I'd rather sing that hymn than own the whole of America. I'll trust the Lord to take care of my wife and children."

He continued singing and preaching, and preaching and singing, and the lord, said the preacher, did take care of him, and his children after him.

For the Chronicle.

NIGHT MUSINGS.

O balmy is the air of night,
Unceasing in its flow;
And phantom sprites in robes of white
Are dancing as they go.
Beneath the trembling flush of day
Rich fancy garbs in peerless rays
These spectral shapes of snow.

Fringed by God's hand of skill;
And sinking now to slumbering rest
Adown the western hill.
As if the glow of Paradise
Strayed through the gates of bliss,
And flushed its beams to mortal eyes
To win to holiness.

Now fading like a soul away
Chilled by the touch of Death,
Crepuscle flies the dying day,
And hides its face from earth.
Dark night draws on space;
Day fades in unseen space.

O balmy is the air of night,
Unceasing in its flow;
And phantom sprites in robes of white
Are moaning as they go.
Yet 'neath the trembling flush of day
That floats in fading glow,
Rich fancy garbs in peerless rays
These spectral shapes of snow.

Topsham, Me., July 6, 1855.

COLUMBIA, REMEMBER THY HEROES;

BY JAMES G. CLARK.

Columbia, remember thy heroes of yore—
The pride of the world's brightest story;
Forget not the time they defended thy shore,
In the wild crimson morn of its glory.
Ah! then, in his grandeur, thy Washington rose,
When the last hope of Freedom seemed faded,
And the legions of liberty gave to their foes

And millions that slumbered in darkness and crime
Awoke with a wondering devotion,
To see thee burst forth from the shadows of time,
Like the sun from the mist of the ocean.
And Peace like a diadem crowned thee,
When discord and ruin were rocking the earth,
And kingdoms were reeling around thee.

A beacon to nations benighted,
Shall Tyranny witness a stain on thy truth,
Or scoff at thy purity blighted?
How long must the creed of the bigot and knave
Pollute what thy fathers defended—
How long on thy plains must the wail of the slave
With the curse of the freeman be blended?

Columbia, remember the heroes of yore—
The pride of the world's brightest story,
Forget not the time when they fell on thy shore,
Let their trust to thy children be given—
As the Day-star, when lost in the dark billows, throws

Morning Chronicle.

FRIDAY, JULY 13, 1855.

For the Chronicle.

TALK FOR THE TIMES.

Messrs. Editors:—The money-getting, self-indulgent spirit of the age which is now developing itself in drunkenness and debauchery in high places, and perversion of trusts, is calling loudly for a new action on the part of the people. Hitherto, as regards murder, petty thefts, and other comparatively small offences, a cure has been sought in the State Prison, by the gallows, &c. But what comparison in the scale of crime do these bear to that of an extensive perversion of trusts, where leading members of a community encourage, by the hope of income, the mass of the people to deposit their small earnings and savings, when instead of meaning thereby to assure a sacred charge and watchful care over these deposits, they mean, in the first place, to make them subservient to their grand speculations, or to squander them for their own licentious indulgences.

The man who commits a single ordinary act of crime, meets with a check to further acts by the general organization of society;—but he who has in his hands as trustee the provident savings of the laborious and the poor, the widow's and orphan's little store, has assumed a power which is somewhat like the mines in the Russian camp, underlying the whole social fabric, and by a small diversion, falling down and destroying the general honesty and thrift, leaving nothing but a wild waste of general improvidence and reckless squandering of the means of subsistence.

The care of these enormous evils seems not to be the state prison. The faithless trustee with your money in his pocket, or squandered with harlots in riotous living, laughs in your face in view of his chances of escape therefrom, and the prospect of future worldly ease and pleasure.

There seems to be no cure short of the old fashioned one under the Mosaic law. He shall surely be put to death, and all the congregation of the people shall stone him, thine eye shall not pity, &c.

There is, however, behind the default and duplicity of individual officers, oftentimes a negligence and want of faithfulness in associate officers, and then behind these, a reckless, headstrong spirit in the general community; which two latter may be those which should most at present demand the vigilance of the community, while it would seem that the former, viz., the means of care, must finally be resorted to, if much increase is made in the evil, as surely as the lightning of the Almighty must purge the foul atmosphere of the physical world. ††

NOT GONE.—The report that Tuckerman has vacated for Canada is not true. He is in Boston, and paraded our streets yesterday.—The dignity and extent of the defalcation prevents it being at all dangerous. Had the sum been $20,000 or down, it would have been exceedingly perilous to be about.—There is more danger in a poor man taking a loaf of bread, than an operator taking $200,000.—Boston Bee, 12th.

It is said, by those who claim to be well informed, that Mr. Tuckerman the defaulter, was connected with one of the fast women. If so, we see one capital cause of his great wants and small consciences.

We see also, placed in the most contemptible light, the passion for showy dress and dazzling jewelry—in which the kept mistress of a swindler generally outshines the virtuous wife and prudent daughter of the most prosperous honest man.

Gain and show are both lawful—within the bounds of honesty and prudence—but outside of the proper limits they are source and traps.

UNIVERSALIST QUARTERLY, FOR JULY.—The leading article is on "Reasoning from Scripture by Inference," by the Rev. A. A. Miner; the second is on "Christ's Last Commission," by the Rev. T. S. King; the third is on the "Attractions of the Pulpit," by the Rev. Moses Ballou. The titles of the other articles are—"Church History." "The First of Genesis," The Unity of the Human Race," and "The Righteous and the Wicked."—These papers are interesting as the contributions of the most intelligent minds in the large denomination to whose interests the Quarterly is devoted. The article on Church History is by the Rev. Henry Bacon, of Philadelphia—one of the best essayists in the ranks of the Universalists. The literary articles are from various writers, and are marked with much taste and analytical power.

This Review is edited by the Rev. Hosea Ballou, D. D., President of Tufts College. It is published by Mr. Abel Tompkins, at $2 per annum.

☞ Hunt's Merchant's Magazine for July, is received from the publisher, Freeman Hunt, New York. It contains an excellent likeness, finely engraved, of the late Thomas Handasyd Perkins, merchant of Boston, accompanied by a faithful and valuable Memoir of the same, written, we presume, by the editor.

WEDNESDAY, July 11th.

SENATE.—Bills read a third time and passed.—An act providing for limited partnerships.

An act to incorporate the Pennichuck Bank.

An address for the removal of James W. Weeks, Judge of Probate for Coos County, John W. Barney, Register of Probate for Coos county, Napoleon B. Bryant, Solicitor for Grafton county, Benjamin A. Rogers, Solicitor for Belknap county, Samuel H. Eden, Solicitor for Sullivan county, and Geo. W. Brashbridge, sheriff of Strafford county.

An address for the removal of certain military officers.

A resolution that the copy of a new publication entitled "New Hampshire as it is," presented by the publishers, be accepted, with thanks therefor, and that the same be deposited in the State Library.

Indefinitely postponed.—A bill to incorporate the Germania Dilecta Scientiæ Association.

HOUSE.—The Ten Hour Bill was referred to the next session, 126 to 101.

Mr. Murray of Nashua, from the delegation from that city, reported the address for the removal of Israel Hunt, police justice of Nashua, without amendment. Passed, 158 to 66.

The bill concerning cattle trains on railroads was taken from the table, and brought up the debate on the subject of calves—blatant animals of incipient bovine proportions—after which a division took place, and the bill was defeated by an almost unanimous vote.

The bill to prohibit proxy voting at meetings on railroad corporations, and confining the representation of stock to 50 shares in all cases, gave rise to a good deal of discussion, after which it was laid on the table.

Read a third time and passed.—Bill to extend the time for the completion of the Wilton Railroad.

The bill to incorporate the Cheshire Co. Bank, 140 to 110.

In relation to school districts—to incorporate the Strafford Ice Company, and to incorporate the Coos Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

Naturalization.—The yeas and nays were demanded by Mr. Fellows of Salisbury on the passage of the resolution in relation to the extension of the time of residence previous to, and the facilities for naturalization, and taken, and the resolutions passed by 171 to 54.

The Judiciary Bill.—On motion of Mr. Clark of Manchester, the bill to remodel the Judiciary was taken from the table and put upon its final passage. The reading of the bill occupied 40 minutes. At its conclusion, the yeas and nays were taken, on motion of Mr. Sinclair of Bethlehem, and the bill passed by a vote of 198 to 60.

Tenure of Office.—Mr. Fellows of Salisbury gave notice that he would ask leave to introduce a bill to amend Chap. 15, sec 3, of the Revised Statutes, which provides that "all officers hereafter appointed by the Governor and Council, excepting judicial and military officers, shall hold their offices for the term of five years, and shall be commissioned accordingly," by adding at the end thereof the words —"provided their party remain in power so long." (Much mirth greeted this good hit at the proceedings pro bono publico of the past four weeks.)

BURGLARIOUS OPERATIONS BY A LAWYER'S OFFICE-BOY.—About 3 o'clock this morning (says the Boston Transcript of Wednesday,) officer Turner's attention was turned by an unusual light in the hosiery store of John E. Morey & Co., 7 Tremont Row, which caused him to enter the premises. He had found that theives had been at work, and on further examination, discovered that the adjoining thread store or E. & J. Holmes, No. 4, in the dry goods store of Hugh Doherty & Co., No. 5, had also been broken into and ransacked more or less. The officer procured assistance and made immediate search for the robbers.

The law office of the Hon. Rufus Choate, located directly over Morey & Co.'s store, appearing to be untastened in the rear, they entered and reconnoitered. In one corner of an old book-case, as snugly enscenced as might be a set of huge and musty volumes, were found two youngsters, who proved to be the burglars, and who, on hearing the movements of the officers, fled to this retreat in hope of escape. It appeared that they had secreted their plunder—some $40 worth of porte monnaies, fancy neck ties, &c.—in the pockets of an old coat belonging to Mr. Choate, which hung up in the office!

The principal of the rogues, named Michael J. Ryan, proved to be the office boy of Messrs. Choate and Bell, and the other was a boy named John Holland—both about 16 years old. They confessed the crime, and directed where the stolen property was found. The officers were assisted by the discoveries by Mr. Ass Southworth, who slept in the dagerrian rooms of Messrs. Southworth & Hawes, in the immediate vicinity.

One afternoon last week Messrs. Choate & Bell received $1100, which was locked up in the safe for the night. In the morning the office was found in much disorder, having been thoroughly ransacked, but luckily the key of the safe was not found, and the money consequently remained untouched.

The lawyers' boy looked during the day as if he had "lost a case," but was suffered to pass without a rigid examination, and is thus soon found tight in the criminal's box.

HAYING has commenced. The farmers in this vicinity have generally commenced cutting. The crop on old lands, notwithstanding the recent rains, will be light. The drought of last summer scorched many fields, and others are seriously "winter-killed;" but the grass on new lands looks heavy, and promises an abundant yield. English grains look well everywhere, and the crop will be more than an average one, both in quantity and quality.—Worcester Transcript.

A SUICIDE MANIA.—A man and woman were found this morning, in Haymarket square, under the influence of a strong narcotic. The father of the girl came upon them suddenly, and found them in the arms of death. They had taken prussic acid. The parents of the girl reside in Pleasant St.—Boston Herald.

LOCAL.

CITY COUNCIL.

THURSDAY, July 12.

ALDERMEN.—Petitions of Mr. Gerrish to relay sidewalk in Deer street; of S. Cleaves to open drain in Hanover street; of J. N. Handy for drain in Ladd street—granted.

Report in favor of re-building fence on Linden street, destroyed to stop fire—accepted.

Voted, if the Council concur, that the old building on the High School lot be taken down by the Building Committee, and after reserving such parts as may be thought valuable to the city, the balance be sold at auction.

The remonstrance against the erection of the High School on the proposed lot in Daniel street, was received from the Council, and after some debate was laid on the table.

COMMON COUNCIL.—The ordinance in relation to Mill Ponds, sent down from the Board of Aldermen, was laid on the table.

The following resolution which was offered by Mr Robbins, at the last meeting, came up for action this evening, the Council having adjourned at that time without taking any final action upon it:

Whereas one of the Police Officers of this city has been complained of for making an assault upon a certain individual by the name of Jeremiah Leary; and whereas it has appeared in evidence before the Police Court that the said officer, Daniel H. Willey, was acting in the discharge of his official duty; that said Leary first assaulted the said officer, and that no more force was used by said officer than was necessary to defend himself; and whereas certain parties in this city are attempting to intimidate, oppose and resist the Police Officers by threat and prosecution—

Therefore be it resolved, by the City Council of this the said City of Portsmouth, that the City Council, expecting and requiring each Police Officer to discharge his official duties faithfully and fearlessly, will at all times sustain each and every Police Officer in the official and responsible duties of his office.

The preamble was amended by striking out that part printed in italics, and was then adopted by a strict party vote—11 to 5.

The resolution from the Board of Aldermen, authorizing the sale of the building on the High School lot, was laid on the table.

A remonstrance signed by O. F. Gerrish and 99 others, against the erection of the new High School on the proposed lot in Daniel street, was read and referred to the Board of Aldermen.

The Council adjourned for four weeks.

POLICE COURT.

THURSDAY, 12th.—Before Justice Bonnett.—J. Smith Robinson was arraigned for an assault with intent to ravish, &c. Plea, Not Guilty.

J. Warren Towle, Robinson's counsel, moved that the case be postponed to Thursday Aug. 9, at 3 P. M.—which was agreed to by the Solicitor, and the Court ordered Robinson to be held in $1000 bonds to appear at that time.

Four witnesses were also recognized, in the sum of $50 each.

☞ Wm. B. Parker, Esq., has been removed by the Governor and Council, from the office of Justice of the Police Court in this city; and has delivered up the books and papers of the office to the City Government.

We understand that Lory Odell, Esq., has been appointed to the place.

☞ It is rumored that a Mr. Brown of Chester is to be Sheriff of Rockingham County, with Joseph P. Morse and Joseph B. Adams for Deputies in Portsmouth—the latter to be keeper of the jail.

LECTURES ON GEOLOGY.

Such ladies and gentlemen of Portsmouth and vicinity, as listened to Dr. Boynton's admirable Lectures on Geology two years ago, will be glad to learn that he will visit us again this summer, probably in a week or two—and deliver the substance of the same, in a course of eight lectures.

Any who have come to reside with us since that time, or who for any reason did not attend then, may rest assured that the lectures are of a high order of excellence, both in literature and science; accurate in information, and popular in style.

☞ We understand that Rev. Mr. Patterson, of Pennsylvania, has accepted the call of the Universalist Society in this city, to become their pastor.

A Card.

THE Committee of Arrangements of the Boating Excursion on the 10th inst, tender their sincere thanks to Capt. Preble for his kind attention to the party of 65 Ladies and Gentlemen, and for his skilful management of his splendid Yacht SIBYL on that occasion. We cheerfully recommend Capt. GOOD MEDICINES.

It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchitis, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.

Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and thrust it from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.

Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only while it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.

Yacht Sea Ranger,

FOR THE SHOALS AND A MARKET.

CAPT. JAMES W. GOODWIN respectfully gives notice to the pleasure seeking public that he has purchased for their accommodation for the present season, the safe, commodious and fast-sailing Yacht SEA RANGER, of 45 tons burthen, with which he is now prepared to convey parties to the Shoals, Boar's Head and other places in the vicinity; and having furnished her with all the necessary materials, will accommodate FISHING PARTIES on reasonable terms.

The SEA RANGER will outsail any vessel on the Piscataqua or of any neighboring ports, in light or heavy winds; is fitted with excellent berths; is well supplied with fish, boats, fishing and cooking apparatus, and is in every respect the best vessel for the accommodation of parties who desire a few days enjoyment on the briny ocean that ever sailed from this port.

The SEA RANGER will make occasional trips to the SHOALS for the accommodation of such persons as desire safe conveyance thither; and when the bosom of old ocean is too much agitated for the steamer GRACE DARLING, alias Silver Star, to venture forth, he will bear passengers safely o'er the bounding billow.

The commander of the Sea Ranger confidently appeals to those who have in past seasons patronized the SPY under his command, for the continuance of their patronage for his new Yacht, pledging himself to use every exertion to give them and all new patrons entire satisfaction.

NEW YORK, July 11th.—Mr. Lynch, chief clerk of the Superior Court, has been declared defaulter in the sum of $10,000, and was removed from his office to-day.

All the American organizations in this city held a meeting last evening, and unanimously agreed to support but one set of candidates, and to adopt the platform of the Philadelphia organization.

Judge Birdsall, of the Marine Court, decided this forenoon that selling imported liquor in original cases is a violation of the law. He has doubts, he stated, upon the point, but so decides with a view of affording an opportunity for the case being taken up to appeal.

The steamer Baltic sailed to-day for Liverpool with 244 passengers, and $968,000 in specie. Among the passengers is the Rev. Robert Baird, who is about to visit Western Europe, and to attend as a deligate the French Evangelical Allience to be held in Paris on the 23d of August.

ALBANY, July 10.—The preliminary examination of William Landon, proprietor of the City Hotel, charged with selling liquor contrary to law, caused the greatest excitement in this city. The court room, hall and streets in the vicinity, were crowded. Justice Coles decided that the complaint made on information and belief, was sufficient to authorize the issuing of the warrant, and that the charge was competent to be examined.—And the further examination was postponed to Thursday afternoon.

Chauncey P. Williams, Esq., one of the Carson League, and the complainant in this case, was severely assaulted, as he was passing out of the Police Court, and showered with pulverized charcoal by parties unknown.

NEW YORK, July 11th.—Violation of the Liquor Law.—Thomas Dowd, keeper of a drinking saloon, was arrested yesterday for a violation of the prohibitory law, of Sessions. This is the first genuine test under the new law in this city.

POUGHKEEPSIE, July 11th.—THE LIQUOR LAW.—Borberick, tried yesterday before a Jury under the new act by selling lager beer, was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $50.

NORFOLK, July 11th.—The man who represented himself here as the only survivor of the ship Ann, which he said was lost off Key West, has been arrested and imprisoned as an imposter.

CHARLESTON, N. C., July 9th.—Nichols, the wholesale forger of cotton bills of lading, has been arrested at Brussels, and committed.

NEW YORK, July 10.—Capt. Smith, late of the bark Julia Moulton, charged with being engaged in the slave trade, was this morning sentenced to two years' imprisonment and a fine of $500.

FROM AUSTRALIA. — From Melbourne, Australia, dates to the 23d of April. The mining accounts appear satisfactory. In the Ballarat and other mining districts improved machinery has been introduced, and old claims were being worked over again with profit.

The amount of gold shipped from Melbourne for the week ending April 21st, was valued at $1,500,000. The market exhibited but little change. Gallego and Haxall flour £46 per 2000 lbs.

FROM CHILI AND PERU.—Dates from Chili are to the 31st of May. Congress was to meet next day. A long continued drought prevailed, and cattle were dying for want of pasture. The markets had been exceedingly dull.

San Francisco evening papers of June 16, contain nothing additional to the advices received per Northern Light. The markets were quiet.

Blake's Patent Fire Proof Paint.

THIS extraordinary substance has now been tested nearly nine years, and its Fire and Water Proof qualities are most extraordinary. Instead of the action of the weather destroying the coating as it does ordinary Paints, it only serves to turn it to a perfect Slate or Stone, protecting whatever covered from the action of Fire or Weather.
IMPORTANT DECISION.
April Term, U. S. Court, New York.
Wm Blake, vs. E. S & J. G. Belknap.—This was an action brought by the Plff. to establish the Validity (in the U. S. Court at Law) of his Patent, for Fire and Weather Proof Paint, or Artificial Slate, granted 28th March, 1848. After an able charge by Judge Nelson, the Jury returned a verdict for the Plff; thus establishing the validity of the Patent. The Defendants made no application to application to disturb the verdict, and the Judgment entered on the 15th of June, 1853, for $1,029 69. Costs were paid by the Defts. The fact that the Patent has been sustained by one trial at Law is all that the Court requires to be shown before granting to the Patentee the summary process of Injunction to restrain all persons from Making, Using or Vending the patented article.—The damages already sustained by the Patentee will be taken under the rule of the Court before a Master in Equity. New York, Nov. 1853.

DEAD SHOT FOR BED BUGS.

A SURE death to these noxious disturbers of our nightly rest. Apply it to insects and it exterminates up and lays them out as readily as Sulphur Fumes kills Bees

It has no equal in the market. The whole world cannot produce a substitute of similar value to the comfort of a neat tidy housewife. Its application is of little trouble, while the benefit which may be derived from a single night's undisturbed repose is inestimable.

SANCHO PANZA

Called down "blessings upon the head of the man who first invented sleep." How much more worthy such honorable distinction would he consider the inventor of the Dead Shot, who, by his Pungent and Deadly Preparation, has rendered utterly impossible the ancient bloody forays of such tolerable and not to be endured tormentors; and who has enabled every one to guarantee to himself his own particular share of "tired Nature's sweet restorer."

LINES TO A YOUNG WIDOW.

O lady, think how late you hung
With rapture on that arm,
And listened to that voice, which rung

O think how oft you fondly met
The glance of that dark eye,
Which flash'd with love and dear delight,
Or beamed with tenderest joy.

O think how oft, when grief entwined
Her cypress wreaths with care,
Upon his bosom you reclined
And sought a refuge there.

And then how oft he warmly kissed
Away each pensive tear,
And to his manly bosom pressed
His wife forever dear.

And then thy smiles would bliss impart,
And softer scenes renew,
And soothe the throbbings of that heart,
That only beat for you.

And can you then so soon forget
Those dear domestic joys,
And bow a slave at fashion's feet,
To court a worthless prize.

And spread the sex's wiles, to win
Another to thy arms,
To live upon thy smile serene,
And revel in thy charms.

It cannot be,—her injured sight
Let memory resume;
And banish these allurements bright,
To weep o'er ———'s tomb.

And with thy sorrows lave
The grass, which scarcely yet has grown
Upon thy husband's grave.

And while Diana's pensive beam
Shines through the willow bough,
Wildly lament the loss of him
Who only lived for you. F. B.

CIRCUS.

GRAND CONSOLIDATION

WELCH'S NATIONAL CIRCUS,

of Philadelphia, and

LENT'S NEW YORK CIRCUS,

Comprising TWO TROUPES OF TALENTED ARTISTS, TWO STUDS of trained Horses and Ponies, and all the appointments and paraphernalia appertaining to

TWO LARGE COMPANIES
Combined in

ONE MONSTER EXHIBITION,

Given in one mammoth pavilion, for a single price of admission, the reports of inferior companies to the contrary, notwithstanding.

☞In consequence of the engagements of this Establishment in Boston, where the city authorities have granted it the use of the Public Garden for the whole of the Fourth of July week, it

WILL NOT VISIT PORTSMOUTH UNTIL

MONDAY, JULY 16th,

When it will perform, afternoon and evening for one day only. Doors open at 2 and 7 o'clock.—Performance will commence half an hour after opening. Admission 25 cents.

THE PERFORMANCES

EQUESTRIAN, GYMNASTIC AND ACROBATIC FEATS,

In which the entire strength of the Double Troupe of Male and Female Performers

Will appear, the whole enlivened by the inimitable drolleries of

WORRELL, the Wit,
WALLIS, the Musical,
WHITTAKER, the Stump Orator.

The Proprietors confidently refer to the thousands who have visited "Welch's Circus" in former years, as to the reputation it has invariably sustained for attractiveness, and the fulfilment of the promises held out in its advertisements; and now that it has been augmented by the addition of ANOTHER COMPLETE CIRCUS, it is believed that facilities are afforded by the management for the amusement and gratification of their patrons without parallel, and beyond the approach of rivalry.

Very Particular Notice.—A novel and attractive feature in the entertainments of the combined companies consists in the presentation of the GRAND MAGIC PANTOMIME, which was originally produced by Welch & Lent, in Philadelphia, last winter, at great expense, and after many weeks of labor, and which has been performed from the commencement of the season.

THE MISER OF BAGDAD,

NO OTHER COMPANY has ever even attempted to imitate it, unless within a very few days.

In self defence the management are constrained to beg the public not to judge of the character of this mirth-provoking pantomime, by any paltry imitation which may be got up at a moment's notice, in hopes of taking advantage of the well-earned popularity of the original piece.

THE MISER OF BAGDAD can only be witnessed at Welch's Circus, in Philadelphia, with all its magical changes and transformations, at the Exhibition of

which will take place

At Portsmouth, Monday, July 16, 1855.

PATENT CHIP BAKER.

Three Sizes, for Summer or Winter. $5.00, $5.50 and $6.00.

THE Merits of this Article are so well known to require a lengthy description. It performs the work of Stove or Range, and Bakes quicker than either, and requires but one quarter the fuel. It has a Large Oven, and by an ingenious arrangement the Hot Air is carried around it at pleasure, so that it bakes in the most perfect manner, while at the same time the Boilers are placed directly over and close to the fire, on the top, which is flat. Irons are heated admirably, if required, and kept clean. It is made entirely of Iron, consequently is very durable; requires but little room, may stand in the open fire-place, (in Summer) or be placed parallel with the Range, and work it. It burns either Wood, Bark, Chips or Charcoal, and may be adapted to almost any place. Try it: it is sure to please.

Morning Chronicle.

A DESPERATE FIGHT, of several hours duration, took place at Havre, on the 17th ult, between a large party of American seamen and the colored seamen in the port.—Knives, stones, and iron bars from the shop windows were used as weapons, by which many of the combatants and some of the police, who interfered to preserve order, were badly hurt. Sixty two of the belligerents were arrested and committed to prison. The Journal du Havre gives a long account of it, and says:

Several times of late, we have had to chronicle savage pugilistic encounters between American and black seamen, but yesterday a part of our city was thrown into confusion by a disturbance which took the form of a real battle, in which, knives, marling spikes, hand spikes and other weapons were freely used, and which was only put down by the energetic and reiterated intervention of the police. A new and singular feature was given to this melee by the fact that in addition to the original cause of the fight, it was further intensified by the tenacious hostility which reigns between the white and the black crews. It is well known that the white and black sailors keep entirely aloof from each other while on shore, and even take their meals in separate boarding houses. It will be easy to understand, then, the savage ardor with which they urge their mutual hate, and how under such circumstances a trifling quarrel may end in a bloody melee.

At about three o'clock, an additional force having arrived on the ground, the fight was stopped and a number of arrests were made. The affair then seemed terminated, but so fierce was the hatred of the combatants, that a short time afterwards another bloody episode in the history of the day, took place near the gate of Maria Theresa.

The combatants included some of those who had been engaged in the fight of the morning, recruited by the addition of others who had previously been inactive. The police were upon their guard, but were not yet in sufficient force. It was not until after three hours fighting that the agents of the police force, the marine gendarmerie, aided by a company of Custom House officers, who were returning from a procession, were able to put a stop to the deplorable scene. In this latter phase of the combat, a great deal of blood was again spilt. Police agent Bredel received a knife wound in the right ear and upon the hand, and was otherwise maltreated so severely that he is obliged to keep his bed. It is, however, believed that he will soon be on his feet again. Patrols of Police have been organized in the quarter where the fight took place.

THE FOURTH AMONG THE MADMEN.—The inmates of the N. Y. Lunatic Asylum celebrated the last anniversary of their country's Independence by a grand festival within the asylum. A chant of praise was sung by a mad choir, an insane clergyman offered prayer, the Declaration of Independence was read by a confirmed lunatic, and after the singing of a patriotic ode by a trio of mad female inmates, three mad violinists performed an original piece of music arranged for the violin. An oration was then delivered by an inmate, which effort, as we find it reported, is by no means as mad a production as we have heard put forth by many who regard themselves sane. After the intellectual feast the madmen sat down to a refreshing collation provided by the management of the Institution. The proceedings throughout were well conducted and orderly, there being much method in their madness.

MASSACHUSETTS.—The Democratic State Central Committee of Massachusetts, decided unanimously, that the democratic convention should be held at Springfield, on the 5th of September. The Boston Post says, "the highest hopes were held out of the coming election, and no campaign has commenced for years when the democrats were more sanguine. They pride themselves upon being the only really live party in the State."

A FEARFUL RIDE.—We learn from the Indianapolis Journal that a locomotive descending the inclined plane at Madison, Indiana, a short time since, owing to the wet track, got beyond the control of the brakes, and went down the plane with fearful velocity. When within a hundred yards of a freight train that was standing on the track, the engineer, Samuel Idler, and the fireman, Thomas Bizette, took a desperate leap for life from the flying engine. Mr. Idler was dashed against a switch signal, and instantly killed. Mr. Bizette struck the ground, and immediately expired. Mr. E. J. Robinson, a clerk of the company, who was also on the engine, clung to it, and by the collision with the freight train was shockingly mangled.

There can be no excuse for the carelessness which fails to provide for such accidents as the above.

DROP GAME.—A little fellow supposed to be some ten or a dozen years old, practised the drop game successfully upon a farmer in Buffalo last week. He came running up to the farmer in a great hurry—'Mister,' said he, 'you have lost your pocket book.'

'Oh, no,' says the farmer.

'Well, some one has; and look, here's a fifty dollar bill; now, I am in a great hurry—give me a little something for it, and you can get the bill changed.'

The farmer had only seven dollars about him, all of which he gave the lad, and took the pocket book. The fifty dollar bill proved to be a hair oil advertisement, and the farmer had to borrow money to get home with, where we advise him to stay.

In the case of Hassen, who aided Bonney the counterfeiter to escape from prison, and then gave information which led to his re-arrest, the Supreme Court of Maine have decided that he is not entitled to the reward offered therefor, as a man cannot rightfully profit by his own crime.

Morning Chronicle.

SATURDAY, JULY 14, 1855.

☞ The Boston Advertiser says, "the coroner's jury in the second inquest over the body of Robbins, shot on the night of the recent disturbance in Portland, have closed their labors and rendered their verdict. * * * This jury, as was expected, take a view of the case in opposition to that of Neal Dow's supporters."

Even so;—and this verdict is really as much ex parte as the Mayor's statements.—Nearly the same set of men got up the mob, the indignation meeting, and the second inquest. They wished the mob to prevail, are indignant because it was put down by force, and wish to wreak their vengeance on the Mayor who put it down. The men who used to frequent the tap-rooms there, and those who now patronize them elsewhere, sympathize with the mob and their abettors before and since the riot.

Those men, however, who opposed the mob, and deemed it necessary to put it down at all hazards,—have not had their views greatly changed by the inquest.

CORONER'S WARRANT.—The Portland Argus says,—

We have no doubt the Coroner will issue his warrant for the arrest of Mr. Dow, just as soon as he is satisfied there is a necessity for it.

Exactly; and then, we shall see—what we shall see.

EASTERN RAILROAD.—The Portsmouth Chronicle has a notice of a discrepancy in some pamphlet copies of the report of the Eastern Railroad. We have inquired into the matter, and find that there was an error discovered, after the report was sent to the printer, of a charge to extension of the road into Boston, amounting to 13,297 58, which should have been charged to expenses of the road. The correction was made, but a few copies had been struck off previously, and the binder accidentally mixed these pages with the correct ones. The bank account of the railroad company was kept at the Merchant's Bank. As one of the means of concealing his frauds from the Directors, the late Treasurer of the company misrepresented the amount of money on deposit, stating the same to be $40,257 80, when in fact the balance was only $30,488 76, which makes the difference of $9,768 04, as stated in the report of the Directors.—Boston Courier.

This does not explain the remarkable coincidence, by which the error in the extension account ($13,297,50) agrees exactly, to a single cent, with the other error, in carrying up the foot of the eighth page to the head of the ninth.

Either error alone might be made by anybody. Both together, could hardly occur without design.

There was an error, and the books must be made to balance somehow: first, the change on the 9th page was resorted to; but this was too glaring, and must be detected. Next, the error in the extension account is discovered, and corrected; but accidentally, unluckily, some copies of both revisions got out, and have made a troublesome question difficult to be understood: viz., what caused the error in the construction account, and what led to its discovery.

COURT OF CLAIMS.—We understand that the United States Court of Claims will commence its sessions to-morrow at the Capitol, in the room of the Supreme Court of the United States. Judges Scarburg and Gilchrist have arrived here, and are at Willard's Hotel.—Wash. Union, 11th.

A telegraphic despatch from Washington Wednesday says:

The Court of Claims was organized to-day at noon, and about fifty gentleman, including ten ex-members of Congress, applied to be admitted members of the Bar, and filed credentials for their qualifications.

In New York on Tuesday, chloroform was administered to an alligator, and a cast in plaster successfully taken while the animal was under its influence. A similar operation was performed last week in Portland, upon the Whig party of Maine, and the Journal is now engaged in reproducing the cast in sections. To-day it gave the Farley aspect. A small quantity of plaster sufficed for the whole operation. Some of the scales and flippers are queer articles. The animal laid straight while the operation was going on, and at its close was laid upon the shelf. The cast is the only memorial that now remains of the predaceous old fellow.—Bangor Mercury.

That is what we call a rich joke; but after all, there is more truth than poetry in it.

GRAPE GROWING IN THE SANDWICH ISLANDS.—A correspondent of a San Francisco paper, writing from Honolulu, says that the recent passage by the Hawaiian Legislature of a bill permitting the manufacture of wine from native grapes, has proved the initiatory step to a decided and general movement for the wine culture. Grape vines are said to grow luxuriantly and to produce abundantly upon the islands, and probably ere long wine manufactories will spring up in various parts of the kingdom.

A liberal donation to the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society was made the past week by some unknown person. The amount was $5000—the largest sum ever given by one ndividual to this object.

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEGISLATURE.

HOUSE.—WEDNESDAY, 11th.

EVENING SESSION.—The bill to incorporate the Piscataqua Ferry company was read a third time and passed.

THURSDAY, 12th.

SENATE.—Bills, Resolutions, &c., passed.—An act authorizing the banks of this State to subscribe for stock in the Bank of Mutual Redemption, or any other bank of a similar nature.

An act to incorporate the New Market Bank.

An act to incorporate the Piscataqua Ferry Company.

A resolution postponing the subject of the alteration of the State House and the erection of a fire-proof building, to the next session.

Addresses for the removal of Israel Hunt, judge of the police court of Nashua; Geo. W. Moore, register of probate for Hillsborough county, and Perkins Gale, sheriff of Merrimack county.

HOUSE.—Mr. Berry of Hebron, from the Railroad Committee, reported in reference to the next session of the petitions concerning the fixing of passenger rates on railroads at 3 cents and not more than 4 cents per mile, and the report was accepted.

Mr. Emery of Portsmouth, from the Judiciary Committee, reported the bill concerning naturalization and the suffrages of naturalized citizens, without amendment, which was ordered to a third reading.

The bill was afterwards laid on the table.

Mr. Smith of Peterborough, from the delegation from Hillsborough county, reported the address for the removal of George W. Moore, register of probate of said county, without amendment. Adopted.

Omnibus removal measure.—The House took up the Senate papers on the table, and among them the address for the removal of Jas. W. Weeks, Judge of Probate for Coos county; John W. Barney, Register of Probate for Coos county: Napoleon B. Bryant, Solicitor for Grafton county; Benjamin A. Rogers, Solicitor for Belknap county; Samuel H. Edes, Solicitor for Sullivan county, and Geo. W. Brashridge, Sheriff of Strafford county. And they were severally concurred in.

Bills read a third time and passed.—Bill authorizing banks in this State to hold stock in the Bank of Mutual Redemption in Boston.

Proxy Voting.—Mr. Herbert of Rumney moved to take from the table the bill concerning proxy voting, and prohibiting the same, only on certain conditions, and the House assented. Mr. Herbert made some amendments; among them a proviso, that parties who might be sick when meetings of stockholders of railroads took place, should have the power of sending their proxy votes. Mr. Edwards of Keene offered an amendment, the effect of which was to give any person the right to cast fifty votes, his own and proxies included, at any meeting. On a division, the amendment of Mr. Edwards was adopted—125 to 48; and the bill as amended was read a third time and passed.

BEAUTIFUL SONGS.—Mr. James G. Clark, director and tenor singer of Ossian's Bards, has written and composed several very pleasing songs, duetts and glees; and is coming to be decidedly popular as a poet and musician. He is a thorough gentleman, and we are pleased to note his success. Among his latest publications, is a simple, grateful duet, entitled, "Meet me by the running brook," which has been received with much favor. We give the words below, by permission of the author.

Where the drooping willows grow;
Meet me in the shady nook,
Where the silver waters flow.

Friends we loved are broken hearted,
Smiles have flown and tears have started,
Since the time when we last parted,
In the days of long ago.

Meet me when the starlight plays,
O'er the waters bright and low;
Tell me of our youthful days,
E'er the heart knew pain or woe.

Joy will come to charm and leave us,
Singing hope will still deceive us,—
Life hath nothing dark to grieve us,
In the days of long ago.

Meet me when the starlight plays, &c.

THE CROPS AND WEATHER.—A trip into the country is highly satisfying as well as delightful. We do not know that we have seen grass look better in any season for the last five years.—and it is still growing finely.—This will put off the haying season a fortnight later than usual. Most kinds of grain, though late, have an excellent color. Corn is backward, as it always is in Maine, till the middle of July. Our farmers have learned that this is a fact of very little consequence compared with a good August and late frosts. Orchards are in a promising condition.—Portland Advertiser, of the 10th.

Millers and farmers are closing contracts for new wheat at $1 per bushel, deliverable in from ten to fifteen days. The first lots of wheat that have been brought will command $1 25; the extra quarter is the result of competition among the millers, as to who should grind the first lot of new wheat. We may expect flour to be about $6.50 in the month of August, and before the first of January it will doubtless sell for $4.50 and $5.—Vincennes (Ind.) Gazette.

THE CURRANT CROP.—We regret to publish the following intelligence, which comes in a letter from Patras, of June 11th:—

"I very much regret to have to inform you that the blight has again appeared in our plantations; in many localities, with more intensity than last year. I need not describe the alarm and dejection of our growers, and of all those whose interests are involved. A thin solution of glue is about to be used when the fruit will have grown to its full size, and it would appear that some hopes are entertained of its remedial operation.

☞ We are indebted to the proprietors of "Noisy Carriers' Mail," 77 Long Wharf, San Francisco, for a full supply of California papers, by the last steamer.

LOCAL.

THE CHRONICLE.—The only way to ensure the regular receipt of our paper, Daily or Weekly, is to subscribe for it at the office. We take no pains to supply transient calls for copies—deeming it not too much to ask, that those who care enough about the paper to read it, should be entered on our list as regular subscribers.

Our carriers are not supplied with copies of the paper for sale—and while we would request all who regard honesty, not to offer to purchase of them, we shall consider it a favor to be informed of any such sales; they can only be made at our expense or that of our subscribers.

LAUNCH.—A beautiful ship will be launched from the shipyard of George Raynes & Son, this day, at about 12 o'clock. She is 199 ft. on deck, 24 ft. 4 in. deep, and 38 ft. wide.—She is owned by Messrs. Isaac Bell, jr. and J. D. Simes, New York, and John Davis, John Chase and E. F. Sise, Portsmouth. She is intended for the general freighting business, and will be commanded by Capt. Davis.

A QUEER FISH TO BE CAUGHT IN A WEIR.—An enterprising fisherman who resides in Kittery, has erected a weir in the lower harbor, for the purpose of catching shad, mackerel, hard head, &c. A few days since he succeeded in getting quite a number of the above mentioned fish into his trap; and after the tide fell, he went as usual to secure them, when to his astonishment he found among them a halibut! T.

RIOTERS AND POLICE.—One of our police officers informs us, that when the police arrested Daniel Murphy, on Sunday night, for a drunken brawl, his friends and sympathizers began the same game of resistance which they so commonly practice. It required four men to convey him to the lock-up through the midst of his sympathizers. Had it happened otherwise, and one watchman alone been compelled in self defence to break a few of their heads, the whole posse of sympathizers would have been witnesses against him for assault and battery.

WELCH & LENT'S CIRCUS.—This establishment, justly celebrated as the largest and most complete equestrian company in America, is to exhibit in Portsmouth on Monday next, and will doubtless be liberally patronized, as our citizens generally are familiar with the high reputation which it has acquired by the excellence of its performances. In Boston, last week, the papers were unanimous in ascribing to it the highest praise for the varied, novel, attractive, and refined character of its entertainments. Some of the most renowned riders and vaulters living are comprised in this double company. *

N. H. INSANE ASYLUM.—We are indebted to Dr. John E. Tyler, Superintendent, for a copy of the fourteenth annual Report of the officers of the New Hampshire Asylum for the Insane, made in June. Rev. Dr. Burroughs of this city, is President of the Board of Trustees. The number of inmates at present is 155,—83 females, 72 males Whole number admitted from the opening of the institution, 1284, of which 548 have recovered, and many others been partially restored to reason. The examining committee speak in high terms of the character of the Asylum, and urge its immediate enlargement. The Superintendent acknowledges the receipt of means to effect various needful improvements, from Rev. Dr. Burroughs.

BIG HAUL.—The San Joaquin Republican says that a party of eight Chinamen found a pile of gold worth over $20,000 at Campbell's Flat, near Columbia. This may be considered a fair day's work.

The Paris correspondent of the New York Times, says that the Greely prosecution has been entirely abandoned, and it is not unlikely that Mr. G. will obtain damages for an unjust and illegal imprisonment.

SUICIDE.—Mr. Widger of Manchester, Mass., hung himself in his woodshed, last Saturday noon. It is said that monetary embarrassment was the cause of the act.

SCHOOL COMMISSIONER.—Jonathan Tenny, Esq., editor of the Stars and Stripes, has been nominated for School Commissioner of Hillsborough County.

PROF. AGASSIZ has been invited to accompany the Fishery Commission as the guest of the British Government.

GOOD MEDICINES.
It is estimated that AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL AND CATHARTIC PILLS have done more to promote the public health, than any other one cause.—There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Croup, Influenza, Bronchitis, &c., very much reduced the proportion of deaths from consumptive diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral, and will cure more complaints.

Everybody needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the bowels, liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body, to work its decay. But for diseases we should die only of old age. Take antidotes early and thrust ill from the system, before it is yet too strong to yield.

Ayer's Pills do thrust out disease, not only while it is weak, but when it has taken a strong hold. Read the astounding statements of those who have been cured by them from dreadful Scrofula, Dropsy, Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Internal Pains, Bilious Complaints, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and many less dangerous but still threatening ailments, such as Pimples on the face, Worms, Nervous Irritability, loss of appetite, Irregularities, Dizziness in the head, Colds, Fevers, Dysentery, and indeed every variety of complaints for which a Purgative Remedy is required.

These are no random statements, but are authenticated by your own neighbors and your own Physicians.

Try them once and you will never be without them.

NEW YORK, 12th.—A letter to the N. Y. Sun, dated Acapulco, June 23d, states that the revolutionary general, Comonfort, had surrounded Moralia, in the State of Michoacan, with 8000 troops. Santa Anna was in Moralia, with 10,000 men. All communication was intercepted, and there were rumors that the latter was about to capitulate.

Gen. C. R. Wheet of New Orleans, had just arrived there, and had been appointed General of Artillery.

THE LIQUOR LAW.—After the decision of Judge Birdsell yesterday, in the liquor case of Smith, several prominent liquor dealers were complained of as violators of the prohibitory law. Two or three were made against the proprietors of the Astor House.

In Williamsburg and Brooklyn the authorities are at work in earnest. Several liquor dealers were arrested yesterday, and large quantities of wines and liquors seized.

Mayor Hall, of Brooklyn, has issued another proclamation to the police, inciting them to increased vigilance in their efforts to detect and arrest the violators of the liquor law.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9th.—As this morning's express train, from Baltimore to Philadelphia, was rounding a curve near Staunton, Delaware, it ran over and killed a man named Matthew Cochran, of this city. He was lying across the track, either by design or in a state of intoxication. Deceased was a carpenter by trade, about 50 years of age, and has a family residing in the western part of the city. No blame is attributed to those in charge of the train, who did all in their power to avert the calamity.

DEATHS.—Colonel Alva Mann, formerly connected with General Welch as manager of the circus company, died in New York on Monday. He had many friends in this city.

Mrs. Catharine Scholey, the largest woman in the world, died in Scioto township, Piqua Co., Ohio, while sitting in her chair, on the 5th inst. Colonel Wood had exhibited this extraordinary woman in the West, and was about to take her to the Canadas for the same purpose. Colonel Wood had a life insurance on Mrs. Scholey for $25,000—$15,000 at the Hartford (Ct.) offices and $10,000 in Ohio.

STORE ROBBERY.—On the third of June the store of George W. Briggs, No. 328 Washington street, Boston, was broken into by boring through the partition between that and the adjacent store, and robbed of gold pens and other portable goods to the amount of about $700. No trace of an article has since been found. Information of the robbery has but just been disclosed, through a probably mistaken supposition that the rogue could be more easily discovered if the matter was kept secret.

MRS. CLINTON, the widow of De Witt Clinton, died at the residence of her daughter in Poughkeepsie, on Monday last, in the 73d year of her age. She was a lady of great cultivation and refinement, and of the utmost dignity of manners. In her dress, she retained the costume of the old school. She has passed the last two or three summers at Newport, where she received much attention, alike as the relict of one of the most distinguished statesmen of the country, and from her own personal claims to the highest consideration.

LOVE AND BUSINESS RUNAWAYS.—The Boston Journal states that a man named William Coker, who recently kept a grocery at No. 11 Central square, East Boston, eloped last week with the daughter of a highly respectable citizen of that ward. The runaways wished to be united in marriage, but the parents of the girl refused, and the elopement followed.

Plummer, the late landlord of the Maverick House, East Boston, who went off leaving his creditors minus 5000 or 6000, has been, it is reported, heard from in Minnesota.

ANTIQUITIES.—The Boston Transcript relates that at the Fourth celebration in Dorchester, Mr. Lewis Rice furnished two slices of bread about the color of sponge and the hardness of bricks, for the orator's stand in the pavilion. The tradition is that the bread was brought from England in the year 1630. It was placed on a copy of the Boston News-Letter, considerably more than 100 years old. The relics were objects of great interest.

LAW AND ORDER.—The New York Times relates the following:

We hear that two liquor dealers in the Eleventh Ward, on Wednesday took down their bars and turned their liquor into the streets. They said they would not continue in a business which was contrary to the law of the State. All honor to them.

CINCINNATI, July 11.—The British consul, Mr. Rowcroft, together with two recruiting officers and fifteen or twenty raw recruits, were arrested in this city yesterday, on a charge of violating the neutrality laws.

SUPPOSED CASE OF HYDROPHOBIA.—Yesterday afternoon a dog was killed in Union street, who exhibited signs of insanity.—Boston Telegraph Thursday.
